Airliner Lands Safely With Smaller Plane Embedded in Its Side by Mid-Air Collision

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — A jet-prop airliner, with the wreckage of a light plane and the bodies of its three young passengers embedded in its side, landed safely Sunday before most of the 10 passengers aboard knew what happened.

Capt. Ted Baum, 43, Skokie, Ill., brought the twin-engine plane in with one engine dead and his copilot badly injured in the cockpit.

"I thought that something was wrong, but not a collision," said Mrs. Nancy Steffens, 44, of Two Rivers. "I was more nervous after I got on the ground and realized it had been a collision."

"We didn't know what hit us. I think only the stewardess knew," said Wilma Ross, 17, of Saginaw, Mich., "and she just told us to stay seated with our seat belts on. The pilot came down with what seemed like a normal landing."

Officials said the single-engine Cessna 150 rammed North Central Airlines Flight 261, a Convair 580, over southern Wisconsin. The light plane hit just behind the copilot's seat, also damaging the propeller on the plane's right engine.

The copilot, first officer John Mazur, 30, of Wheaton, Ill., suffered multiple fractures of his right leg and head injuries. He was reported in serious condition in a Milwaukee hospital. He was the only person on the airliner injured.

The victim's bodies were removed after the plane landed. They were identified as Rick L. Stenberg, 19, of Elk Grove Village, Ill., the pilot; Virginia Johnson, 18, Mt. Prospect, Ill., and her brother, Richard, 12.

"That pilot did a fantastic landing job," a federal official said. Otherwise there was no comment as a team of about 35 National Transportation Safety Board investigators led by board examiner Thomas Saunders arrived from Washington to probe the cause of the crash.

Milwaukee police said the pilots told authorities they were flying 170 miles per hour at 3,500 feet, preparing to land at Milwaukee, when the private plane appeared suddenly on their right, then veered into the liner. The flight originated in Chicago and was headed to Manitowoc, with a stop at Milwaukee.

There was no panic in the big plane after the collision.

"I just felt a heavy thud and heard a bang," said Pam Pavlowich, who was returning to her Manitowoc home after a vacation. "Then someone yelled 'My God, take it easy,' and everyone got very quiet.

"Everyone acted very calmly," Miss Ross said. "Nobody panicked or anything. One woman just cried."

Top State Race for Senate

ST. LOUIS (AP) - The Weather Bureau forecasts hot weather ahead and the political forecast is hotter in Missouri's primary election Tuesday.

The hottest race in the primary is for the Democratic Senatorial nomination. Sen. Edward Long is seeking reelection and faces the hardest fight of his career. He has been engulfed by controversy surrounding a national magazine article linking him with pipefitter union leader Lawrence Callanan.

Long has five men fighting for his seat, but only two of them are serious contenders. So serious, in fact, that political experts call the race "too close to call." The contenders are Lt. Gov. Thomas Eagleton and True Davis of St. Joseph.

An estimated 850,000 voters are expected to go to the polls.

In the biggest state primary race the outcomes are hardly in doubt. Incumbent Gov. Warren Hearnes is expected to breeze to Democratic renomination. His Republic opponent almost assuredly will be St. Louis County Supervisor Lawrence Roos, who has only token opposition.

There is also one other relatively quiet primary battle. Rep. Thomas Curtis of Webster Groves is considered a sure thing in the Republican Senatorial race. But that's the last of the one-sided contests.

In addition to the Democratic Senatorial race, the eight-way race for Lieutenant Governor is a steaming affair. Of the eight men, four are considered to have chances. They are William S. Morris of Kansas City, Edward L. Dowd of St. Louis, State Senator John E. Downs of St. Joseph and James W. Shaffer of Kansas City.

Of those four Morris and Dowd have drawn the most publicity with their charges and countercharges and underworld connections.

Another race where underworld connection charges are being bandied about is for the Democratic nomination for attorney general. Russell Millin of Kansas City and incumbent Norman Anderson are fighting that one out.

Running second to the heated individual races are three proposals being put to the voters. One is a state - wide proposal for a constitutional amendment that would create a new line of succession in the case of disability or death of a governor.

There are two other big issues in the St. Louis area. One is the proposed extension of the nonpartisan court plan into St. Louis County. The other is a proposed $31.8 million school bond issue in St. Louis.

State Sen. Lem T. Jones Jr. of Kansas City is regarded as the probable Republican winner in the GOP race for lieutenant governor.

The Republican nominee for attorney general expected to be John C. Danforth of Creve Coeur, who is opposed by Joseph E. Furtaw of Hillsboro.

Secretary of State James Kirkpatrick has no primary opposition on the Democratic side, and Murray C. Colbert of Montgomery City, former state ASC chairman, is expected to fight off the challenge of Maurice S. Karner of Creve Coeur on the Republican ticket.

William E. Robinson, Jefferson City insurance man and treasurer of the Democratic state committee, is the front runner for the treasurer's nomination.

He will be opposed in November either by William T. Zimmerman of Warrenton, who has run before, or former State Sen. W. H. Macon, former St. Louis County Republican chairman.

Hot contests are expected in some of the state senatorial districts.

State Sen. Michael Kinney, DpSt. Louis, who has been in the Senate since 1913, faces serious opposition from a young Negro leader, Rep. Raymond Howard.

So does the second man in Senate seniority, Sen. Edgar J. Keating of Kansas City, who has been in the Senate since 1945 and served several terms in the House before that. He is being challenged by Rep. Harold L. Holliday, also a young Negro leader.

Polls open at 6 a.m. Tuesday and close at 7 p.m. except in rural areas where they stay open until sunset.

Circuit judges will be on call as usual to hear any voter complaints.

Most State Offices To Close for Election

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - Most state and local government offices will be closed Tuesday, election day in Missouri.

It's a state holiday, and many of the patronage employes of the state go home to help get out the vote.

One office that will be very much open is that of county clerk. The clerks will be getting ready to tabulate the vote as the tallies come in from the precincts Tuesday night- and sometimes Wednesday morning.

Fire Levels Anchor Inn at Grant City

An explosion and fire leveled the Anchor Inn in Grant City early today.

Sikeston firemen were called at 1:48 a.m. The building was blazing before firemen were called. Grant City is seven miles north of highway 61.

The unidentified person who called the Fire department said he was awakened by an explosion. The building was ablaze shortly afterward.

The business was not in operation and the building carried no insurance, Owner Jim Littleton, Sikeston, said.

The fire department was called at 8:18 p.m. Sunday to extinguish a fire in the attic of a house owned by Melvin B. Wilburn, 302 South Stoddard.

Faulty wiring was thought to be the cause of the fire. There was smoke damage throughout the house. Drapes in the living room were damaged. Most fire damage was confined to the attic.

Man Shot to Death After Argument

LILBOURN -- John Trimble, 45, was shot and killed at 6 p.m. Saturday on the Joe Bader farm one mile south of Baderville.

Charged with first degree murder is Roosevelt Quinn, 45, at whose home the shooting occurred.

Trimble was shot twice with a 10-gauge single barrel shotgun. One shot hit him in the right shoulder and neck, the other in the right pelvic region.

The sheriff's department said that Trimble and Quinn had been quarreling. Quinn surrendered to authorities when they went to the house to investigate.

He is being held in New Madrid county jail at New Madrid.

No inquest will be held.

Cat Dead So Boy Must Take Rabies Shots

A quick response was given Saturday to release of news that seven - year old George Anditon was bitten by a five - month - old cat, which may have had rabies.

The cat was injured in a fight with dogs when the Anditon boy picked it up and was bitten on the finger.

An effort was made to locate the cat for rabies tests but it was discovered after the news release that it had died.

The head of the cat was sent to a laboratory in Poplar Bluff.

Anditon's doctor requested that the boy take additional rabies shots because he believed the cat had been dead too long for an accurate test.

The Seabaugh woman received head and chest injuries, and a possible knee fracture.

Libraries Will Offer Film Service

JACKSON - The board of the Riverside Regional Library has passed a resolution to offer micro-film services of records of churches and organizations.

The service will insure the safe keeping of such records on vital statistics and history.

The library plans to engage the services of Central Microfilm Service Corporation of St. Louis to do the filming of records and the library furnishes the equipment to view and read the films and print copies from the film when needed.

Last spring when a fire destroyed the First Methodist church of Sikeston, all its records burned.

GOP Convention Opens With Nixon Driving Hard to Win Nomination on First Ballot

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Republican party opened its 29th national convention today with Richard M. Nixon pushing hard to win the GOP presidential nomination on the first ballot.

By the Associated Press's count he was about 100 votes short and his two top challengers, Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Ronald Reagan of California, were pinning their hopes on extending the balloting Wednesday night beyond two rounds.

Rockefeller got a big break when the 58-vote Ohio delegation caucused just before the opening and decided to stick with Gov. James A. Rhodes, a favorite son, on the first ballot.

Rockefeller's strategy is to try to keep the several favorite son candidacies among the states alive long enough to give the impression that Nixon does not have the strength to go over the top.

Reagan, meanwhile, was striving to pick off individual delegates—an effort which Rockefeller said at a news conference was meeting with some succes.

"I think the movement is to Reagan in many of the delegations," Rockefeller said.

Of his own efforts, he said he is picking up "bits and pieces." The governor said his count showed Nixon with 550, himself with 350 and Reagan with 250.

The AP figured it Nixon 574 Rockefeller 232 and Reagan 159, with 144 delegates uncommitted and a whopping 218 for favorite sons. Needed for victory: 667.

Both Rockefeller and Reagan brushed aside the possibility of second place on the GOP ticket.

"I was not built for standby equipment," Rockefeller said.

Said Reagan: "I ruled myself out of that spot some time ago."

And Reagan predicted he would score "around the 200 mark" on the first ballot. He starts with California's 86 as a favorite son.

Rockefeller beamed, winked and joked as he fielded newsmen's questions. But he was unable to report any massive shift of strength to his side and said he wasn't planning any major announcement between now and Wednesday night, when the balloting begins.

The Ohioans, meanwhile, decided at a breakfast meeting to stand behind Rhodes, at least on the first round. All but two of the 58 acceded to this tactic. The two mavericks were considered Nixon men.

The delegation chairman, John S. Andrews, said Reagan was trying to meet with the group and "we are attempting to work that out."

At the same time, Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's chief press spokesman, was telling reporters the former vice president did not intend to leave the choice of a running mate to the delegates.

Rather, Klein said, Nixon "will ask the convention to nominate his choice" and will disclose his choice after the presidential nominee is picked.

Nixon was due to fly in from New York later today to direct his drive from up close. There has been no doubt, though, that he has been calling all the shots.

The third in the field, Reagan, predicted the fight for the top spot would go beyond one ballot. He told newsmen cheerfully that the race was still open.

Reagan, quoted as telling an Alabama delegation caucus "I'm in this to win," was by all odds the busiest candidate in this overstuffed and overheated convention town.

Taking time out for a $500 plate fund-raising gala, Reagan scooted about town, meeting with southern and Rocky Mountain delegations in his efforts to win first ballot support away from Nixon.

Rockefeller, who called a morning news conference, registered an upsurge when 13 of Rhode Island's delegates caucused on their arrival and agreed to cast a first ballot vote for the New York governor.

Rockefeller was assured Massachusetts' 34 votes on the first round because of his write-in victory in that state's primary. However, Gov. John A. Volpe was working hard to swing a majority to Nixon on the second ballot, if there is one, despite his all but vanished hopes for the vice presidential nomination.

The ring of the Nixon anvil was predominant, although the candidate himself refrained from predicting a first ballot win. Nixon was to arrive for the convention tonight.

In the midst of the heavy campaigning, the convention's platform committee, headed by Illinois Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, came up with a 13,000 word document that seemed likely to get accepted without a ripple.

The committee adopted a Vietnam plank that urged "a progressive de-Americanization of the war" without "camouflaged surrender"—language obviously tailored to please both Nixon and Rockefeller.

The two leading candidates both praised the draft, while Reagan, whose views are more hawkish than the plank, had no immediate comment.

While the delegates were getting set for Wednesday's convention balloting, the evidence of the Nixon drive cropped up in many places.

Dirksen, who heads the 58vote Illinois delegation, helped turn on the burners for the Nixon forces with a public declaration that the former vice president "is so close to striking distance of the nomination that offhand I don't believe he could be stopped."

The Nixon pressure was such that Reagan felt it necessary to tell supporters of the former vice president in his California delegation that they would be "very foolish" if they tried to defect from his favorite son candidacy on the first ballot.

Reagan came away from a conference with Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes, a key man in the jockeying of the major candidates' for position, without any assurances about how long the Ohioan would or could hold the majority of his 58-vote delegation to his favorite son stance.

The Arkansas governor said, perhaps significantly, that he will not exert any pressure to swing the delegation to Nelson Rockefeller on the third ballot, although he said he thought the group would go with him if he did.

POOR CHARLIE SUGGESTS:

That you study the qualifications of Warren Hearnes for Governor.

Edward L. Dowd for Lt. Governor.

James C. Kirkpatrick for Secretary of State.

Russell Millin for Attorney General.

William E. Robinson for State Treasurer.

David Rolwing for Congress.

Tom Eagleton for United States Senator.

* * *

EAGLETON: BEST OF THREE

As the Missouri primary campaign draws a close, it seems to us that the one candidate who has come out of it most creditably, and who offers the brightest promise of future political service of a high order, is Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton, candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator.

Mr. Eagleton is a progressive, running for the Senate at a time when a wave of reaction is sweeping the country. Resentment against the Vietnam war, discontent over climbing prices and climbing taxes the backlash against urban riots and crime, racial fears and tensions, have all combined, in Missouri as elsewhere, to create a mean public mood which gives vent to such excesses as the George Wallace movement.

In these circumstances it might have been a temptation for Mr. Eagleton to abandon his principles and join the pack of politicians who seek to exploit the public sense of frustration. That he has not done so is the highest recommendation for his nomination next Tuesday.

In the face of a widespread unwillingness to listen to rational discourse, Mr. Eagleton has gone on discussing the issues that matter, thoughtfully and constructively - as for example in a recent speech exploring the implications of our ballooning military budget. This kind of campaigning may not get as much attention as public - relations razzle - dazzle, but it has more enduring worth. The current public mood will pass, and when it does Missouri will be grateful for having nominated a Senatorial candidate who did not bend to the wind.

The unfocused bitterness which marks this political season no doubt will have its greatest impact on incumbents, including Senator Edward V. Long. Within the framework of the "old politics" - the balancing of voting blocs and the eager service to group interests - Senator Long has not been a bad Senator. But this is a time for change, a time for new politics, and we therefore favor Mr. Eagleton's nomination. He is one of the ablest young politicians in the state, capable of becoming a truly distinguished Senator, and would be the most fitting Democratic candidate to face Republican Thomas B. Curtis in November.

It would be incomprehensible for the Democrats to nominate the third man in the primary contest, True Davis of St. Joseph. As the campaign has developed, Mr. Davis has revealed himself as more of a conservative than Mr. Curtis. A choice between these two in November would be no choice at all. Missouri has no need to send a Dixiecrat, to the Senate. If it wants conservatism, it should send Mr. Curtis there.

Mr. Davis, unlike Lt. Gov. Eagleton, is doing his best, which includes spending pots of money, to exploit the current public mood of frustration. Since he found out that many Missourians oppose gun controls, he has virtually based his campaign on the absurd proposition that any kind of gun regulation is equivalent to tacking a sign on the door welcoming rapists and criminals. More and more, he is campaigning in favor of the American flag and against Communism, neither of which are at issue in this election. While he has soft - pedaled his views on the Vietnam war in the St. Louis area, elsewhere he proudly parades as a hawk whose policy is to "win the war with no restrictions, except nuclear." He is running against inflation, "giveaway programs," dishonesty and immorality. He inveighs against Black Power outstate, and courts Negro votes with money and handouts in the cities.

This is the typical campaign of a wealthy right - winger who hopes to ride into office on a wave of public discontent, although he has not the faintest understanding of the sources of that discontent or what to do about them. Missouri Democrats who want the kind of political change they can be proud of when the current hysteria has subsided will vote for Thomas F. Eagleton for Senator.

DOWD OVER MORRIS

It is well known that Alex Presta, ex-convict and reputed associate of gangland characters, is backing W. S. (Bill) Morris for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

Mr. Morris, at the Press Club of St. Louis conference Thursday, had an opportunity to disavow this support. That he chose not to do so - only to say that he was not soliciting Presta's backing - was disturbing.

Edward L. Dowd, who charges that Morris is backed by former convict Jimmie Michaels of St. Louis, as well as Presta of Kansas City's wheeling and dealing North Side, says he wants no part of Presta or his associates.

Morris, however, claims he knows Presta only as a real estate man and politician.

Ordinarily we might accept Mr. Morris' apparent naivete without too much concern. But he is running for the second highest office in the state of Missouri. If he has not learned about the Presta reputation by now, it can be properly wondered how rigidly he might work to rid the state of underworld elements which reportedly have grown stronger in recent years.

Mr. Dowd, by contrast, is making the strong impression of a man who would use his power to make life miserable for disreputable elements in the state if he were elected lieutenant governor.

We prefer a man like Dowd who calls a spade a spade and a Presta a Presta. We know from his record, as head of the St. Louis Police Board and as Circuit Attorney, that we need have no misgivings about his judgment, integrity or strong desire to carry out the duties of his office.

On the basis of what we have seen and heard we are confirmed in the belief that Ed Dowd is much to be preferred to Mr. Morris who seems too heavily immersed in Kansas City politics and too unconcerned about where his support comes from. Globe Democrat

"Timely Items," published by the Public Service Company of Colorado, said: "Nationwide gasoline taxes, now averaging 10.6 cents a gallon, provided a total of $8.1 billion to federal and state coffers in 1967. Totally, since the first gasoline tax, a one - cent - a -gallon levy, went into effect in 1919, collections have amounted to $111 billion. During 1967, Americans registered about 97.5 million nonmilitary motor vehicles, which included 81 million passenger cars and nearly 16.5 million trucks and buses. Highway consumption of motor fuel for 1967 is estimated at 77.8 billion gallons."

UPPER RIGHT CORNER

A good many voters are going to come face to face with a constitutional amendment on Tuesday, and wonder what the amendment means. It has not had much publicity and has no immediate applicability, yet it is important.

The amendment would establish a system for gubernatorial succession in Missouri, similar to the plan recently added to the United States Constitution. Missouri's succession would run from the Governor to Lieutenant Governor to president pro tempore of the Senate and speaker of the House, and so on.

What is perhaps more important, as it was on the federal case, is the provision for gubernatorial disability, physical or mental. The amendment would create a disability board of nine high officials to declare that the Governor is incapable of carrying out his duties. If the Governor felt otherwise, the Supreme Court would have to settle the issue.

Voters may hope that Missouri never will need to employ such a process affecting the highest office in the state, but hope is not assurance or insurance. The amendment represents the latter, and merits approval.

GOOD REASONF FOR SURGE TO ED DOWD'S CANDIDACY

Has Edward L. Dowd of St. Louis overtaken his chief rival, W. S. (Bill) Morris, in the critical race for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor of Missouri?

Reports reaching key Democratic workers indicate he may have.

The information is highly significant because Bill Morris was conceded to have had a major start on other candidates, including Dowd, in his campaign for the office.

However, we are not surprised by the reports.

We are convinced that if sufficient Missourians have the occasion or take the time to compare the candidacies of the nine - man field they will nominate Dowd because he is by far the best suited and qualified for the office. He is best suited in background, statesmanship, integrity and common sense for the office, which is only a "heart beat" from the governor's chair.

Moreover, a major issue in the race now is Bill Morris' association with the dubious Kansas City North Side political faction, whose boss is ex-convict Alex Presta. Moreover, the St. Louis Pipefitters, headed by ex-convict Lawrence Callanan, are expected to support Morris.

Candidate Morris denies receiving any funds from the Pipefitters. And he contends he has made no promises to anyone. And that he is his own man.

Yet, it is common knowledge that Presta and Callanan do not accept no for an answer very readily. They will try to demand payment on any political IOUs - past or present, large or small.

As we have indicated, we do not know whether Mr. Morris has made any promises - big or small - to such dubious elements. But we do not believe the associations - whatever the extent - can be ignored.

In Edward L. Dowd, Missourians need not have the slightest misgiving, qualm or question. He is a candidate of stature in every sense of the word. A candidate for all Missourians - rural and urban.

The office of lieutenant governor of Missouri is too important .... too critical .... to settle for anything less than the best.

We hope Mid-Missourians, who have been leaning toward Bill Morris or some other candidate, will switch their support to Edward L. Dowd in Tuesday's primary election. The stakes are too steep to do anything else.

NEW YORK (AP) — Some people collect old shoe buttons, Chinese proverbs, barbed wire or picture post cards.

My friend Toby collects friends.

She needs no formal introduction to add a new specimen to her vast assemblage. She accumulates them everywhere—in the subway, at the adjacent restaurant table, even while waiting for the light to change.

A stranger who stops to ask directions has, within the next five minutes, become a firm friend. Not only have the two exchanged life histories but they have formulated plans for having lunch together within the next week.

This acquisitive habit of hers necessarily slows down our progress on joint outings. At the store counter we can't simply pick and pay—she has to take time to talk to any likely prospect in the vicinity.

Not long ago I accompanied my friendly friend on our weekly grocery-shopping expedition. At the produce department she spotted another woman and the two rushed together with excited exclamations of greeting. As I hovered nearby filling my basket with peaches and potatoes, carrots and cucumbers, I caught snatches of their conversation:

"And your son," inquired Toby, "is he still troubled with allergy["

"Oh, the shots are helping," replied the other. "What college did your daughter finally decide to attend["

Plainly, this was no casual acquaintance. I wasn't sure whether they'd grown up together or had merely lived in the same neighborhood for years, but obviously they were well versed in the details of one another's lives. I ambled slowly along the aisles, allowing them plenty of time to catch up on recent happenings before I finally indicated my impatience to get out of the store.

Reluctantly the two parted, with fervent hopes of getting together again soon.

"Well," I pointed out, a bit miffed, "you really might have introduced me to such an old friend."

"I'm so sorry," Toby apologized, "but I don't even know her name. She's a woman I got to talking to a few weeks ago while we were both waiting at the meat counter."

Several plane loades of United states clothing designers will shortly head for Stockholm, Sweden, where they will meet in semi-annual convention with other members of the International Association of Clothing designers, reports the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear. Ideas will be exchanged, fashions will be shown and a closer working relationship will be established among those who represent the highly-important clothing industries of many countries. There will be another benefit for the American designers - while they are in Stockholm and on inspection tours of clothing plants in England, France and Italy. They will be wearing their own product, and they will thus constitute the best-dressed group seen in those parts in many a day. CHRISTIANITY'S PROCEPTS

Christmas is almost upon us. The cherry bells of loyal Salvation Army workers are a sure sign of the season. They and similar evidence of the gentle customs and traditions of Christmas are reassuring proof that we still live in a reasonably stable society.

If we will but observe Christmas in its broader meaning this year, it should help bring reason and humility to our aid in finding answers to man-made evils.

Christianity is the faith of civilized man. Its precepts become most clear in the enduring observances of the Christmas Season. The disorders that have swept the world and our land are a signal that we should repair to the precepts of Christianity, and there is no better time to start than this Christmas Season.

H.L. Hunt Says

WORKERS AND COMMUNISM

Communist propaganda boasts that communist countries are a paradise for the working class. Because capitalists no longer own industry, so the propaganda goes, workingmen enjoy ideal conditions.

Nothing is further from the truth. When communism takes over, freedom is lost. When an economy cannot function in freedom, all people suffer.

In communist countries, the state controls industry. The obvious result of centralized control of business and industry is a great loss of efficiency. Since the communist leaders do not dare to admit their failure, they place the responsibility for the decreased production on the workers and put even greater burdens on them in an attempt to regain the lost capacity. Thus the workers are much worse off than they ever were before communism.

A recent example of the fate of workingmen under communism was reported in the Weekly Labor Forecast and Review. This publication stated that at a May Day rally, a Cuban labor official said: "The eight-hour workday has become a ridiculous thing." He called for a ''workday of conscience ... dictated by revolutionary duty."

What he obviously meant was that production had fallen considerably under communism, and therefore workers would be forced to work longer hours in an attempt to increase production.

This was confirmed by a later Havana Radio announcement that 8,000 workers at a cement plant near the city had changed from eight-hour days to twelve-hour days. They received no increase in pay.

When a slave state such as communist Cuba is set up, the only one who "benefit" are the communist leaders who control the system. The workers inevitably suffer. HLH

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY: Rockefeller leads candidates in government experience; his grandfather was most hated man in America; right wing Republicans now hate Nelson.

(Editor's Note -- The Washington Merry-Go-Round continues its diagnosis of Republican candidates, today focusing on Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York.)

ROCKEFELLER PREDICTION

Exactly 10 years ago -- August 25, 1958--Drew Pearson made this interesting comment: "The Republican state convention meeting in Rochester ..., is grooming a man who may challenge Vice President Nixon for the Presidential nomination -- Nelson Rockefeller."

Today in Miami the real showdown for the GOP nomination is between Nixon and Rockefeller.

MIAMI -- In 1942 when Nelson Rockefeller was appointed coordinator of Latin - American affairs by Franklin Roosevelt there was a howl of protest from the countries he was supposed to coordinate.

The Latin - American Press pointed to the fact that for years American Oil Companies had exploited them; that the American fleet had fired at Vera Cruz and Tampico in 1917 because of a dispute over oil; yet Roosevelt had put in charge of Latin - American affairs a scion of the family which had built up the biggest oil fortune in the world.

One year later, however, the Latin - American press was singing a different tune. In one year they had found in Nelson Rockefeller a friend and champion. It discovered the truth of the remark which Bernard Gimbel made to John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Nelson's father, when John D. arrived a little early for the dedication of a new Gimbel Brothers Department Store.

Mr. Gimbel remarked on John D.'s boys -- Laurence, who had gone in for helping the government acquire national parks; John D. III, who was helping the city of New York build Lincoln Center; Winthrop, who was on the way to becoming governor of Arkansas, and Nelson, who had just become governor of New York.

"You deserve a lot of credit for raising a family like that," said Mr. Gimbel.

"Mrs. Rockefeller had something to do with it," replied John D. Jr.

HATED GRANDFATHER

The dedication of the Rockefeller family to public service is now such an old story that it's almost a new story. Few people of this generation have any recollection of how bitterly old John D. was hated at the turn of the century.

Today his grandsons -- especially Nelson -- are loved by those who hated old John D., and hated by those who admired the economic buccaneering of his grandfather. It is the extreme right wing of the Republican party which condones the monpolistic tactics which that built up the Rockefeller fortune. And it is these admirers of old John D. who booed his grandson at San Francisco to the point where he could not speak.

Seldom has a candidate of either party been treated more discourteously. And the big question at Miami is -- can the man who was booed in 1964 stage a comeback in 1968? If so, even the Democrats admit that he could win in November.

NELSON'S RECORD

To get the answer let's first look at the record.

Few men are more experienced in government today than Nelson Rockefeller. Under Roosevelt and Truman he became assistant Secretary of State, in which capacity he helped negotiate the Treaty of Chapultepec, binding the Americas to resist foreign communism.

He went on to serve as undersecretary of HEW under Eisenhower and later on Ike's White House staff, where he was not happy. Nelson is a man who wants to get things done, and Ike was surrounded with men who wanted to sit tight. Frustrated, he got tired and went back to New York, though not before selling Ike the No. 1 achievement of the 1955 summit conference in Geneva.

One of the authors of this column, lunching with Eisenhower and Nelson in 1948, had tried to sell him on a policy of people - to - people friendhsip with the countries behind the iron curtain. The friendship train had dramatically pioneered this kind of people- to - people friendship becane the No. 1 achievement of the Summit meeting. It has been a part of American policy ever since.

Bored with so little other accomplishment in Washington, however, Nelson went up to New York to run for governor. He ran against a highly popular Democrat who had made a great record -- Averell Harriman.

But Nelson had behind him a long record of Rockefeller Public Service; the gift of the beautiful UN building to the United Nations; the development of Lincoln Center for the new Metropolitan Opera house; a gift of around $40,000,000 over the years to Negro colleges; other gifts to Catholic and Jewish charities.

Several hundred million dollars used for the public good, especially when accompanied by sincerity, dedication, and charm, is hard to beat. Nelson was elected governor of New York in 1958, and has been reelected by increasing majorities ever since.

The secret of these majorities is the vote of Democrats.

A lot of Republicans don't like Rockefeller, consider him much too liberal. Remarked Alexander "Casey" Jones, former editor of the Washington Post, then editor of the Syracuse Herald: "I've been a Republican all my life. I want to keep on being a Republican. But this fellow Rockefeller is making it awfully hard for me."

Essentially this is why Rockefeller was booed at San Francisco and why he is the underdog in Miami.

The inescapable fact is that a lot of Republicans would rather lose with Nixon than win with Rockefeller. But what Rocky says is true: In order to win, the Republicans have to capture a sizeable slice of Democratic votes; and he could do it. That is the choice facing the Republican party at Miami.

Inside Labor

Johnson Plans Pre-Convention Chicago Demonstration of His Own

Washington, D. C.: -- If it's a demonstration they want, Lyndon Baines Johnson is about to give it to them. The President, presumably now a cross between a hawk and a lame duck, plans to show the doves just how it's done -- and right in Chicago's International Amphitheatre at that.

A few days before the Democratic National Convention, he'll fly into the windy city for a "non-political" speech to thousands of built-in delegates, cheers, snake dances, drum beats, and fraternal affections all guaranteed.

For, these will be the delegates, friends and wifes all gathered for the United Steelworkers' 14th Constitutional Convention at the Amphitheatre the week of August 19.

Mr. Johnson, one morning in midweek, will walk onto that platform amid brasses howling All Hail the Chief and Solidarity Forever. Around him will be the powerhouse of labor -- the men of steel led by I. W. (Abe) Abel, who coincidentally, is chairman of the National Labor Committee For Humphrey.

None of this will be lost of the delegates to the Democratic National Convention, who will move into the giant auditorium when the steelworkers move out. Mr. Johnson will be showing the flag for the team -- himself, Hubert Humphrey, and the labor establishment. This is a formidable combine.

It will mark the week when labor really begins rolling out the barrel, the red carpet, and the manpower.

And all of it before the greatest concentration of typewriter and electronic newsmen this overwrought civilization has known.

Certainly, Lyndon Johnson will shilelagh the steel corporations. But the order, ardor and armoa, of the gathering will be politics.

It will all start early on the morning of August 19 when Vice President Humphrey, frolicking among men he has known intimately for some 25 years, takes 1,000 breakfasters into his confidence at the O'Hare International Inn.

They'll all be guests of the newly dynamic Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks -- which proved its modernity not too long ago be choosing a one man dynamo, C. L. Dennis as it's chief executive officer, and later, by buying a piece of the Miami Dolphins football team.

After the breakfast a long caravan will drive for two minutes ground-breaking ceremonies at the site of what will be the Brotherhood's new national headquarters, a seven-story building set near the airport so orgainizers can fly in, confer and fan out, all in a few hours. It's a new unionism.

Among the thousand bacon and eggs guests will be the nation's most influential labor chiefs, who see Hubert Humphrey as their one, intense hope of stopping the Republicans.

Later the caravan will head for the Amphitheatre where the steelworkers delegates will waite, placard in hand, bands at the alert, all joyous at having won the fatt at wage and benefit contract in their three decades.

Then Mr. Humphrey will stir things up, knowing full well that this is one demonstration the hecklers won't disrupt. No one but steelworkers ever disrupt a steelworkers' convention.

Following the Vice President by 24 hours will be cigar-chomping George Meany, the leader of 13.5 million workers who looks like a center for the old New York Giants, and moves like an Ivy League offensive quarterback.

No doubt Mr. Meany will stay on to be with his old comrade in arms, Lyndon Johnson, who will be talking with other comrades such as the pro of pros, Richard Daley.

Then the labor strategists will hole up in the Hotel Drake, and as, they did in Los Angeles back in '60, throw around their considerable weight.

At least 250 union officials will be delegates to the Democratic convention. But, truly, their strength is qualitative as much as quantitative.

The men of the academies like to think of labor leaders as so much beef on the hoof. Not so. These are fantastic political strategists.

They know that most of the northern, midwestern, western and even some of the southern delegates must come to them for local financing and campaigning. And because these delegates will heed the arguments of the labor men, the 250 pro-Humphrey delegates hardly are a measure of labor's influence at the Democratic nominating sessions.

The National Labor Committee for Humphrey is not just paper mache and news releases. It's a going business now that the convention is at hand, and Mr. Humphrey's hydra-headed, discombobulated, personal machine has shown it creaks most of the time.

Just for example, there's the labor committee's newly organized New York section, set in motion quietly in Albany on Friday, July 26. Its leaders, the garment workers' Louis Stulberg and his assistant, Gus Tyler, the committee's executive director, have done their homework.

Their studies show that the average age of the American voter today is 48 -- not 28 or 38. About half the eligible voters between 21 and 35 aren't registered. Others are just setting up homes, or are on the move, or at universities and just don't vote.

So while it's grand fun, and exciting, and full of street circuses, to reach for the youth -- which must be done -- the most powerful voting bloc averages just under 50. And most of them are in the under -- $10,000-a-year income bracket.

The New York Labor Committee For Humphrey will be reaching out for them. And this committee is made up of 90 unions led by such national labor leaders as Lou Stulberg, the hands' Dick Walsh, and the Service Employes' Dave Sullivan.

They're set for high gear, high politics, high campaigning. Chicago is their first stop.

Missouri Miss Nearly Misses Chance to Sing

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. AP - A Missouri Miss nearly missed her chance to open the Republican National Convention by singing the National Anthem.

Judith Otten and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Otten of Liberty, Mo., were delayed en route to the airport at Kansas City Saturday night.

They arrived just as their plane was ready to take off, but too late to get aboard.

As a substitute, the Ottens were flown to Dallas, then to New Orleans, and finally to Miami, arriving Sunday without sleep.

Miss Otteen visited convention hall for a rehearsal before trying to get some rest.

On hand for his eighth Republican national convention is James P. Kelly, former state GOP chairman who is president of Kemper Military Academy at Boonville, Mo.

Kelly was the party chairman in Missouri in 1962 and 1963. He is a former state senator who then resided at Trenton, Mo.

Kelly attended his first republican national convention in 1936 and except for the wartime convention of 1944, hasn't missed one since.

Dexter Caps Title

A three-run fifth inning explosion powered Dexter into the championship of the 13th annual Sikeston Little League baseball tournament for 9 and 10 year olds.

Dexter overcame a 3-2 deficit with the three runs in the fifth and held on for a 5-4 win over Illmo-Scott City.

Oran claimed the consolation prize by out-lasting Bell City 13-10.

Receiving honorable mention were Mike Bevins of Bell City, Steve Hanschen and David Huering of Illmo-Scott City, Ed Nunnelee of the Sikeston All - Stars, Ricky Hamm of Oran and Robbin Davis of Dexter.

Rain halted action for two days during the scheduled week long tournament, forcing the finals to be played Sunday.

Three games dot tonight's opening schedule of the 13th annual Sikeston Little League baseball tournament for 11 and 12 year olds.

Richland meets Morley at 6 p.m. in the tourney opener with the American All-Stars facing Bell City in the 7:30 p.m. second game and the National All-Stars going against Oran in the 9 p.m. windup.

The tourney was originally set for Puckett field, but due to the wetness of the field all games will be played at Farris field on Murray Lane.

Chief of Police Arthur Bruce was associated with four baseball teams this summer, with all finishing near the top.

Chief managed his Babe Ruth team to a first place tie while the American league Police team capped its league title and Legion of the National and KSIM of the Musial league finished second.

In all his teams finished with a 45-15 record.

Once-bare fields and fencerows throughout Missouri are richer and more productive, by more than eight million trees and more than a million multiflora rose plants, following the Conservation Department's annual distribution of planting stock this year.

In addition to the trees and rose plants, the department's forestry division also distributed more than 6,600 wildlife bundles containing more than 900,000 seedlings for quail, other birds and for pond plantings.

Most of the trees distributed went to private landowners in Missouri, who received and planted 3,815,292 seedlings in 1968, and federal and state lands received slightly more than three million trees.

Of the trees that went to private landowners, most - - 1,255,020 -- were short leaf pine. Scotch pine, a favorite Christmas tree, was second most popular with 814,716 if them distributed. Other popular trees were loblolly pine, 367,060; white pine, 381,835; jack pine, 314,010; and black walnut, 309,250.

Missouri taxpayers bought $119,920 worth of coyotes and $2,741.50 worth of bobcats last year, according to a study of the state's predator bounty system by a Conservation Department biologist.

Each year since 1962 the amount paid by counties and the state for bounties has risen steadily. Each year since 1962 the number of coyotes bountied has also risen steadily.

In 1962, bounties on coyotes totalled $50,564. The coyote bounty index -- the number of animals bountied per 100 square miles in bounty - paying counties -- was 7.18 in 1962. Last year it was 17.90.

Conservation officials have argued that the increase in coyotes in the face of increasing bounty payments proves bounties do not work. If the bounty system actually reduced the number of coyotes, they said, the coyote population would long ago have declined severely and predator damage to livestock would now be rare.

Last year in Missouri, 104 counties offered bounties on coyotes and 34 offered bounties on bobcats.

The Conservation Department has studied annual bounty statistics since 1963. The studied are now carried on by Frank W. Sampson under grants from the Federal Pittman-Robertson Fund of receipts from excise taxes on sporting firearms and ammunition. It is one of many kinds of studies supported by this fund.

Bounties have been paid in Missouri every year since 1825, and before statehood were paid by the territory starting in 1817.

The study says:

"The presence of bounties on coyotes and bobcats, the absence of bounties on red and gray foxes, harvests for sport, pelt sales and predator control seem to have had little influence on expected normally varying trends in the populations of these four species during the period of investigation."

The factor that has made a measurable difference in predator damage is the Conservation Department's extension predator control program.

The program is based on the fact that eating habits of coyotes and other predators normally do not include the meat of domestic animals. When livestock is damaged, usually one animal in the neighborhood coyote population is to blame. Somehow, one coyote -- "wolf" to some Missourians - has developed a taste for lamb, veal or turkey. All the bounties in the world will not stop the damage if the hunters miss the one villain that is to blame.

Potlatch Wins 3 of 4 on Road

Potlatch, in preparation for the August 13-18 Connie Mack baseball tournament at VFW stadium, moved back into Sikeston yesterday after completing a successful road trip to Springfield where it won three of four games.

The wins moved the Foresters record to 29-7 for the season.

It opened with an 11-1 win over Republic Friday behind Tim Halter's pitching. It won an extra inning duel behind the relief work of Wayne Limbaugh, 6-4, over Hillcrest and won behind Rick Wilson, 6-1 over Republic before dropping the final game to Hillcrest, 10-2.

Limbaugh went 10 for 12 at the plate for the Foresters, including two doubles and one triple.

Manager N. P. McDaniel has scheduled two games for this week meeting Cape's Connie Mack entry there Tuesday and playing host to the team Thursday.

Teams from five states will meet at VFW stadium in the regional event.

Making of A Champion

The 13-year-old Louisiana boy was supposed to shoot a shotgun into the air to scare blackbirds out of his employer's rice crop.

But temptation stood nearby. The lad couldn't resist trying to ride his boss's cantankerous Charolais bulls. However, the boss caught him and chastisement was quick, though ineffective.

Today that boy -- getting his riding start the hard way -- is bareback bronc riding champion of the world.

He is Clyde Vamvoras...25 years old, and reminiscent of early - day bronc riders who found satisfaction in a challenge.

Vamvoras, formerly of Lake Charles, La., and now living near Burkburnett, Texas, won the 1967 National Finals Rodeo in Oklahoma City, Okla., last December, the well- muscled Vamvoras won the nine-bronc average by riding them all. The Finals is open only to the top 15 cowboys in each rodeo event, determined by the amount of money they won during the season.

How does he feel about the championship?"It's an honor to win one," he said. "You (damned) sure don't get it in a cracker - jack box."

Vamvoras knows of which he speaks. Shortly after his initial and secretive bull riding efforts at Iowa, La., he took his hard - earned paper route money "and paid a man 50 cents a head to ride his bareback broncs."

Five years later, at age 18 and after winning the All Around Cowboy title (winning in two or more events) in Louisiana high school competition, Vamvoras turned professional and joined the Rodeo Cowboys Association.

He finished fourth for the bareback crown in 1965, and despite a crippling hand injury in 1966, was ranked in fifth place.

How important is a cowboy's riding hand?"You've got to take care of it -- do or die -- because you make a living with it," he replied.

Nicknamed "V.V." by his cowboy cohorts, he was injured in a New Orleans rodeo in 1962. A doctor placed pins in his broken shoulder to hold it together, and Vamvoras was sidelined.

He returned to rodeo in 1963 and started his climb toward the championship, which was still four years away.

At Denver's 1968 National Western Rodeo, five of pro rodeo's new national event champions were presented singly to the capacity crowd. Vamvoras was elated with his hard- earned achievement, and when the announcer introduced Vamvoras, the champion brought the crowd to life by emitting an ear - splitting war - hoop; then he charged his saddle pony at a furious pace around the arena, pulled it to a fast and dusty stop, jumped from the horse and threw his expensive western hat high into the crowd. The spectators loved it, and so, supposedly, did an astonished Gov. John Love of Colorado, who was waiting to shake the champion's hand.

A dark - complexioned and good looking bachelor, with an astute eye for a shapely figure, Vamvoras was asked if he intends to marry. He might have worded his reply like this:

"I'm fond of children and would like to have them around, but I don't feel that at the moment I'm ready for the pressures of marriage."

That isn't what he said.

His actual reply was:

"Nooo, I don't feel it's the thing to do... pretty big step. I wouldn't mind having a few colts running around -- if I could have them without some women throwing water- gravy fits all the time."

There is one woman, however, who figures strongly in the champion's life. He credits her as the main reason he won the title.

"My mother really encouraged me," he said in a rare quiet moment. "She's tickled I won, and she's twice as happy as I am. She kept after me to try to win it; she believed I could, and I probably never would have attempted it if not for her...she's quite a woman."

Chicago In Pursuit, Sweeps Card Series

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The new statue of Stan Musial outside St. Louis' Busch Stadium stands 10 feet tall...or about shoulder high to Leo Durocher and the Chicago Cubs.

Durocher's sky-high Cubs spoiled a Musial Appreciation day at St. Louis Sunday by bringing down the Cardinals 6-5 in a 13-inning struggle.

The Cubs have won six in a row, including three against the runaway National League leaders, and have shot from ninth place, on July 12, to second with a run of 18 victories in their last 23 games.

Musial, the NL's seven-time batting king before he moved into the Cardinals' front office, donned his old uniform and joined former 1941 teammates during the pre-game ceremonies. The bronze statue, created by Carl Mose of Washington, D.C., was unveiled after the game at one of the main entrances to the stadium.

In between, a capacity crowd of 47,44 saw the Cubs battle St. Louis ace Bob Gibson to a standoff for 12 innings before beating r liever Joe Hoerner on a run-scoring pinch single by Lee Elia in the 13th.

Elsewhere, Los Angeles rookie Mike Kekich beat New York 2-0 with a one-hitter after the Mets won the doubleheader opener 8-4; Cincinnati downed Atlanta 6-4 in 12 innings; San Francisco topped Pittsburgh 2-0 and Philadelphia nipped Houston 3-2.

In the American League, Detroit took Minnesota 2-1; Baltimore trimmed New York 5-3; Cleveland drubbed Oakland 7-4 after bowing to the Athletics 5-0; Boston defeated California 5-1 in the completion of an earlier susp $p't game, then lost to the Angels 12-6 and Chicago whipped Washington 7-2.

Gibson, gunning for his 13th straight triumph, settled for a no-decision after being tagged for five runs—two more than 'jilallowed in any previous start since April 20.

The Cards' 15-game winner pitched out of a couple of early bases-loaded jams, was tagged for a seventh inning homer by Billy Williams that tied the game 3-3 and lost a 4-3 lead in the ninth when Al Spangler hit his first pitch for a homer—the first of the year for the Chicago outfielder.

Don Kessinger sent the Cubs ahead 5-4 with a run-scoring single in the top of the 12th but the Cards quickly retied it when Johnny Edwards, batting for Gibson, doubled and Lou Brock stroked an RBI single.

The Cubs finally pushed over the winning run in the 13th on Randy Hundley's single, a sacrifice and a two-out single.

Costs to Alter Plans for Bridge

POPLAR BLUFF -- Plans for the new Vine Street bridge will be altered and submitted for approval at Monday night's meeting of the city council following two special council sessions.

Mayor Earl Porter, Councilmen and engineers studied bids opened at a special meeting and found the three bids were higher than the estimated cost and the $151,000 bridge expenditure authorized by the voters in a nearly unanimous vote in February.

William G. Riddle and Associates, the City's consulting engineering firm, had estimated that the structure could be built for a cost of about $120,000.

Thinking the bridge could be built for that amount and allowing an additional $31,000 for an engineering and any other costs, the council set the bridge bond issue at $151,000.

Bids ranged from $154,449.38 for construction alone, by Paul Montgomery, to $176,248.20 submitted by the A. G. Construction Co., of Perryville. The Githens Construction Company submitted a bid of $166,421.95.

After discussing the bids the council recessed until 7 p.m. to resume discussions on the bridge project.

Because he was low bidder, Paul Montgomery was selected to work with the engineers to revise the plans as soon as possible.

"Increased steel prices and higher labor costs in the past several months attributed to the bid prices which exceeded the earlier cost estimates, "Riddle said.

Riddle will meet the Council Monday night with a revised plan intended to lower the cost and place the project within the bond issue authority.

The original plans called for a 26 feet trafficway with two pedestrian lanes, four feet wide, on each side. The trafficway or pedestrian lanes, or both, may be reduced, the engineer said.

Melon Producers Have Good Year

PORTAGEVILLE - Bootheel melon producers are apparently having a good year with ample yields and a relatively good price, reported Henry Dicarlo, horticulturalist for the University of Missouri Delta Center.

He said producers report good crops of melons and buyers are paying about 1.5 cents per pound, a relatively good price from the field.

Dicarlo said stacks of watermelons along roadsides in some areas have apparently led some travelers to think that there is a mounting surplus of unsold melons but this is not the case.

Instead, he said, in nearly every instance such stacks of melons have been placed along the roadside to be picked up by trucks or buyers.

Thunderbirds to Perform at Blytheville Base Open House

BLYTHEVILLE AIR FORCE BASE, Ark.-The United States air force official serial demonstration team, the Thunderbirds, will highlight the day's activities for the open house at Blytheville Air Force Base, Friday.

Starting at 6 p.m., the team will spend thirty minutes putting their Super Sabre jets through their paces.

Flying at times only 50 feet above the ground, at 600 miles per hour, they maintain a formation in which their wingtips overlap 36 inches and have a vertical separation of 60 inches.

The gates to the base will open at 2 p.m., with aircraft and other exhibits and displays.

Scheduled at 4:15 p.m. is a demonstration by SAC's drill team. "The Americans", a team of parachutists from Fort Bragg, N.C., will perform.

The team will freefall for up to 75 seconds after jumping from a low-flying C-47 aircraft, before pulling their ripcord and landing in front of the crowd of spectators.

Minimum interval takeoff of B-52 s and KC-135 s will be another highlight. Spectators will see SAC's heavyweight bomber and its sister ship take off, seconds apart, one behind the other, as a demonstration of how the tactical fleet of aircraft can be launched in minimum time.

Low October Draft Call

WASHINGTON, AP - The Pentagon has ordered 13,800 men drafted in October, one of the year's lowest monthly quotas.

The October call is up slightly from September's previously announced 12,200 but well below the high of 48,000 last April.

Pentagon officials say the recent low draft calls reflect a dip in the number of men rotating out of the military services.

SNAKE PIT 'SIT-IN' OUT

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — The latest craze in South Africa is to have a solo "sit-in" in a snake pit. World records have been claimed in different parts of the country but authorities here thought it a bit much when plans were announced for an 11-year-old boy, Sydney Crawford, to spend 10 days with snakes as his only companions. The family's first two calls on a newly installed telephone were orders from the local magistrate and police sergeant to drop the whole idea.

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — More people left New Zealand in the year ended March 31 than arrived to settle.

It was the first time this has happened for many years, and resulted in a migration loss of 10,147 compared with a gain of 13,499 in the previous year.

The natural increase reported by the government statistician was 37,091, making New Zealand's population 2,755,092 at March 31.

Regional Jails Urged for Missouri by Committee

ST. LOUIS AP - A report, based on a study of Missouri county jails, has recommended broad changes in jail administration.

The report by the Governor's Citizens Committee on Delinquency and Crime, said most Missouri jailes are old, inadequate, ineffective and dangerous.

The report was submitted to Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton, the committee chairman.

The report recommended that the State Department of Corrections by given the power to develop a system of regional jails throughout Missouri.

Eagleton said the report will be used by the Governor's Citizens Committee in preparing recommendations to the governor and the General Assembly next year.

"Records are poorly kept and not reported nor analyzed for use in planning; leadership on the local, county, and state level to develop a good jail system been virtually absent."

"Jail inmates sit in idleness, despair and isolation from the community. The history of jails is a gruesome chronicle of a social - legal misadventure in handling society's villians, failures, friendless, poor, rebels, and other arrested citizens."

Jails in St. Louis, St. Louis County, and Jackson County were not included in the study.

Final Arguments Due In Power Dispute

NEW MADRID -- Final arguments in a power - line dispute between the Sho-Me Power Corp., and the Missouri Inter - agency Council will be held Monday by the Missouri Public Service Commission.

At stake in the commission's eventual decision is the construction date of a multimillion dollar aluminum reduction plant near here and conservation efforts in the Missouri Bootheel.

The Missouri Inter - agency Council, backed by several private groups, is opposing the route of an already approved power line through the Ozark National Scenic Riverways Refuge. They claim the route, plus an alternate route also approved, would harm the scenic beauty along the Current River in the Bootheel.

The power line is necessary for electrical power to the New Madrid plant until a city- owned power plant can be built.

Public Service Commissioner Marvin Jones said Friday the power company obtained authorization to cross the river on Aug. 29, 1967.

Attorneys for the two groups will present oral arguments at 11 a.m. Monday before the full commission. Jones said that would be the least hearing before the commission reaches a decision in the dispute.

Noranda aluminum Inc., officials are planning to use power from the line to provide power to operate their aluminum plant until a 580,000 kilowatt city-owned generating station is completed.

New Madrid voters will go the polls Aug. 23 to vote on a 200-million - dollar revenue bond issue to finance the power plant and improve the St. Judge industrial park, where the Noranda facility will be located.

Poplar Bluff to Modernize Airport

POPLAR BLUFF - Plans for a $98,000 modernization program for Poplar Bluff's Earl Fields Memorial Municipal Airport advanced rapidly today with announcement of a $49,000 federal grant approved by the Economic Development Administration in Washington.

Chamber of Commerce President Larry Lumpe and Dr. William C. Jackson, Jr., chairman of the Community Airport Development Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, heralded the grant in announcing the kickoff of a $34,000 sales campaign to sell $100 bonds of the Poplar Bluff Municipal Airport Development Corporation to finance the city's share of the improvement cost.

Missouri's Aviation Authority has granted a $15,000 allotment of funds for the project.

Lumpe and Dr. Jackson said no bond issue will be necessary in financing the city's cost of the project and that the $100 bonds, bearing six per cent interest, will be offered first to those civic minded Poplar Bluffians who used the same financial system in raising $25,000 for the last airport improvement. The bonds will be retired through airport income.

Conditions at the airport have blocked negotiations with several Poplar Bluff industrial prospects and announcement of the federal grant and improvement program was welcomed by manufacturers now negotiating with the City and Chamber of Commerce for future Poplar Bluff industrial installations.

The airport improvements planned under the $98,000 project include strengthening of the present 4000 foot runway and 500 foot taxiway, installation of medium intensity lighting and strengthening and expanding the apron.

Scott City Seeks Grant For Planning

SCOTT CITY -- An application for $10,200 to finance a comprehensive plan for Scott City was among four programs to help cities solve their problems announced Monday by the Missouri Department of Community Affairs.

Mayor Nevan A. Fisher of Scott City said the program includes general planning for the city and zoning. He said street improvement will come under the general plan.

Mayor Fisher said General Planning and Zoning Consulting firm of St. Louis will be in charge of the 20-year program.

The reuqest for the plan was made March 22, 1968. Lloyd Young is chairman of the planning commission.

The mayor, in reference to the proposed consolidation of Scott City and Illmo, stated that a representative of the planning firm has said that if the merger is approved, the total amount of government grants will probably be increased from one-half to three-fifths to include planning for Illmo.

DOWD OVER MORRIS

It is well known that Alex Presta, ex-convict and reputed associate of gangland characters, is backing W. S. (Bill) Morris for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

Mr. Morris, at the Press Club of St. Louis conference Thursday, had an opportunity to disavow this support. That he chose not to do so - only to say that he was not soliciting Presta's backing - was disturbing.

Edward L. Dowd, who charges that Morris is backed by former convict Jimmie Michaels of St. Louis, as well as Presta of Kansas City's wheeling and dealing North Side, says he wants no part of Presta or his associates.

Morris, however, claims he knows Presta only as a real estate man and politician.

Ordinarily we might accept Mr. Morris' apparent naivete without too much concern. But he is running for the second highest office in the state of Missouri. If he has not learned about the Presta reputation by now, it can be properlyy wondered how rigidly he might work to rid the state of underworld elements which reportedly have grown stronger in recent years.

Mr. Dowd, by contrast, is making the strong impression of a man who would use his power to make life miserable for disreputable elements in the state if he were elected lieutenant governor.

We prefer a man like Dowd who calls a spade a spade and a Presta a Presta. We know from his record, as head of the St. Louis Police Board and as Circuit Attorney, that we need have no misgivings about his judgment, integrity or strong desire to carry out the duties of his office.

On the basis of what we have seen and heard we are confirmed in the belief that Ed Dowd is much to be preferred to Mr. Morris who seems too heavily immersed in Kansas City politics and too unconcerned about where his support comes from.

Jefferson City Post-Tribune endorsed Edward L. Dowd July 31st, 1968

"A major issue in the race is William Morris' association with the dubious Kansas City Northside Political faction, whose boss is ex-convict Alex Presta. Moreover, the St. Louis Pipefitters, headed by ex-convict, Lawrence Callanan, are expected to support Morris. In Edward L. Dowd, Missourians need not have the slightest misgiving, qualm, or question. He is a candidate of stature in every sense of the word. A candidate for all Missourians rural and urban."

Kansas City Star July 23rd, 1968

"Kansas City has been one of the main centers of the nationwide syndicate identified as a Mafia. The relationship between the underworld and the leadership of the Northside Political faction is quite simple. Alex Presta has served the underworld for many years."

Navy Refuses Comment on Scorpion Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy declines to confirm or deny a report that top-secret listening devices recorded the sound of the ocean crushing the nuclear submarine Scorpion about May 21.

The Pentagon issued a "no comment" Sunday to the report published in Newsweek magazine.

Pentagon sources confirmed, however, that the Navy ordered a check of tapes after the Scorpion failed to return on schedule from a cruise, but declined to discuss any phase of its analysis.

The Navy has several devices for monitoring underwater traffic, using them mainly to keep track of Soviet submarines.

The Navy has extended official condolences to families Scorpion's 99 crewmen.

The search for the vessel is now centered in a "highly suspect" area about 450 miles southwest of the Azores where ocean depths run to 12,000 feet.

A Navy board of inquiry has completed an investigation of the incident, but it has not been made public.

POLLY'S POINTERS
Own Private Drawer Cuts Their Squabbling

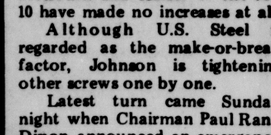
By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Our three boys are just 13 months apart in age and they could never keep a special gift. It would be broken, borrowed or lost by one of the others. I finally fixed a private drawer for each. No one, not even mother, is allowed to open anyone else's drawer. This system was started three years ago and, believe me, it works. I wish my own mother had done the same thing as each of us needs a place for our private and personal possessions, unquestioned and unseen except by its owner.—H. L. R.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—We use quite a few soft drinks in cans. I wonder if some of the readers could give me some suggestions as to what could be made with these cans.—DONNA

DEAR POLLY—and Mrs. N. L. F.—The best way to display and protect a collection of moths and butterflies is to place them in a riker mount. This is a small display case consisting of a shallow, open cardboard box with a glass cover fitted over its open side. Cotton can be placed on the bottom to provide a suitable background and protect the specimens from damage. Be sure the collection is free from insect parasites before placing in the mount, which can be purchased from a hobby center or natural history museum. If the box is sealed there should be no fear of insect damage but moth balls could be placed in the corners.—KEN



DEAR POLLY—Insect collections are best mounted on slender insect pins which are pushed through the thorax from back to front (top to bottom). A regular insect box with a cork bottom is helpful as the pins can be stuck into the cork. Any cardboard box, such as a large square shoe box, could be used with a layer of corrugated board in the bottom. Be sure it has a tight-fitting lid. Moth balls stuck on pins or flakes wrapped in paper should prevent moth damage. Yours for a continuing Polly's column.—J. R. S.

DEAR POLLY—On shelves where sticky items like syrup, salad oil and so on are to be placed, I put several layers of waxed paper over the shelf paper. When cleaning day comes, I just peel off the top soiled layer and do not have to replace good shelf paper.—MARION

Kennedy won at the expense of widespread animosity from business.

Several steel executives were convicted in a price-rigging case in 1965 that was related to the Kennedy-steel confrontation.

Congress looked into steel pricing in 1963, also as a result of the blowup, but its investigation proved inconclusive after steel executives refused to divulge cost and production figures.

In calling for the FTC probe, Hart, chairman of the Senate subcommittee on antitrust and monopoly, said a recent study showed steel accounted for about $250 of the cost of a $3,000 automobile.

"A 5 per cent hike on top of this is not a minor item," he said.

REMEMBER? 1960-64 Smear Campaign Against Gov. Hearnes!

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

WEDNESDAY, JULY 31, 1968

Smear in the Primary Campaign

In a political campaign, the technique of last-minute character assassination usually raises more questions about the candidate who adopts it than about the intended victim. This is the case, we think, in two of the Democratic primary contests for state office. The races for lieutenant governor and attorney general have come to be dominated, in the closing days of the campaign, by irresponsible and so far undocumented charges of "underworld" influence or control.

Former Police Board President Edward L. Dowd, candidate for lieutenant governor, has come close to disqualifying himself for the office, in our opinion, by concentrating his campaign on insinuations that William S. Morris of Kansas City is a corrupt tool of disruputable political or criminal interests.

If there were any truth to these charges, Mr. Dowd has had months in which to document them. Instead of bringing them forward in time for sober evaluation by the voters, he chose to campaign most of the time on a "tough" law-and-order platform, picturing himself as a ferocious crime fighter, and then in the closing days to attack the character of his opponent in a way to suggest association with organized crime. This has all the earmarks of a calculated campaign of deception which can only be deplored.

-- it is a disgrace to Missouri politics when a candidate can be smeared as an agent of gangsters on no more persuasive evidence than that he is supported by certain political factions. All political factions support or oppose candidates for their own reasons, which are often tied up with local political infighting, but this does not prove that any candidate thus supported is their corrupt creature. Unless Mr. Dowd can produce hard evidence to back his accusations, he forfeits any claim to public confidence in his own campaign.

Stapleton Defends Eagleton

JEFFERSON CITY - State Senator Richard Southern, campaign manager for Thomas F. Eagleton, Democratic candidate for United States Senator, has released a statement from Jack Stapleton, Jr., publisher of the Daily Dunklin Democrat at Kennett commenting on a speech delivered by True Davis in Sikeston Wednesday.

Southern pointed out that in his speech Davis implied that Eagleton's opposition to the proposed power project across the Current River made Eagleton opposed to industrialization in Southeast Missouri.

Davis cited as his authority for his charge an editorial from the Daily Dunklin Democrat.

Stapleton stated:

"True Davis in his speech Wednesday, July 31, in Sikeston, completely distorted the purpose, content and conclusion of an editorial in my paper. In no way did the editorial have any reference to the pending hearings before the Missouri Public Service Commission as Davis inferred."

"Tom Eagleton as lieutenant governor has been a big help in bringing industry to Southeast Missouri, and was particularly active in helping pass the tax incentive bill proposed by Governor Hearnes in the last general assembly. The legislation was the key factor in bringing the new multi-million dollar aluminum plant to Southeast Missouri."

"Tom Eagleton is our friend in Southeast Missouri and will make an outstanding United States senator. He will continue to serve us in the United States senate as he has served so admirably as lieutenant governor and president of the Missouri Senate."

Southern said that "Lieutenant Governor Eagleton has worked closely with Gov. Warren E. Hearnes and his administration in securing new and expanded industry for Missouri. Davis' allegations are without fact and are unfounded and are unfair to the effort of the Hearnes administration and are only True's smoke screen to hide his faltering campaign."

Ancient Indian Site Unearthed Near Lilbourn

LILBOURN -- Landleveling is becoming a commonplace farming practice in Southeast Missouri. Often it leaves in its wake devestated remains of Indian settlements because landowners may not be aware that there are people who will come to unearth these remains in order to preserve the findings for posterity.

Recent landleveling operations on a farm of Harry Campbell, about five miles northwest of Lilbourn, revealed a vestage of a settlement estimated to be about 3,000 years old, according to a four-man team from the University of Missouri.

Heading the group is Ray Williams. Others on the team are Fred Schneider, Philip Sawyer and Steven Baister. They are students of anthropology from the Division of Archaeological Research. Their work is jointly sponsored by the University of Missouri and the National Park Service.

Teams similar to this one spend their summer months excavating old villages and settlements that are discovered on farms and other land. Williams' group had been working on a site near East Prairie before coming to this one.

On the Campbell farm they discovered three skeletons, arrowheads and several pieces of utensils fashioned by the natives at the time the settlement was inhabited.

IN DRAWING PORTIONS of an ancient Indian settlement where artifacts and skeletons are located, workers lay out an area with strings in one-foot squares and record the arrangments of bones and objects to scale on lined paper. This is being done by two barebacked members of a study term. From left, are Fred Schneider, Miss Harryette Campbell and Phillip Sawyer, on the Harry Campbell farm northwest of Lilbourn. - Lilbourn Semo News Photograph.

Sales Up 15.5%

Sale of Interstate Bakeries Corporation for the 28 weeks ended July 13, 1968, rose 15.5% to a record $121,983,785 - up $16,426,956 from the same period of 1967, it was announced today by Ernest B. Hueter, president.

Net income totalled $1,782,384 or 84cents per share (as adjusted for the 2-for-1 stock dividend effected August 1, 1967) down $682,491 or 34 cents per share from the $2,464,875 in 1967.

Hueter attributed the second quarter earnings decline to four principal factors: costly work stoppages, depressed market prices, increased labor costs, and the 10% tax surcharge.

Strikes affecting 67 plant-days or operations and 96 sales days represented approximately 16 cents per share of the drop-off, Heuter said. Three major bakeries located in Chicago, IBC's largest metropolitan market, were down a total of 36 plant-days. The 10% surcharge retroactive from January 1, 1968, represented another 8 cents per share of the decline. Increased operating costs and depressed wholesale prices in some markets accounted for more than the remainder of the decrease.

During the second quarter, IBC directors approved in principle the purchase of the Baker Canning Company and its subsidiaries, Shawano Canning Company and Shawano Farms, Inc., all of Wisconsin. Sales and earnings of the Baker Company are not included in this report.

The integration of the Millbrook Division, acquired from Nibisco in March, continues in an orderly and satisfactory manner and IBC is actively reviewing other potential acquisitions in diversified food areas, Hueter said.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE 10TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

Next year this District will have a new Congressman and in these troubled times it is extremely important that we elect a Congressman of maturity, experience and sound judgment who can work effectively with our Governor, our United States Senators and all of the people of the Tenth District.

I ask you to consider and weigh these factors: I have actually experienced many of the problems facing our nation and the people of the Tenth District; I have known the stark reality of hunger and cold; the misfortunes of the great depression in the 1930's when a nickel would buy a meal if you could find a nickel; the tragedy of war - twenty (20) months in the South Pacific during World War II, in Guadalcanal, New Guinea, Admiraty Islands, the invasion of the Phillipine Islands and the Battle of Leyte Gulf; and I have known the joy of seeing our great nation through hard work and determination overcome the challenges of the past.

Now, we must look to the future and work together for all of the Tenth District and this nation. I have a sufficiently broad background to know, understand and effectively represent all the people in the Tenth District, poor man, laborer, farmer, businessman, or just the good old plain average American, because I am and have been all of these.

Agriculture must be effectively represented. I will volunteer to serve on the House of Agriculture Committee and work for Agriculture. My knowledge of agriculture comes from actually owning and farming land for a living. I know the hardships and despair of farm prices and higher costs to the farmers.

Industry must be encouraged and developed to insure our future, growth and prosperity. Our Governor Hearnes did a wonderful job in obtaining the new Noranda Industry in New Madrid County, along with Representative Copeland of New Madrid County who actually wrote, introduced and sponsored the legislation in the Missouri House of Representatives and who invited a number of County Representatives from adjoining counties to co-sign the Bill with him. I am the only candidate in the race who has actually led the movement to get new industry. My town was the first in the state in getting an industry using City Industry Bonds and we have secured a number of new industries since the first one. I have worked with all our Representatives in Washington for industry and I can do it for all of the Tenth District.

My opposition claims I'm not qualified for two reasons: (1) At 59 years I'm too old, and (2) I don't have a college education. My answers are: (1) I'm only running for a two year term. If I don't do the job you won't have to vote me back two years later because of, "seniority". I don't believe anyone should run for this office or any other and expect to stay there forever. I'm in excellent health and enjoy work. I presently hold the office of Mayor of Caruthersville and County Collector of Pemiscot County. I have continued to discharge the responsibilities of both of these offices without criticism of neglect of duty while campaigning for Congress. If elected I will discharge the duties of that office crit without criticism of neglect. I'm the Superintendent of the Methodist Sunday School, the leader of the weekly men's breakfast for Christians of all churches, the finance officer of the American Legion. I have local business interests and oversee farming of land in Pemiscot County and New Madrid County. A man's age should be measured by his actions -- not his years. Some people are lazy at 37 or younger. I challenge any candidate in the race to match my energies or capacity for work. I'm used to it; they're not.

(2) I was not as fortunate as some of my opponents. At age 14 I had to go to work to support my family and didn't have an opportunity to go to college -- but I have a degree from the best college of them all -- practical experience. I learned finance from working in a bank -- I learned business from operating a Kroger Store, a laundry, an implement company and a car agency -- I learned public representation by being a City Alderman, Collector and Mayor -- I learned economy in Government as Mayor of Caruthersville. My City has a balanced budget, reduced indebtedness, no tax increase and yet has progressed. I have insisted that the City get a full dollar's value for every dollar spent and I believe the same should be true in the Federal Government. Fortunately, a college degree is not a requirement for public office. If it were, we would not have had some of our greatest public servants. A man's capacity and ability should be measured by his record, not his diplomas.

I want to go to Congress to work for all of us and I am asking the voters to please stand with me, a friend and a neighbor who knows your problems better than the other candidates.

RESPECTFULLY,
B. F. Rogers,
Candidate for Congress of 10th District.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS from The Bible

God is with you in all that you do.—(Gen. 21:22).

Whatever we have to meet today, let us remember that God is with us. We may have challenging experiences that bring about change in us,—in our thoughts, feelings and actions. We then discover that these experiences which seem to demand so much bring us the greatest blessings.

Fire Damages Warehouse

NEW MADRID - The fire department answered a call to Mann Brothers Department Store Warehouse on Mill Street at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Firemen fought the blaze for two hours before bringing it under control.

Formerly occupied as a bowling alley the building had extensive interior damage in 1964 which had not been repaired.

Amount of the loss was undetermined, but it was indicated that the building would have to be razed.

It was thought that children playing in the building might have caused the fire.

SMEAR IN THE PRIMARY CAMPAIGN

"In a political campaign, the technique of last minute character assassination usually raises more questions about the candidate who adopts it than about the intended victim."

"Former Police Board President Edward L. Dowd, candidate for Lieutenant Governor, has come close to disqualifying himself for the office, in our opinion, by concentrating his campaign on insinuations that William S. Morris of Kansas City is a corrupt tool of disreputable political or criminal interest."

"If there were any truth to these charges, Mr. Dowd has had months in which to document them.

This has all the earmarks of a calculated campaign of deception which can only be deplored.

Sirhan's Lawyer May Claim Partial Insanity

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan's attorney may rely on a little used and controversial defense tactic to try to reduce the penalty his client would face if convicted of killing Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The 24-year-old Sirhan pleaded innocent to the murder charge Friday but attorney Russell E. Parsons reserved the right to make new motions within 35 days under California law. One option available is the defense of "diminished capacity," or partial insanity.

If employing this tactic, the defense would try to show through psychiatric evidence that because of a mental disease or defect the defendant could not form the specific intent, malice and premeditation required for conviction of first-degree murder.

Until 1949 California courts had ruled against the defense in the use of such a device, holding that insanity is either a full defense requiring a plea of innocent by reason of insanity, or no defense at all. Decisions since 1949 have made the defense feasible. It would not result in acquittal if successful, but would reduce the charge to second-degree murder or manslaughter.

At Sirhan's 22½-minute court appearance Friday, the Jordanian immigrant's trial was set for Nov. 1. After Sirhan entered his plea Parsons said he did not know if his client is sane. He said he still is studying reports by two defense psychiatrists and is waiting for his client to have his brain X-rayed.

The court was convened in a special facility on the 13th floor of the hall of justice, about 50 feet from Sirhan's isolated cell. Sirhan's mother and three of his four brothers were in the makeshift courtroom.

When asked how he wished to plead, he replied in a loud, clear voice: "Not guilty."

He also pleaded innocent to five counts of assault with a deadly weapon and with intent to commit murder. Five other persons were wounded in the fusilade of shots that killed Sen. Kennedy last June 5 at the Ambassador Hotel.

Emerson to Build Addition At Kennett

KENNETT -- Emerson Electric has announced it is proceeding with plans to add a 40,000-square foot addition to its Kennett plant.

This new facility, scheduled for completion this fall, will be used in order to meet increased production schedules on general purpose motors, according to the report from John Mead, plant manager.

Emerson, largest employer in the Missouri Bootheel, employes approximately 750 in the Kennett operation. It is expected that plant employment will continue to increase during the coming year.

The building expansion in Kennett is being financed through arrangements with the Kennett Development Corporation the cost of which will be paid by Emerson through a long- term lease agreement.

STATE FAIRGROUNDS SPRUCED UP FOR ANNUAL FLOCK OF VISITORS

JEFFERSON CITY

Show-watchers to Missouri State Fair this year will have a roof over their heads. Frank Erickson, public information officer for the Department of Agriculture, said the new, covered grandstands will be ready for the fair, August 17-25.

As the work continues on the new grandstand, the grounds crew has been had at work for several months -- painting, cleaning, arranging and doing a multitude of jobs to prepare the Sedalia grounds for the thousands of visitors to come.

The title for the Fair this year is "Showcase '68". Dexter Davis, commission of the Department of Agriculture is pleased with the name: " 'Showcase '68". Dexter Davis, commission of the Department of AGriculture is pleased with the name: " 'Showcase '68', the theme for the 1968 Missouri State Fair, I think is very appropriate. For certainly Missouri will be on display . . . its agricultural accomplishments . . . many of its industrial achievements."

Entertainment will abound in the persons of Al Hirt, Tony Martin, Ed Ames, Randy Brown, Rich, Gibson & Rich, Diane Shelton, the New Christy Minstrels, Woody Herman and Orchestra and Willy Necker's Trained Dalmations. In addition, "Showcase '68" will feature country and western shows starring Marty Robbins, LeRoy Van Dyke & The Auctioneers, Hank Thompson, Faron Young and LaVonne Lear.

All of the standard attractions of the Fair will be there again, and many events have been expanded. The midway will be operating as usual, and so will the horse shows. A total of $35,458, is offered in prizes for shows of horses ranging from championship walking horses to six-mule hitches.

A similar amount is offered for a number of horse races. Horse racing events will include Appalbosa, thoroughbred, quarterhorse, pacer and trotter divisions.

For those who prefer racing at a faster pace, eight auto and motorcycle racing events are scheduled. The events are: big car, jalopy, late model stock car, State championship jalopy, 100-mile late model stock car, stock car sprints, 100-mile big car, and motorcycle races. In addition, the Eldon Daniel Auto Thrill Show will perform August 16.

For those who want to see the entire fair at one time ballon rides will offer a panorama of the entire fair grounds.

Traditional fair events which will be featured include livestock judging; food, horticultural, hobby and art exhibits; archery, horseshoe pitching, bait-casting and barbeque contests; marching bands; farm machinery exhibits and contests. Trained dolphins, trained elephants, racing camels and ostriches will perform. A petting zoo is expected to be a big feature with children.

Kicksville, a separate pavilion, will offer teenagers nightly battles of the bands, featuring professional and amateur Missouri bands.

For many Missourians, the Fair will mean extra income. The Fair is offering a total of $193,279 for 25 different contests. For others, it will mean spending a little money. Admission to the Fair is free for children under six, 50 cents for children 7-12, and $1 for adults. A season ticket to the fair is $6. Admission for auto and motorcycle racing ranges from $1 to $4. An auto racing season ticket is $5. Visitors to the Fair, however, do not need to spend a lot of money as there are 37 free attractions.

MISSOURIANS ATTEND NATIONAL CONVENTIONS

As the Republican and Democratic national conventions in Miami and Chicago convene, Missouri delegates prepare for the hoopla and the serious business of helping to choose the presidential candidates.

The first order of business is the formation of the party's platform, with important planks on the war and an violence in the cities.

In Miami, 24 Missouri delegates will vote on the Republican to run for the presidency. The delegation is composed of 20 delegates from 10 districts, plus four delegates at large. Before the convention, the two leading contenders, Nixon and Rockefeller, vied for the number one spot in Missouri polls. At that time, the preference of the Missouri delegation was in doubt. Mrs. Rosemary Ginn, Columbia, national committeewoman, told the Kansas City Times that she has noticed a reluctance on the part of many delegates to jump on a candidate's bandwagon.

On the Democratic side, the Missouri delgation has 60 votes with three votes from each of the 10 districts and 30 from delegates at large Before the convention, most delegates were reported to favor Vice President Humphrey, but some were for Sen. Eugene McCarthy and they circulated a petition demanding an open convention.

Late last month Humphrey announced that he preferred an open convention with no unit rules. Reacting to this, Missouri Democratic Chairman Delton Houtchens released the state delegation from the unit rule, despite the fact that the delegation had never been formally committeed to Humphrey. Houtchens predicted that the removal of the rule would have little effect and that 55 of the 60 Democratic delegates would vote for Humphrey anyway.

Hot Weather in Store for August

By Leonard F. Hand
Farm Meterologist

PORTAGEVILLE -- Below normal temperatures and near normal rainfall are expected weather trends over the Bootheel in August.

High pressure systems entering the northwest Pacific Coast and crossing the northern states will be reinforced by centers moving southward out of Canada into the upper Mississippi Valley. Penetration of cool air as far south as the Bootheel will be more regular than in July.

Major low pressure systems developing in the Central Great Plains are expected to follow a track northeastward to the Great Lakes Region.

This combination raises the possibility of cool fronts occasionally pushing into the mid-south and lingering for a day to two at a time. Precipitation in the form of showers and thundershowrs will contribute the bulk of moisture. As in the past two months, amounts of rain will be quite variable, but increased frequency of shower periods offers possibility of better distribution of rains.

Cooler temperatures with adequate sunshine won't affect crop development as much as if periods of clouds and showery persist for days at a time. Even when air temperatures are below normal, plant parts exposed tothe sun during the day can be warmed well above readings in the air. Sunlight intensity has been found to be directly linked with cotton fiber development, one reason why cloud cover may be more significant than air temperature during this critical month.

Farmers should be alert to increases in population of bollworms, plant bugs and even boll weavils under conditions expected this month. Mr. Flernoy Jones, Southeast Area Entomological Agent at the University of Missouri Delta Center reports that Scouts have observed these insects in growing numbers. If any doubt exists regarding need for control, contact Mr. Jones or your County Extension Director.

Weather forecasts and five day trends will help farmers schedule control operations during periods when at least 6 hours of dry weather can be anticipated following sprays. Remember, too, that locally heavy showers may leave fields too muddy to support spray equipment at a time when applications of insecticides are called for.

With prospects for cool nights at times when soil moisture may be plentiful we should expect dews to become more heavy in intensity as the month advances. Some control materials achieve best results when applied to dry foliage since they can be diluted by water present on leaves. Humid conditions are also conducive to development of disease organisms and fields should be watched for bollrot. Should bottom defoliation become advisable, keep in mind that these materials are more effective in warm and sunny weather. The five - day trends may help decide on timing of this operation.

Moisture conditions across the Bootheel are extremely variable as can be seen from July rainfall totals:

Caruthersville 1.23 inches, Malden 1.16 inches, Poplar Bluff 7.85 inches, Portageville 2.82 inches, Kennett 3.30 inches, Charlestn 5.78 inches, Sikeston 2.10 inches, and Portageville Delta Center Experiment Farm 2.99 inches.

Normal precipitation for the Bootheel as a whole in August is 3.19 inches.

Normals for individuals cities - Cape Girardeau 3.73 inches, Caruthersville 3.04 inches. Dexter 3.44 inches, Doniphan 3.61 inches, Morehouse 3.13 inches, New Madrid 3.09 inches, Parma 3.30 inches, Poplar Bluff 3.12 inches and Sikeston 2.92 inches.

Short term averages for other points - Advance 3.07 inches, Bernie 2.62 inches, Bloomfield 2.84 inches, Charleston 2.91 inches, Clearwater Dam 3.05 inches, Wappapello Dam 2.47 inches, Kennett 3.29 inches, Malden 2.26 inches, Portageville 3.32 inches, Puxico 2.55 inches, Qulin 2.12 inches and Deering 2.60 inches.

Long term records show that for years with near normal (moderate) rainfall, average monthly accumulations have totalled 3.61 inches at Poplar Bluff, 3.70 at Sikeston and 3.64 inches at Caruthersville. Ranges between the lowest and heaviest monthly totals are consistent with 3.19 to 4.33 inches at Poplar Bluff, 3.17 to 4.54 at Sikeston and 3.17 to 4.55 inches at Caruthersville.

Search Continues For Missing Cattle

BLOOMFIELD - A search has been underway since July 23, by the owners of the Denton-Cantrell Livestock Company for more than 60 head of cattle that walked away from a penned area about 2:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. Raymond Denton, whose husband is co-owner of the livestock company, said that more than 100 head of cattle escaped the penned area shortly before daylight Tuesday and that when they arrived at the scene a large gate was open.

Mrs. Denton said that some cattle had been loaded at midnight and that when workmen left, the gate had been fastened.

The approximate 100 head of steers and heifers have scattered in a wide area, she said, almost to Dexter, in some instances.

Four head of cattle have been killed, she said, one was struck by a Greyhound bus, another by a car, plus two others as well as two head that suffered broken legs when struck by vehicles.

Some 20 head were located July 23, and three had been found early Wednesday, and men were still combing the woods of the surrounding area" in search of the missing cattle. At the last report on Wednesday, July 31, only 21 head were still missing and the men were still combing the area.

The Livestock Company has been located at Bloomfield for several years and "has never experienced anything like this, Mrs. Denton said.

The cattle were ready to be shipped to Iowa markets, Mrs. Denton said.

In partnership with Denton is Clarence Cantrell.

Bootheel Peach Harvest Now in Full Swing

CAMPBELL, MO. - Georgia peaches may have gained more renown than those harvested near this Southeast Missouri community, but there are none better anywhere.

So claim the citizens of Campbell. "And the proof," they say, "is in the eating."

Harold Lewis, an orchardist, said that the crops this year is up to par in quality and that the market is strong.

"We have a good clean crop," he emphasized, noting, however, that peaces are "not as large as a year ago, as they were thinned by nature in the spring of 1967." When cool weather nips portions of the buds, those remaining mature into larger peaches.

The first car lot was shipped from here in late May this year, and through June and early July shipments have included Red Haven, Jersey Land, Dixie Red, Cardinal, Ranger and Red Haven.

As July advances the harvest includes early Elbertas, Southland and Burbank varieties. Later in the month the Redskins, Sullivan, Jefferson and Snider varieties of the Elberta group mature.

Most delectable of all are the regular Elbertas, late Reds and Rioso Gem. These are picked and shipped during early August.

Lloyd Miller, an orchardist and hardware merchant, said the crop has been consistently good over the years. "There has been just one crop failure in 29 years," he recalls "and that was in 1954."

Mr. Miller noted about 1200 acres of peach orchards are in the 10 mile "circle" north of Campbell.

Orchards range from about 10 acres up to 200, he said, with a number of them running 60 to 100 acres. Yields range from five to 10 bushels an acre, depending on the maturity of the trees.

Currently there are about 800 acres in peach production in the Campbell area.

In a report made available through Carlton Stewart, president of the Southeast Missouri District Peach Council, the peach orchard acreage in the Campbell region has nearly doubled in the last three or four years.

St. Louis, Kansas City and Chicago markets are important to the orchardists, though peaches also are shipped as far west as Denver, and Southwest into Oklahoma City and Tulsa.

Some of the late varieties are sold in the southern states.

To celebrate the harvest a Peach Festival has been scheduled Tuesday & Wednesday. The harvest usually is concluded by about Aug. 10.

Wallace Backers Divide Into Two Camps

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Not one but two state conventions of the American Independent party convene today to nominate George C. Wallace for president.

The two conventions grew out of a dispute among Wallace supporters in California. "That's a sign of a healthy party, to have a little dissension," Wallace said when he arrived Friday night.

A result of the dispute could be selection of competing 40-member slates of presidential electors, with a court decision needed to choose the legal one.

Wallace addresses the convention his aides consider to be the "real one," the one attended by a number of the 60 American Independent party nominees for Congress and the legislature chosen in the June 4 primary.

The other convention was organized by William K. Shearer, who claims to be the state party chairman. He said there are 194 eligible delegates and all are invited to his convention. Shearer said these potential delegates include those chosen by county and state party committees.

Shearer, an early organizer of the party in California, said he'd had no communication with Wallace. "I have no ideas what his plans are. Certainly, he would be welcome if he cares to come to our convention."

DOWD OVER MORRIS

EDITORIAL REPRINT FROM THE ST. LOUIS GLOBE-DEMOCRAT
FRIDAY AUGUST 2, 1968

It is well known that Alex Presta, ex-convict and reputed associate of gangland characters, is backing W. S. (Bill) Morris for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

Mr. Morris, at the Press Club of St. Louis conference Thursday, had an opportunity to disavow this support. That he chose not to do so - only to say that he was not soliciting Presta's backing - was disturbing.

Edward L. Dowd, who charges that Morris is backed by former convict Jimmie Michaels of St. Louis, as well as Presta of Kansas City's wheeling and dealing North Side, says he wants no part of Presta or his associates.

Morris, however, claims he knows Presta only as a real estate man and politician.

Ordinarily we might accept Mr. Morris' apparent naivete without too much concern. But he is running for the second highest office in the state of Missouri. If he has not learned about the Presta reputation by now, it can be properly wondered how rigidly he might work to rid the state of underworld elements which reportedly have grown stronger in recent years.

Mr. Dowd, by contrast, is making the strong impression of a man who would use his power to make life miserable for disreputable elements in the state if he were elected lieutenant governor.

We prefer a man like Dowd who calls a spade a spade and a Presta a Presta. We know from his record, as head of the St. Louis Police Board and as Circuit Attorney, that we need have no misgivings about his judgment, integrity or strong desire to carry out the duties of his office.

On the basis of what we have seen and heard we are confirmed in the belief that Ed Dowd is much to be preferred to Mr. Morris who seems too heavily immersed in Kansas City politics and too unconcerned about where his support comes from.

Site Sought for Nursing Home

DEXTER - A site is being sought in Dexter for a $360,000 nursing home facility after a temporary corporation was formed last week.

An officer of the board said no definite site has been selected but the members of the board are considering several possibilities. The name tentatively agreed on for the home is Sunny Hill Nursing Home.

D. L. Bess was elected president of the temporary corporation and other officers are vice president, Bud Taylor; treasurer, Bob David, and secretary, Sherman Boone.

The initial plans call for a 6-bed nursing home facility to care for the aged and the handicapped. It will meet all state and federal requirements and will be modern in every respect, officers of the board said.

A portion of the cost will be paid with a federal grant, officers reported, much the same as the federal grant for the hospital in Dexter.

$958,900 Loss In Cairo Bank Conflagration

CAIRO - Official estimate of losses sustained in the First Bank and Trust Co., fire is $958,900.

Fire Chief Lewis Edwards said the estimate includes loss of the building, tenant losses and damage to roofs of several buildings on the north side of 8th Street.

Damage to the bank building was placed at $800,000 and Edwards said the loss would have been much higher and not the bank saved most of its equipment.

The fire chief said that insurance men, state fire inspectors and others believe the fire started between an old ceiling in the portion of the building containing Henckell's Drug Store. He said material in the false ceiling contained the fire in the space until it broke through flooring on the second floor and quickly spread to windows.

Most of the dozen business and professional firms who were tenants in the building when it burned have obtained temporary quarters in the downtown area of Cairo and continue in business.

Airliner Crash Blamed on Downdraft

MILAN, Italy (AP) — A violent downdraft is believed to have caused the crash of an Alitalia Airlines DC-8 jetliner that went down in driving rain and thick fog Friday night with 96 persons aboard.

Twelve persons were killed and one was missing among those on the plane bound from Rome to Montreal with a stopover in Milan.

The big jet crashed into a pine-covered hillside six miles short of the runway at Milan's Malpensa Airport and burst into flames. Many survivors escaped through cracks in the fusilage.

Fabio Stafiere, 59, the pilot, said the craft apparently got caught in a downdraft about 600 feet off the ground.

"It wasn't really a violent impact," said one survivor, Franco Colombo, 44, of Milan. "The airplane didn't break up into pieces, but the motors caught fire and the flames enveloped amost the whole plane."

"All I could see was trees coming through the airplane and I thought, 'This is the end,'" said Diane Gottheil, 29, of Urbana, Ill., wife of a University of Illinois professor.

Mrs. Gottheil jumped shoeless through an emergency door with her 2-year-old daughter, Lisa, in her arms, and raced through the woods. Her husband Fred, 35, followed. He suffered a back injury.

The Gottheil's and John Smith, a representative of the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. office in Beirut, Lebanon, his wife, Caroline, and their son, Duncan, were the only Americans aboard the flight. Most of the other survivors were Italians.

Alitalia's president Bruno Velani flew from Rome to Milan join in an investigation by airline officials and a seven-member government commission.

Both teams presumably will rely on the electronic flight recorder tape, which was in a box recovered from the wreckage.

The crash was the first of a commercial plane in Italy since a Trans World Airlines jet crashed taking off from Rome on Nov. 23, 1964, with a loss of 46 lives.

Changes in Jail Administration Recommended

ST. Louis AP - A report on a study of Missouri county jails issued by the Governor's Citizens Committee on Delinquency and Crime, recommends broad changes in jail administration.

Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton, the committee chairman, said the proposed changes are intended to improve jail functions and effectiveness in the criminal justice system of Missouri.

Eagleton said the report will be used by the committee in preparing recommendations to the governor and the general assembly next year.

Keep It Beautiful

If America hired people for the job, it would take the largest sort of army to keep our country free of litter.

But there's no need to hire anyone. It's a job we can do for ourselves. All of us. Every family that spreads a picnic lunch. Every boatman who cruises the lakes and waterways. Every motorist who uses our roads and highways.

It is the pleasure of the U. S. Brewers Association each year to give its fullest support to the Keep America Beautiful Campaign. Remember: Every Litter Bit Hurts.

This is our land. Let's treat it right.

To The Voters of New Madrid County

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN . . .DUE TO THE SHORTAGE OF HELP I HAVE BEEN UNABLE TO GET AROUND AND SEE EACH AND EVERYONE OF YOU. THEREFORE, I AM USING THIS MEANS TO ADDRESS YOU.

MY NAME IS GENE PIKEY. I AM A CANDIDATE FOR SHERIFF OF NEW MADRID COUNTY. I HAVE 7 YEARS EXPERIENCE AS DEPUTY SHERIFF. FROM 1951 TO 1957, BEING THE ONLY ACTIVE DEPUTY AT THAT TIME.

I FILED FOR SHERIFF IN 1956 AND WAS ASKED TO PULL OUT OF THAT RACE, AND PROMISED A BETTER DEAL. I DID PULL OUT, BUT I WASN'T EVEN OFFERED MY DEPUTY JOB BACK.

NOW IT IS 12 YEARS LATER! DON'T YOU THINK IT IS TIME FOR SOME ONE ELSE TO PULL OUT.

I AM ASKING FOR A 1st TERM, 4 YEARS. MR. RAMSEY IS ASKING FOR A 4th TERM. THAT WOULD BE 16 YEARS. I'M NOT TRYING TO RUN MR. RAMSEY DOWN, BUT I DON'T THINK HE HAS BEEN THAT OUTSTANDING TO WARRANT A 4th TERM. (DO YOU?)

I FEEL WITH THE 7 YEARS EXPERIENCE I AM QUALIFIED TO BE YOUR SHERIFF, AND I WILL BE YOUR FULL-TIME SHERIFF. I NEED YOUR HELP. WHEN YOU GO TO THE POLLS ON AUGUST 6th, PLEASE VOTE FOR ME . . . I WILL NOT LET YOU DOWN.

THANK YOU FOR YOUR VOTE AND SUPPORT.

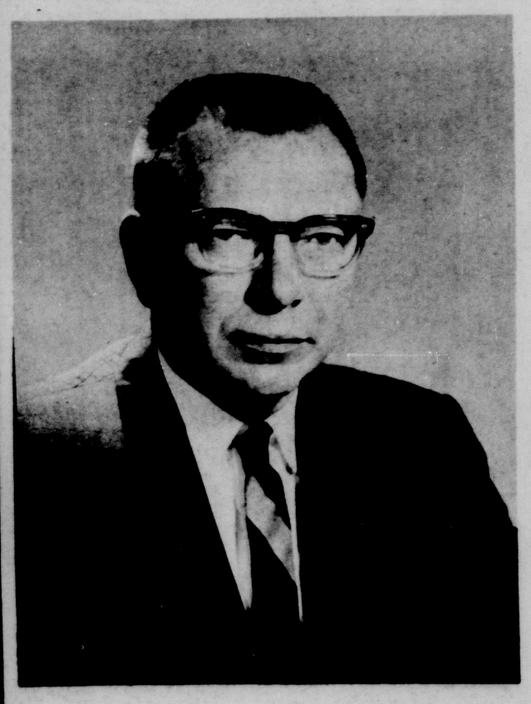
REMEMBER THE 1960-1964 SMEAR CAMPAIGN AGAINST GOVERNOR WARREN E. HEARNES?

These same charges are now aimed at OUR FRIEND

W. S. "BILL" MORRIS

Democratic Candidate for Lt. Governor



Edward L. Dowd has abandoned the issue and resorted to mud-slinging smear tactics in an attempt to tie W. S. "Bill" Morris, his chief opponent, to the underworld. The same smear tactics were used against Governor Hearnes in the bitterly contested gubernatorial race of 1964.

Will you, the voter, reward a candidate that assassinates the character of his opponent by voting for him?

For the record:

Bill Morris - entered the Army as a private, discharged as a major; awarded Silver Star, Bronze Star, Air Medal.

Bill Morris - appointed Board of Election Commissioner by Governor Blair, appointed Public Administrator of Jackson County by Governor Dalton, appointed to Senate Redistricting Commission by Governor Hearnes.

Bill Morris - an experienced lawyer, served as vice president of Kansas City Bank, is president of Kansas City Blues, is vice-president and manager of Phillips Hotel.

Don't let smear tactics elect our Lt. Governor.

Beware the candidate that slings mud.

In the 1968 election let Southeast Missourians again prove that

"He who slings mud, loses ground."

Support and vote for

W. S. "BILL" MORRIS for Lt. Governor

Flatt & Scruggs Play in 'Bonnie & Clyde'

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

More TV and movie themes are ignored and forgotten than are listened to and remembered. Lester Flatt and Earl Scruggs are fortunate—and the material had a lot to do with it—in playing a couple of the latter kinds of themes—for TV's "The Beverly Hillbillies" and the movie, "The Story of Bonnie and Clyde."

"Foggy Mountain Breakdown," used throughout "Bonnie and Clyde," has recently been very popular and has been recorded by a lot of people. Scruggs wrote that breakdown (a fast dance tune) in 1948. It's on both of Flatt and Scruggs' last two albums, on Columbia, "Changin' Times" and "The Story of Bonnie and Clyde."

(The latter LP also has Randy Scruggs, 14, playing guitar and Gary Scruggs as one of three backup voices for Flatt's vocals.)

LESTER Flatt, foreground, and Earl Scruggs

Flatt and Scruggs have been a team so long, go together so well and appeal so widely, that it seems they must always have been together. But of course they haven't. In 1945, Flatt was playing guitar in Nashville. "I was working with some guy on the Grand Ole Opry who played banjo drop thumb style. My Dad used to pick it that way all the time, which is why I quit fooling with the banjo. I couldn't get my thumb right. Well,he'd hold our band back on anything we tried to do, and he finally left.

"One day, somebody said, 'We've got a fellow here who wants to audition with the banjo.' I said, 'As far as I'm concerned, he can just leave it in the case.' We were doing so much better without a banjo."

But Scruggs took his banjo out of the case.

Flatt says, "First thing you know, everybody in the Opry was standing around looking, and me with them. I'd been all over and I'd never heard that style of banjo picking before. I just didn't have any idea. Now you hear it everywhere you go."

Scruggs was playing three-finger style, now much imitated and called "Scruggs style." He says, "There was a small area in North Carolina where there were quite a few three-finger players—with the thumb and two fingers instead of the usual thumb and one finger. At first I was a little dissatisfied with it, but later it turned out to be more versatile than I had anticipated."

Three-finger picking isn't the only Scruggs innovation on the banjo. Bob Johnston, who produces Flatt and Scruggs records for Columbia, says, "I came out of the booth one day and he was playing and all of a sudden he reached up and turned this thing and went right on playing, in a different key.

"You know a guitar or banjo picker spends half his time tuning."

Mrs. Scruggs, booking manager for Flatt and Scruggs, says, "Oh, that's the tuning device he invented in 1951. I thought he'd lost his mind. He asked for a brace and bit and he took apart my floor waxer for a piece of metal."

Scruggs says, "I went right through the pearl inlay and put on a tuner.

"We were doing a tune where I was pressing down on the head and bending the neck of the banjo and I was afraid I was going to warp it. That was one of the things that gave me the idea of lowering the strings while picking.

"The tuner's been redone since, but it was pretty accurate the first time."

His wife says, "They don't use floor waxers in the new models."

Scruggs lives in Madison, a suburb of Nashville. His wife says, 'One day a friend, a Nashville psychiatrist who picks a little banjo, brought six psychiatrist friends in and asked Earl to play 'Earl's Breakdown.' They didn't know if it was a joke or if he was an incurable patient."

Flatt lives in "the city of Sparta, Tenn." He plays a Martin model 28 guitar.

"There were only a few 45 model Martin guitars made. If you find one now they want $1,500, $2,000 for it, if you can buy it at all. I think Johnny Cash paid $1,800 for that one he's got. But I've played some I wouldn't give my old 28 for."

Both Flatt and Scruggs can tell plenty of stories. Flatt recalls one time spinning tales to Cowan Williams, president of Martha White Foods Inc., which has sponsored Flatt and Scruggs on the air since 1953 (the longest running artist-sponsor relation in Nashville). "He came over one afternoon in '52 and said, 'Don't let me forget to go hear Eisenhower speak tonight.' The next time he looked at his watch it was 11:30. He said, 'Oh, well, I was going to vote for him anyway.'

"I was just telling stories. We've got a lot of characters around the city of Sparta."

Bhutan Lives in Past

Bhutan's early history is lost in antiquity as are the reasons for the many ceremonies still practiced. A band, above, plays hand-made instruments during one of the many festivals conducted in the Himalayan kingdom. Bhutan's monarch, Sir Jigme Dorji Wangchuk, left, is a keen archer and hunters under his rule follow his lead, preferring bows and arrows to guns. The Royal Palace, below, nestles in the mountains which are infested with tigers and wild elephants.

Nixon's First Vote Hopes Ride On 3 Factors

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon's hopes for a first ballot victory at next week's Republican National Convention appear to depend on some 200 uncommitted delegates, three large "favorite son" states and his ability to hold Southern delegates.

These three factors appeared in an updated Associated Press tally of likely first ballot strength, based on primary results, pledges and firm statements in response to AP polls, which showed Nixon with 547 votes—120 below the 667 needed for the GOP presidential nomination.

Nixon remained well ahead of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, New York, who has 208 and Gov. Ronald Reagan, California, who has 157. Other favorite sons total 264 votes, while 207 are uncommitted. In the past five days, Nixon has gained five, Rockefeller six and Reagan three.

Caucuses are planned by many delegations Monday, including Michigan, Ohio and Maryland, where 125 votes are currently ticketed for Govs. George Romney, James A. Rhodes and Spiro T. Agnew.

On the Democratic side, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey lost 17½ in a week but remained far ahead with 775 of the 1,312 needed. Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy who gained 7 from Humphrey when Maryland's unit rule was rescinded and also gained in West Virginia, has 432½, while favorite sons control 656, the uncommitted delegates total 146½ and 12 are scattered elsewhere.

Ann Landers

Cab Drivers All Know Gram

Dear Ann Landers: My grandmother is 69 years of age. She has a good income but insists on working part-time to "keep up with things." Gram is peppy and fun and could wear out a person half her age. She has lived with us for two years (we need the $150 a month) and our children love her.

The problem is that Gram drinks. (She's been doing it for 40 years that I know of.) It wouldn't be so bad if she drank quietly at home but she goes to the neighborhood taverns four evenings a week. Occasionally some "nice young man" brings Gram home but usually she hires a taxi.

The drivers are getting to know her by her first name. I don't mean to give the impression they have to help her walk or anything. She never gets really loaded. She can put the key in the lock and get herself to bed.

My husband says Gram can either stop drinking or move elsewhere because she is giving our address a bad name. I think he is being too hard on the old darling. What do you say? — LOYAL TO GRAM

Dear Loyal: The "old darling" is pretty well pickled by this time so your husband can forget about a reform program.

Since Gram doesn't get into trouble and your husband's only complaint is that the cab drivers are getting to know your address, tell him the drivers don't care about addresses so long as their fares behave themselvs and pay. I'd hate to see you toss out the old girl.

Dear Ann Landers: My parents had a terrible marriage. Dad was a quiet man who didn't have much ambition. Mom always held an executive position and made three times as much as Dad. Although she never threw it up to him he mentioned it often as "the cause of all our trouble."

I guess history repeats itself because I was married at 24-- to a man who was making less money than I. The marriage lasted exactly two years. I swore I'd never make that mistake again. Now I am 31 and in love with a man whose salary is exactly 50 per cent of mine. He wants me to marry him and quit work and have a family.

Am I wrong to want to maintain the high standard of living to which I have grown accustomed? I can do without him. Please advise. --SARA

Dear Sara: Since your principal interest in life seems to be to enjoy a high standard of living, tell the fellow no. It would be a dirty trick to marry him. And I hope you and your standard of living will be very happy.

Dear Ann Landers: I started to write to this boy in the service. He saw my picture in a high school paper. Jerry was a real brain and I knew it from his first letter. I had to sit with a dictionary in my lap. I was determined to look smart, too, so I got the smartest girl in school to compose "my" letters to him.

Jerry is coming home next month. The minute I open my mouth he'll know I didn't write those letters. Shall I confess right off or try to fake it? — GHOSTED

Dear Ghosted: Confess right off and pray that Jerry has a sense of humor. If he doesn't laugh, introduce him to the girl who wrote the letters.

Drinking may be "in" to the kids you run with -- but it can put you "out" for keeps. You can cool it and stay popular. Read "Booze and You -- For Teen-Agers Only." Send 36 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self addressed, stamped envelope.

If You Were the Judge

Able Bodied Need No Assistance on Bus

Selma, with more curves than a road map, was used to having men wait on her hand and foot. Consequently, she was her old self when she wiggled up to a bus and coyly asked the bus driver to help her aboard. As it developed, however, the bus driver must have had an innoculation against beautiful women since he refused to move a muscle to help her. Indignant, Selma began to enter the bus unassisted and, as fate would have it, she fell flat on her face.

Badly hurt, Selma sued the bus company for her injuries.

"When a person asks to be helped aboard a bus," she complained to the judge, "the driver is obligated to comply."

"Hogwash," retorted the bus driver. "Selma was no invalid. Figuratively speaking she was in pretty good shape. The only reason she fell was because she was looking at me instead of where she was stepping."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit Selma to collect because the bus driver refused to lend her a hand?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! He held that in the event a passenger is blind, sick, aged, very young, crippled or infirm, and the condition is apparent or made known, the operator of a bus is required to render necessary aid in assisting the passenger to board or alight from the vehicle. And, if he fails to do so, or does so carelessly, the bus company can be held responsible for resulting injuries. But, in this case, concluded the judge, Selma was apprently in good shape and the step up was normal.

Senator Long Answers Life Smear

During the last few days, I have been viciously and unfairly attacked. These smear attacks have had nothing to do with the vital issues of this campaign.

Instead, they have been personal attacks aimed slyly at my integrity.

So I am making this special report to you because I believe the citizens of Missouri deserve the truth. In every campaign in which I have taken part I have said that if the citizens have the facts they will make the correct decision at the polls.

As many of you know, I have been elected to other public offices, including Prosecuting Attorney of Pike County, State Senator three times, Lieutenant Governor, and twice to the United States Senate. In all the campaigns for election to those offices and in all the times I served in those offices, my integrity and honesty were never questioned.

In my first six years as your United States Senator, no question was ever raised about my honesty and integrity.

But in 1965, I launched a major Senate investigation into wiretapping, eavesdropping and snooping on American citizens.

Just as soon as my investigation began, reports started reaching me that if I kept on investigating, I would be attacked. The word was out that certain Federal agents and big money interests on the East Coast were out to get Ed Long. Word was sent to me, "Senator, you had better quit your investigations if you want to win the next election."

But I had promised you that I would fight Big Brother government before it undermines our democratic system. I felt no price was too high to pay to defend the citizens' rights.

So I kept on investigating. The more I uncovered, the more enemies I made. The more wrongdoing I uncovered in Washington, the stronger the threats against me.

Finally, some Federal agencies and other enemies I had made joined hands with a national magazine. It is a highly interesting historical fact that many of these who have concerned themselves with human rights—particularly if they were Democrats—have always been subjected to attack by this magazine. You will recall Life's bitter personal attacks on Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry S. Truman, Adlai Stevenson, and John F. Kennedy.

Charges against me in that magazine were investigated by the Senate Ethics Committee. Serving on this committee are such national leaders as Republican Senator John Sherman Cooper and Democratic Senator Eugene McCarthy. But, after a thorough study, after hearing all the witnesses over many months, after looking into all the false accusations against me, that bi-partisan committee issued a report which completely cleared me.

But my enemies were not satisfied. They kept right on with the same smear campaign and dirty tactics.

The latest smear involves a St. Louis housing project. The true facts are that when plans for construction of the project were being considered, my office in Washington received a number of complaints from interested citizens, none of whom represented labor union organizations, claiming that the proposed plans would result in higher construction costs and higher rental charges.

These complaints were sent to the Federal agency handling the program.

This agency, after investigation, found the complaint justified and ordered the plans rewritten, finding that as a result, the taxpayers would be saved approximately $250,000 in construction costs, plus an additional $26,671 per year in operating costs. I offer no apology to anyone for saving the taxpayers money and for keeping rents paid by citizens as low as possible.

These facts were reported accurately more than three years ago—April 11, 1965—by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Life's distorted and erroneous version of this matter, just two weeks before the Missouri primary, conclusively proves this is an effort to smear me and to influence the election in Missouri. This is the dirtiest kind of politics and the people of Missouri will not be misled.

My enemies have dragged the name of your United States Senator through the mud with false statements and innuendoes.

So I want to report to you in the best way I know how, that as your Senator, I had and still have only one goal: to serve the citizens of this State with honesty and dedication.

I have worked as hard as I know how at keeping Missouri moving forward.

*I am author of the Freedom of Information Law which guarantees the citizens right to know what our government agencies are doing.

*I am author of the Right of Privacy bill.

*I am author of the first reform bill in 20 years to cut red tape and delay in Federal agencies.

*I have supported every effort to solve the key problems of Missouri.

I can assure you I will continue to fight against government agents and others who trample on the rights of individual American citizens, regardless of what kind of filth and phony attacks my enemies throw at me. As your Senator I will continue to fight for your rights.

But I need your help. My enemies are doing everything they can against me. I need your support in the primary on Tuesday, August 6th.

Edward V. Long
United States Senator

An Open Letter From August A. Busch, Jr.

Dear Fellow Missourians:

Edward V. Long has been one of the outstanding Senators in the long history of distinguished men who have represented the State of Missouri in the Senate of the United States. That is why I am proud to be the Honorary Chairman of his campaign this year.

For the past eight years Ed Long has been the Senator of all the people. He has given the major part of his time and attention to safeguarding the rights of the individual citizen from the government or from any other source. In these days of almost unlimited "snooping" into our lives, this is one of the most important rights which any of us have as American citizens.

He has consistently supported every Constitutional measure to step up the attack on organized crime and to aid police efforts to make our homes and families safer. He has co-authored and sponsored many laws to end bureaucratic bungling, to end red tape in government practices, and to make our tax dollar go farther through more efficient government.

Senator Long has never been too busy to help his fellow Missourians with any of their problems. He has truly been a "friend in the Senate" to all who have called upon him. He understands the needs of the people of this state and of the nation. That is why he has sponsored so many pieces of legislation which are so important for our future lives and security.

It is more essential than ever that the people of Missouri send Ed Long back to the Senate. All of us have in Ed Long . . . "a friend in the Senate." It is in the best interests of each of us to keep him there.

I hope you will join with thousands of your fellow citizens in voting for him on August 6.

Sincerely,

August A. Busch, Jr.

You have a friend in the Senate . . . Keep him there!

On Tuesday, August 6, Re-Elect U.S. Senator Edward V. Long, Democrat

Top State Race for Senate

ST. LOUIS (AP) - The Weather Bureau forecasts hot weather ahead and the political forecast is hotter in Missouri's primary election Tuesday.

The hottest race in the primary is for the Democratic Senatorial nomination. Sen. Edward Long is seeking reelection and faces the hardest fight of his career. He has been engulfed by controversy surrounding a national magazine article linking him with pipefitter union leader Lawrence Callanan.

Long has five men fighting for his seat, but only two of them are serious contenders. So serious, in fact, that political experts call the race "too close to call." The contenders are Lt. Gov. Thomas Eagleton and True Davis of St. Joseph.

An estimated 850,000 voters are expected to go to the polls.

In the biggest state primary race the outcomes are hardly in doubt. Incumbent Gov. Warren Hearnes is expected to breeze to Democratic renomination. His Republic opponent almost assuredly will be St. Louis County Supervisor Lawrence Roos, who has only token opposition.

There is also one other relatively quiet primary battle. Rep. Thomas Curtis of Webster Groves is considered a sure thing in the Republican Senatorial race. But that's the last of the one-sided contests.

In addition to the Democratic Senatorial race, the eight-way race for Lieutenant Governor is a steaming affair. Of the eight men, four are considered to have chances. They are William S. Morris of Kansas City, Edward L. Dowd of St. Louis, State Senator John E. Downs of St. Joseph and James W. Shaffer of Kansas City.

Of those four Morris and Dowd have drawn the most publicity with their charges and countercharges and underworld connections.

Another race where underworld connection charges are being bandied about is for the Democratic nomination for attorney general. Russell Millin of Kansas City and incumbent Norman Anderson are fighting that one out.

Running second to the heated individual races are three proposals being put to the voters. One is a state - wide proposal for a constitutional amendment that would create a new line of succession in the case of disability or death of a governor.

There are two other big issues in the St. Louis area. One is the proposed extension of the nonpartisan court plan into St. Louis County. The other is a proposed $31.8 million school bond issue in St. Louis.

State Sen. Lem T. Jones Jr. of Kansas City is regarded as the probable Republican winner in the GOP race for lieutenant governor.

The Republican nominee for attorney general expected to be John C. Danforth of Creve Coeur, who is opposed by Joseph E. Furtaw of Hillsboro.

Secretary of State James Kirkpatrick has no primary opposition on the Democratic side, and Murray C. Colbert of Montgomery City, former state ASC chairman, is expected to fight off the challenge of Maurice S. Karner of Creve Coeur on the Republican ticket.

William E. Robinson, Jefferson City insurance man and treasurer of the Democratic state committee, is the front runner for the treasurer's nomination.

He will be opposed in November either by William T. Zimmerman of Warrenton, who has run before, or former State Sen. W. H. Macon, former St. Louis County Republican chairman.

Hot contests are expected in some of the state senatorial districts.

State Sen. Michael Kinney, DpSt. Louis, who has been in the Senate since 1913, faces serious opposition from a young Negro leader, Rep. Raymond Howard.

So does the second man in Senate seniority, Sen. Edgar J. Keating of Kansas City, who has been in the Senate since 1945 and served several terms in the House before that. He is being challenged by Rep. Harold L. Holliday, also a young Negro leader.

Polls open at 6 a.m. Tuesday and close at 7 p.m. except in rural areas where they stay open until sunset.

Circuit judges will be on call as usual to hear any voter complaints.

Most State Offices To Close for Election

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - Most state and local government offices will be closed Tuesday, election day in Missouri.

It's a state holiday, and many of the patronage employes of the state go home to help get out the vote.

One office that will be very much open is that of county clerk. The clerks will be getting ready to tabulate the vote as the tallies come in from the precincts Tuesday night- and sometimes Wednesday morning.

Libraries Will Offer Film Service

JACKSON - The board of the Riverside Regional Library has passed a resolution to offer micro-film services of records of churches and organizations.

The service will insure the safe keeping of such records on vital statistics and history.

The library plans to engage the services of Central Microfilm Service Corporation of St. Louis to do the filming of records and the library furnishes the equipment to view and read the films and print copies from the film when needed.

Last spring when a fire destroyed the First Methodist church of Sikeston, all its records burned.

Fire Levels Anchor Inn at Grant City

An explosion and fire leveled the Anchor Inn in Grant City early today.

Sikeston firemen were called at 1:48 a.m. The building was blazing before firemen were called. Grant City is seven miles north of highway 61.

The unidentified person who called the Fire department said he was awakened by an explosion. The building was ablaze shortly afterward.

The business was not in operation and the building carried no insurance, Owner Jim Littleton, Sikeston, said.

The fire department was called at 8:18 p.m. Sunday to extinguish a fire in the attic of a house owned by Melvin B. Wilburn, 302 South Stoddard.

Faulty wiring was thought to be the cause of the fire. There was smoke damage throughout the house. Drapes in the living room were damaged. Most fire damage was confined to the attic.

Man Shot to Death After Argument

LILBOURN -- John Trimble, 45, was shot and killed at 6 p.m. Saturday on the Joe Bader farm one mile south of Baderville.

Charged with first degree murder is Roosevelt Quinn, 45, at whose home the shooting occurred.

Trimble was shot twice with a 10-gauge single barrel shotgun. One shot hit him in the right shoulder and neck, the other in the right pelvic region.

The sheriff's department said that Trimble and Quinn had been quarreling. Quinn surrendered to authorities when they went to the house to investigate.

He is being held in New Madrid county jail at New Madrid.

No inquest will be held.

Cat Dead So Boy Must Take Rabies Shots

A quick response was given Saturday to release of news that seven - year old George Anditon was bitten by a five - month - old cat, which may have had rabies.

The cat was injured in a fight with dogs when the Anditon boy picked it up and was bitten on the finger.

An effort was made to locate the cat for rabies tests but it was discovered after the news release that it had died.

The head of the cat was sent to a laboratory in Poplar Bluff.

Anditon's doctor requested that the boy take additional rabies shots because he believed the cat had been dead too long for an accurate test.

The Seabaugh woman received head and chest injuries, and a possible knee fracture.

GOP Convention Opens With Nixon Driving Hard to Win Nomination on First Ballot

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Republican party opened its 29th national convention today with Richard M. Nixon pushing hard to win the GOP presidential nomination on the first ballot.

By the Associated Press's count he was about 100 votes short and his two top challengers, Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Ronald Reagan of California, were pinning their hopes on extending the balloting Wednesday night beyond two rounds.

Rockefeller got a big break when the 58-vote Ohio delegation caucused just before the opening and decided to stick with Gov. James A. Rhodes, a favorite son, on the first ballot.

Rockefeller's strategy is to try to keep the several favorite son candidacies among the states alive long enough to give the impression that Nixon does not have the strength to go over the top.

Reagan, meanwhile, was striving to pick off individual delegates—an effort which Rockefeller said at a news conference was meeting with some succes.

"I think the movement is to Reagan in many of the delegations," Rockefeller said.

Of his own efforts, he said he is picking up "bits and pieces." The governor said his count showed Nixon with 550, himself with 350 and Reagan with 250.

The AP figured it Nixon 574 Rockefeller 232 and Reagan 159, with 144 delegates uncommitted and a whopping 218 for favorite sons. Needed for victory: 667.

Both Rockefeller and Reagan brushed aside the possibility of second place on the GOP ticket.

"I was not built for standby equipment," Rockefeller said.

Said Reagan: "I ruled myself out of that spot some time ago."

And Reagan predicted he would score "around the 200 mark" on the first ballot. He starts with California's 86 as a favorite son.

Rockefeller beamed, winked and joked as he fielded newsmen's questions. But he was unable to report any massive shift of strength to his side and said he wasn't planning any major announcement between now and Wednesday night, when the balloting begins.

The Ohioans, meanwhile, decided at a breakfast meeting to stand behind Rhodes, at least on the first round. All but two of the 58 acceeded to this tactic. The two mavericks were considered Nixon men.

The delegation chairman, John S. Andrews, said Reagan was trying to meet with the group and "we are attempting to work that out."

At the same time, Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's chief press spokesman, was telling reporters the former vice president did not intend to leave the choice of a running mate to the delegates.

Rather, Klein said, Nixon "will ask the convention to nominate his choice" and will disclose his choice after the presidential nominee is picked.

Nixon was due to fly in from New York later today to direct his drive from up close. There has been no doubt, though, that he has been calling all the shots.

The third in the field, Reagan, predicted the fight for the top spot would go beyond one ballot. He told newsmen cheerfully that the race was still open.

Reagan, quoted as telling an Alabama delegation caucus "I'm in this to win," was by all odds the busiest candidate in this overstuffed and overheated convention town.

Taking time out for a $500 plate fund-raising gala, Reagan scooted about town, meeting with southern and Rocky Mountain delegations in his efforts to win first ballot support away from Nixon.

Rockefeller, who called a morning news conference, registered an upsurge when 13 of Rhode Island's delegates caucused on their arrival and agreed to cast a first ballot vote for the New York governor.

Rockefeller was assured Massachusetts' 34 votes on the first round because of his write-in victory in that state's primary. However, Gov. John A. Volpe was working hard to swing a majority to Nixon on the second ballot, if there is one, despite his all but vanished hopes for the vice presidential nomination.

The ring of the Nixon anvil was predominant, although the candidate himself refrained from predicting a first ballot win. Nixon was to arrive for the convention tonight.

In the midst of the heavy campaigning, the convention's platform committee, headed by Illinois Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, came up with a 13,000 word document that seemed likely to get accepted without a ripple.

The committee adopted a Vietnam plank that urged "a progressive de-Americanization of the war" without "camouflaged surrender"—language obviously tailored to please both Nixon and Rockefeller.

The two leading candidates both praised the draft, while Reagan, whose views are more hawkish than the plank, had no immediate comment.

While the delegates were getting set for Wednesday's convention balloting, the evidence of the Nixon drive cropped up in many places.

Dirksen, who heads the 58vote Illinois delegation, helped turn on the burners for the Nixon forces with a public declaration that the former vice president "is so close to striking distance of the nomination that offhand I don't believe he could be stopped."

The Nixon pressure was such that Reagan felt it necessary to tell supporters of the former vice president in his California delegation that they would be "very foolish" if they tried to defect from his favorite son candidacy on the first ballot.

Reagan came away from a conference with Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes, a key man in the jockeying of the major candidates' for position, without any assurances about how long the Ohioan would or could hold the majority of his 58-vote delegation to his favorite son stance.

The Arkansas governor said, perhaps significantly, that he will not exert any pressure to swing the delegation to Nelson Rockefeller on the third ballot, although he said he thought the group would go with him if he did.

Three juvenile boys were arrested by Sikeston police Sunday in connection with the theft of about $150 from a wallet owned by Mrs. Hershel Duncan, 418 Illinois, at the Jaycee Swimming Pool.

The money was taken while Mrs. Duncan was sunning herself on a towel at the pool. The wallet was on the towel beside her when the theft occurred.

The youths were arrested at the pool and $132 was recovered. The youths have been turned over to juvenile authorities, police reported.

In other activity, Mrs. Cletus Cochran, 109 Second St., reported to police Saturday night that about $280 in furniture was taken from her house between July 20 and Aug. 3, while she was on vacation. Items taken included four tables, four chairs, a hot plate, a toaster, a dresser and a book case.

Johnny L. Duckworth, 27, Sikeston, reported to police that a hit-and-run driver damaged his car Sunday night while it was parked at 206 Bowman.

Airliner Lands Safely With Smaller Plane Embedded in Its Side by Mid-Air Collision

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — A jet-prop airliner, with the wreckage of a light plane and the bodies of its three young passengers embedded in its side, landed safely Sunday before most of the 10 passengers aboard knew what happened.

Capt. Ted Baum, 43, Skokie, Ill., brought the twin-engine plane in with one engine dead and his copilot badly injured in the cockpit.

"I thought that something was wrong, but not a collision," said Mrs. Nancy Steffens, 44, of Two Rivers. "I was more nervous after I got on the ground and realized it had been a collision."

"We didn't know what hit us. I think only the stewardess knew," said Wilma Ross, 17, of Saginaw, Mich., "and she just told us to stay seated with our seat belts on. The pilot came down with what seemed like a normal landing."

Officials said the single-engine Cessna 150 rammed North Central Airlines Flight 261, a Convair 580, over southern Wisconsin. The light plane hit just behind the copilot's seat, also damaging the propeller on the plane's right engine.

The copilot, first officer John Mazur, 30, of Wheaton, Ill., suffered multiple fractures of his right leg and head injuries. He was reported in serious condition in a Milwaukee hospital. He was the only person on the airliner injured.

The victim's bodies were removed after the plane landed. They were identified as Rick L. Stenberg, 19, of Elk Grove Village, Ill., the pilot; Virginia Johnson, 18, Mt. Prospect, Ill., and her brother, Richard, 12.

"That pilot did a fantastic landing job," a federal official said. Otherwise there was no comment as a team of about 35 National Transportation Safety Board investigators led by board examiner Thomas Saunders arrived from Washington to probe the cause of the crash.

Milwaukee police said the pilots told authorities they were flying 170 miles per hour at 3,500 feet, preparing to land at Milwaukee, when the private plane appeared suddenly on their right, then veered into the liner. The flight originated in Chicago and was headed to Manitowoc, with a stop at Milwaukee.

There was no panic in the big plane after the collision.

"I just felt a heavy thud and heard a bang," said Pam Pavlowich, who was returning to her Manitowoc home after a vacation. "Then someone yelled 'My God, take it easy,' and everyone got very quiet.

"Everyone acted very calmly," Miss Ross said. "Nobody panicked or anything. One woman just cried."

In the biggest state primary race the outcomes are hardly in doubt. Incumbent Gov. Warren Hearnes is expected to breeze to Democratic renomination. His Republic opponent almost assuredly will be St. Louis County Supervisor Lawrence Roos, who has only token opposition.

There is also one other relatively quiet primary battle. Rep. Thomas Curtis of Webster Groves is considered a sure thing in the Republican Senatorial race. But that's the last of the one-sided contests.

In addition to the Democratic Senatorial race, the eight-way race for Lieutenant Governor is a steaming affair. Of the eight men, four are considered to have chances. They are William S. Morris of Kansas City, Edward L. Dowd of St. Louis, State Senator John E. Downs of St. Joseph and James W. Shaffer of Kansas City.

Of those four Morris and Dowd have drawn the most publicity with their charges and countercharges and underworld connections.

Another race where underworld connection charges are being bandied about is for the Democratic nomination for attorney general. Russell Millin of Kansas City and incumbent Norman Anderson are fighting that one out.

Running second to the heated individual races are three proposals being put to the voters. One is a state - wide proposal for a constitutional amendment that would create a new line of succession in the case of disability or death of a governor.

There are two other big issues in the St. Louis area. One is the proposed extension of the nonpartisan court plan into St. Louis County. The other is a proposed $31.8 million school bond issue in St. Louis.

State Sen. Lem T. Jones Jr. of Kansas City is regarded as the probable Republican winner in the GOP race for lieutenant governor.

The Republican nominee for attorney general expected to be John C. Danforth of Creve Coeur, who is opposed by Joseph E. Furtaw of Hillsboro.

Secretary of State James Kirkpatrick has no primary opposition on the Democratic side, and Murray C. Colbert of Montgomery City, former state ASC chairman, is expected to fight off the challenge of Maurice S. Karner of Creve Coeur on the Republican ticket.

William E. Robinson, Jefferson City insurance man and treasurer of the Democratic state committee, is the front runner for the treasurer's nomination.

He will be opposed in November either by William T. Zimmerman of Warrenton, who has run before, or former State Sen. W. H. Macon, former St. Louis County Republican chairman.

Hot contests are expected in some of the state senatorial districts.

State Sen. Michael Kinney, DpSt. Louis, who has been in the Senate since 1913, faces serious opposition from a young Negro leader, Rep. Raymond Howard.

So does the second man in Senate seniority, Sen. Edgar J. Keating of Kansas City, who has been in the Senate since 1945 and served several terms in the House before that. He is being challenged by Rep. Harold L. Holliday, also a young Negro leader.

Polls open at 6 a.m. Tuesday and close at 7 p.m. except in rural areas where they stay open until sunset.

Circuit judges will be on call as usual to hear any voter complaints.

Most State Offices To Close for Election

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - Most state and local government offices will be closed Tuesday, election day in Missouri.

It's a state holiday, and many of the patronage employes of the state go home to help get out the vote.

One office that will be very much open is that of county clerk. The clerks will be getting ready to tabulate the vote as the tallies come in from the precincts Tuesday night and sometimes Wednesday morning.

Libraries Will Offer Film Service

JACKSON - The board of the Riverside Regional Library has passed a resolution to offer micro-film services of records of churches and organizations.

The service will insure the safe keeping of such records on vital statistics and history.

The library plans to engage the services of Central Microfilm Service Corporation of St. Louis to do the filming of records and the library furnishes the equipment to view and read the films and print copies from the film when needed.

Last spring when a fire destroyed the First Methodist church of Sikeston, all its records burned.

Fire Levels Anchor Inn at Grant City

An explosion and fire leveled the Anchor Inn in Grant City early today.

Sikeston firemen were called at 1:48 a.m. The building was blazing before firemen were called. Grant City is seven miles north of highway 61.

The unidentified person who called the Fire department said he was awakened by an explosion. The building was ablaze shortly afterward.

The business was not in operation and the building carried no insurance, Owner Jim Littleton, Sikeston, said.

The fire department was called at 8:18 p.m. Sunday to extinguish a fire in the attic of a house owned by Melvin B. Wilburn, 302 South Stoddard.

Faulty wiring was thought to be the cause of the fire. There was smoke damage throughout the house. Drapes in the living room were damaged. Most fire damage was confined to the attic.

Cat Dead So Boy Must Take Rabies Shots

A quick response was given Saturday to release of news that seven - year old George Anditon was bitten by a five - month - old cat, which may have had rabies.

The cat was injured in a fight with dogs when the Anditon boy picked it up and was bitten on the finger.

An effort was made to locate the cat for rabies tests but it was discovered after the news release that it had died.

The head of the cat was sent to a laboratory in Poplar Bluff.

Anditon's doctor requested that the boy take additional rabies shots because he believed the cat had been dead too long for an accurate test.

10 Injured in Weekend Highway Accidents

Weekend highway accidents sent 10 to the hospital. Three drivers were given a summons for careless driving.

Saturday at 8:30 p.m., on an unmarked road three miles north of Sikeston, a speeding 1968 Oldsmobile, driven by Solomon Ferguson, 31, Sikeston, failed to make a T intersection, went out of control, ran off the road and struck a tree, the state patrol reported.

The driver received cuts on his chest.

Four Sikeston passengers in his car were injured - Raymond Ferguson, 9, cuts on his right eye; Moses Gater, 7, cuts on his neck; Jerry Gater, 11, cuts on his head and possible neck injury, and Jethro Gater, 9, bruises on his face.

They were taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital.

A 1955 Chevrolet, driven by Otto Saschse, 72, Jackson, pulled out of a drive onto highway 72, the patrol reported, into the path of a 1966 Opal, driven by Sylvia Seabaugh, 20, Perryville, causing a collision.

The Seabaugh woman received head and chest injuries, and a possible knee fracture.

In a one-car accident Sunday at 2 a.m. on route J in Deering, a 1958 Chevrolet, driven by Jimmy Arnold, 24, Deering, ran off the road and overturned when he lost control on a curve.

He was taken to Pemiscot County Memorial hospital, Hayti, where he was treated for cuts on his head and a back injury.

He was given a summons by the patrol for careless and reckless driving.

GOP Convention Opens With Nixon Driving Hard to Win Nomination on First Ballot

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Republican party opened its 29th national convention today with Richard M. Nixon pushing hard to win the GOP presidential nomination on the first ballot.

By the Associated Press's count he was about 100 votes short and his two top challengers, Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Ronald Reagan of California, were pinning their hopes on extending the balloting Wednesday night beyond two rounds.

Rockefeller got a big break when the 58-vote Ohio delegation caucused just before the opening and decided to stick with Gov. James A. Rhodes, a favorite son, on the first ballot.

Rockefeller's strategy is to try to keep the several favorite son candidacies among the states alive long enough to give the impression that Nixon does not have the strength to go over the top.

Reagan, meanwhile, was striving to pick off individual delegates—an effort which Rockefeller said at a news conference was meeting with some succes.

"I think the movement is to Reagan in many of the delegations," Rockefeller said.

Of his own efforts, he said he is picking up "bits and pieces." The governor said his count showed Nixon with 550, himself with 350 and Reagan with 250.

The AP figured it Nixon 574 Rockefeller 232 and Reagan 159, with 144 delegates uncommitted and a whopping 218 for favorite sons. Needed for victory: 667.

Both Rockefeller and Reagan brushed aside the possibility of second place on the GOP ticket.

"I was not built for standby equipment," Rockefeller said.

Said Reagan: "I ruled myself out of that spot some time ago."

And Reagan predicted he would score "around the 200 mark" on the first ballot. He starts with California's 86 as a favorite son.

Rockefeller beamed, winked and joked as he fielded newsmen's questions. But he was unable to report any massive shift of strength to his side and said he wasn't planning any major announcement between now and Wednesday night, when the balloting begins.

The Ohioans, meanwhile, decided at a breakfast meeting to stand behind Rhodes, at least on the first round. All but two of the 58 acceeded to this tactic. The two mavericks were considered Nixon men.

The delegation chairman, John S. Andrews, said Reagan was trying to meet with the group and "we are attempting to work that out."

At the same time, Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's chief press spokesman, was telling reporters the former vice president did not intend to leave the choice of a running mate to the delegates.

Rather, Klein said, Nixon "will ask the convention to nominate his choice" and will disclose his choice after the presidential nominee is picked.

Nixon was due to fly in from New York later today to direct his drive from up close. There has been no doubt, though, that he has been calling all the shots.

The third in the field, Reagan, predicted the fight for the top spot would go beyond one ballot. He told newsmen cheerfully that the race was still open.

Reagan, quoted as telling an Alabama delegation caucus "I'm in this to win," was by all odds the busiest candidate in this overstuffed and overheated convention town.

Taking time out for a $500 plate fund-raising gala, Reagan scooted about town, meeting with southern and Rocky Mountain delegations in his efforts to win first ballot support away from Nixon.

Rockefeller, who called a morning news conference, registered an upsurge when 13 of Rhode Island's delegates caucused on their arrival and agreed to cast a first ballot vote for the New York governor.

Rockefeller was assured Massachusetts' 34 votes on the first round because of his write-in victory in that state's primary. However, Gov. John A. Volpe was working hard to swing a majority to Nixon on the second ballot, if there is one, despite his all but vanished hopes for the vice presidential nomination.

The ring of the Nixon anvil was predominant, although the candidate himself refrained from predicting a first ballot win. Nixon was to arrive for the convention tonight.

In the midst of the heavy campaigning, the convention's platform committee, headed by Illinois Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, came up with a 13,000 word document that seemed likely to get accepted without a ripple.

The committee adopted a Vietnam plank that urged "a progressive de-Americanization of the war" without "camouflaged surrender"—language obviously tailored to please both Nixon and Rockefeller.

The two leading candidates both praised the draft, while Reagan, whose views are more hawkish than the plank, had no immediate comment.

While the delegates were getting set for Wednesday's convention balloting, the evidence of the Nixon drive cropped up in many places.

Dirksen, who heads the 58vote Illinois delegation, helped turn on the burners for the Nixon forces with a public declaration that the former vice president "is so close to striking distance of the nomination that offhand I don't believe he could be stopped."

The Nixon pressure was such that Reagan felt it necessary to tell supporters of the former vice president in his California delegation that they would be "very foolish" if they tried to defect from his favorite son candidacy on the first ballot.

Reagan came away from a conference with Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes, a key man in the jockeying of the major candidates' for position, without any assurances about how long the Ohioan would or could hold the majority of his 58-vote delegation to his favorite son stance.

The Arkansas governor said, perhaps significantly, that he will not exert any pressure to swing the delegation to Nelson Rockefeller on the third ballot, although he said he thought the group would go with him if he did.

Airliner Lands Safely With Smaller Plane Embedded in Its Side by Mid-Air Collision

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — A jet-prop airliner, with the wreckage of a light plane and the bodies of its three young passengers embedded in its side, landed safely Sunday before most of the 10 passengers aboard knew what happened.

Capt. Ted Baum, 43, Skokie, Ill., brought the twin-engine plane in with one engine dead and his copilot badly injured in the cockpit.

"I thought that something was wrong, but not a collision," said Mrs. Nancy Steffens, 44, of Two Rivers. "I was more nervous after I got on the ground and realized it had been a collision."

"We didn't know what hit us. I think only the stewardess knew," said Wilma Ross, 17, of Saginaw, Mich., "and she just told us to stay seated with our seat belts on. The pilot came down with what seemed like a normal landing."

Officials said the single-engine Cessna 150 rammed North Central Airlines Flight 261, a Convair 580, over southern Wisconsin. The light plane hit just behind the copilot's seat, also damaging the propeller on the plane's right engine.

The copilot, first officer John Mazur, 30, of Wheaton, Ill., suffered multiple fractures of his right leg and head injuries. He was reported in serious condition in a Milwaukee hospital. He was the only person on the airliner injured.

The victim's bodies were removed after the plane landed. They were identified as Rick L. Stenberg, 19, of Elk Grove Village, Ill., the pilot; Virginia Johnson, 18, Mt. Prospect, Ill., and her brother, Richard, 12.

"That pilot did a fantastic landing job," a federal official said. Otherwise there was no comment as a team of about 35 National Transportation Safety Board investigators led by board examiner Thomas Saunders arrived from Washington to probe the cause of the crash.

Milwaukee police said the pilots told authorities they were flying 170 miles per hour at 3,500 feet, preparing to land at Milwaukee, when the private plane appeared suddenly on their right, then veered into the liner. The flight originated in Chicago and was headed to Manitowoc, with a stop at Milwaukee.

There was no panic in the big plane after the collision.

"I just felt a heavy thud and heard a bang," said Pam Pavlowich, who was returning to her Manitowoc home after a vacation. "Then someone yelled 'My God, take it easy,' and everyone got very quiet.

"Everyone acted very calmly," Miss Ross said. "Nobody panicked or anything. One woman just cried."

Juveniles Arrested For $150 Theft

Three juvenile boys were arrested by Sikeston police Sunday in connection with the theft of about $150 from a wallet owned by Mrs. Hershel Duncan, 418 Illinois, at the Jaycee Swimming Pool.

The money was taken while Mrs. Duncan was sunning herself on a towel at the pool. The wallet was on the towel beside her when the theft occurred.

The youths were arrested at the pool and $132 was recovered. The youths have been turned over to juvenile authorities, police reported.

In other activity, Mrs. Cletus Cochran, 109 Second St., reported to police Saturday night that about $280 in furniture was taken from her house between July 20 and Aug. 3, while she was on vacation. Items taken included four tables, four chairs, a hot plate, a toaster, a dresser and a book case.

Johnny L. Duckworth, 27, Sikeston, reported to police that a hit-and-run driver damaged his car Sunday night while it was parked at 206 Bowman.

Shelton R. Bisher, Anniston, was charged by police Saturday with driving while intoxicated. He was arrested on North Main St.

Audley Woodrow Cummins, route two, Sikeston, was charged Saturday with public intoxication. He was arrested on North Kingshighway.

POOR CHARLIE SUGGESTS:

That you study the qualifications of Warren Hearnes for Governor.

Edward L. Dowd for Lt. Governor.

James C. Kirkpatrick for Secretary of State.

Russell Millin for Attorney General.

William E. Robinson for State Treasurer.

David Rolwing for Congress.

Tom Eagleton for United States Senator.

EAGLETON: BEST OF THREE

As the Missouri primary campaign draws a close, it seems to us that the one candidate who has come out of it most creditably, and who offers the brightest promise of future political service of a high order, is Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton, candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator.

Mr. Eagleton is a progressive, running for the Senate at a time when a wave of reaction is sweeping the country. Resentment against the Vietnam war, discontent over climbing prices and climbing taxes the backlash against urban riots and crime, racial fears and tensions, have all combined, in Missouri as elsewhere, to create a mean public mood which gives vent to such excesses as the George Wallace movement.

In these circumstances it might have been a temptation for Mr. Eagleton to abandon his principles and join the pack of politicians who seek to exploit the public sense of frustration. That he has not done so is the highest recommendation for his nomination next Tuesday.

In the face of a widespread unwillingness to listen to rational discourse, Mr. Eagleton has gone on discussing the issues that matter, thoughtfully and constructively - as for example in a recent speech exploring the implications of our ballooning military budget. This kind of campaigning may not get as much attention as public - relations razzle - dazzle, but it has more enduring worth. The current public mood will pass, and when it does Missouri will be grateful for having nominated a Senatorial candidate who did not bend to the wind.

The unfocused bitterness which marks this political season no doubt will have its greatest impact on incumbents, including Senator Edward V. Long. Within the framework of the "old politics" - the balancing of voting blocs and the eager service to group interests - Senator Long has not been a bad Senator. But this is a time for change, a time for new politics, and we therefore favor Mr. Eagleton's nomination. He is one of the ablest young politicians in the state, capable of becoming a truly distinguished Senator, and would be the most fitting Democratic candidate to face Republican Thomas B. Curtis in November.

It would be incomprehensible for the Democrats to nominate the third man in the primary contest, True Davis of St. Joseph. As the campaign has developed, Mr. Davis has revealed himself as more of a conservative than Mr. Curtis. A choice between these two in November would be no choice at all. Missouri has no need to send a Dixiecrat, to the Senate. If it wants conservatism, it should send Mr. Curtis there.

Mr. Davis, unlike Lt. Gov. Eagleton, is doing his best, which includes spending pots of money, to exploit the current public mood of frustration. Since he found out that many Missourians oppose gun controls, he has virtually based his campaign on the absurd proposition that any kind of gun regulation is equivalent to tacking a sign on the door welcoming rapists and criminals. More and more, he is campaigning in favor of the American flag and against Communism, neither of which are at issue in this election. While he has soft - pedaled his views on the Vietnam war in the St. Louis area, elsewhere he proudly parades as a hawk whose policy is to "win the war with no restrictions, except nuclear." He is running against inflation, "giveaway programs," dishonesty and immorality. He inveighs against Black Power outstate, and courts Negro votes with money and handouts in the cities.

This is the typical campaign of a wealthy right - winger who hopes to ride into office on a wave of public discontent, although he has not the faintest understanding of the sources of that discontent or what to do about them. Missouri Democrats who want the kind of political change they can be proud of when the current hysteria has subsided will vote for Thomas F. Eagleton for Senator.

DOWD OVER MORRIS

It is well known that Alex Presta, ex-convict and reputed associate of gangland characters, is backing W. S. (Bill) Morris for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

Mr. Morris, at the Press Club of St. Louis conference Thursday, had an opportunity to disavow this support. That he chose not to do so - only to say that he was not soliciting Presta's backing - was disturbing.

Edward L. Dowd, who charges that Morris is backed by former convict Jimmie Michaels of St. Louis, as well as Presta of Kansas City's wheeling and dealing North Side, says he wants no part of Presta or his associates.

Morris, however, claims he knows Presta only as a real estate man and politician.

Ordinarily we might accept Mr. Morris' apparent naivete without too much concern. But he is running for the second highest office in the state of Missouri. If he has not learned about the Presta reputation by now, it can be properly wondered how rigidly he might work to rid the state of underworld elements which reportedly have grown stronger in recent years.

Mr. Dowd, by contrast, is making the strong impression of a man who would use his power to make life miserable for disreputable elements in the state if he were elected lieutenant governor.

We prefer a man like Dowd who calls a spade a spade and a Presta a Presta. We know from his record, as head of the St. Louis Police Board and as Circuit Attorney, that we need have no misgivings about his judgment, integrity or strong desire to carry out the duties of his office.

On the basis of what we have seen and heard we are confirmed in the belief that Ed Dowd is much to be preferred to Mr. Morris who seems too heavily immersed in Kansas City politics and too unconcerned about where his support comes from. Globe Democrat

"Timely Items," published by the Public Service Company of Colorado, said: "Nationwide gasoline taxes, now averaging 10.6 cents a gallon, provided a total of $8.1 billion to federal and state coffers in 1967. Totally, since the first gasoline tax, a one - cent - a -gallon levy, went into effect in 1919, collections have amounted to $111 billion. During 1967, Americans registered about 97.5 million nonmilitary motor vehicles, which included 81 million passenger cars and nearly 16.5 million trucks and buses. Highway consumption of motor fuel for 1967 is estimated at 77.8 billion gallons."

UPPER RIGHT CORNER

A good many voters are going to come face to face with a constitutional amendment on Tuesday, and wonder what the amendment means. It has not had much publicity and has no immediate applicability, yet it is important.

The amendment would establish a system for gubernatorial succession in Missouri, similar to the plan recently added to the United States Constitution. Missouri's succession would run from the Governor to Lieutenant Governor to president pro tempore of the Senate and speaker of the House, and so on.

What is perhaps more important, as it was on the federal case, is the provision for gubernatorial disability, physical or mental. The amendment would create a disability board of nine high officials to declare that the Governor is incapable of carrying out his duties. If the Governor felt otherwise, the Supreme Court would have to settle the issue.

Voters may hope that Missouri never will need to employ such a process affecting the highest office in the state, but hope is not assurance or insurance. The amendment represents the latter, and merits approval.

GOOD REASONF FOR SURGE TO ED DOWD'S CANDIDACY

Has Edward L. Dowd of St. Louis overtaken his chief rival, W. S. (Bill) Morris, in the critical race for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor of Missouri?

Reports reaching key Democratic workers indicate he may have.

The information is highly significant because Bill Morris was conceded to have had a major start on other candidates, including Dowd, in his campaign for the office.

However, we are not surprised by the reports.

We are convinced that if sufficient Missourians have the occasion or take the time to compare the candidacies of the nine - man field they will nominate Dowd because he is by far the best suited and qualified for the office. He is best suited in background, statesmanship, integrity and common sense for the office, which is only a "heart beat" from the governor's chair.

Moreover, a major issue in the race now is Bill Morris' association with the dubious Kansas City North Side political faction, whose boss is ex-convict Alex Presta. Moreover, the St. Louis Pipefitters, headed by ex-convict Lawrence Callanan, are expected to support Morris.

Candidate Morris denies receiving any funds from the Pipefitters. And he contends he has made no promises to anyone. And that he is his own man.

Yet, it is common knowledge that Presta and Callanan do not accept no for an answer very readily. They will try to demand payment on any political IOUs - past or present, large or small.

As we have indicated, we do not know whether Mr. Morris has made any promises - big or small - to such dubious elements. But we do not believe the associations - whatever the extent - can be ignored.

In Edward L. Dowd, Missourians need not have the slightest misgiving, qualm or question. He is a candidate of stature in every sense of the word. A candidate for all Missourians - rural and urban.

The office of lieutenant governor of Missouri is too important .... too critical .... to settle for anything less than the best.

We hope Mid-Missourians, who have been leaning toward Bill Morris or some other candidate, will switch their support to Edward L. Dowd in Tuesday's primary election. The stakes are too steep to do anything else.

NEW YORK (AP) — Some people collect old shoe buttons, Chinese proverbs, barbed wire or picture post cards.

My friend Toby collects friends.

She needs no formal introduction to add a new specimen to her vast assemblage. She accumulates them everywhere—in the subway, at the adjacent restaurant table, even while waiting for the light to change.

A stranger who stops to ask directions has, within the next five minutes, become a firm friend. Not only have the two exchanged life histories but they have formulated plans for having lunch together within the next week.

This acquisitive habit of hers necessarily slows down our progress on joint outings. At the store counter we can't simply pick and pay—she has to take time to talk to any likely prospect in the vicinity.

Not long ago I accompanied my friendly friend on our weekly grocery-shopping expedition. At the produce department she spotted another woman and the two rushed together with excited exclamations of greeting. As I hovered nearby filling my basket with peaches and potatoes, carrots and cucumbers, I caught snatches of their conversation:

"And your son," inquired Toby, "is he still troubled with allergy["

"Oh, the shots are helping," replied the other. "What college did your daughter finally decide to attend["

Plainly, this was no casual acquaintance. I wasn't sure whether they'd grown up together or had merely lived in the same neighborhood for years, but obviously they were well versed in the details of one another's lives. I ambled slowly along the aisles, allowing them plenty of time to catch up on recent happenings before I finally indicated my impatience to get out of the store.

Reluctantly the two parted, with fervent hopes of getting together again soon.

"Well," I pointed out a bit miffed, "you really might have introduced me to such an old friend."

"I'm so sorry," Toby apologized, "but I don't even know her name. She's a woman I got to talking to a few weeks ago while we were both waiting at the meat counter."

CHRISTIANITY'S PROCEPTS

Christmas is almost upon us. The cherry bells of loyal Salvation Army workers are a sure sign of the season. They and similar evidence of the gentle customs and traditions of Christmas are reassuring proof that we still live in a reasonably stable society.

If we will but observe Christmas in its broader meaning this year, it should help bring reason and humility to our aid in finding answers to man-made evils.

Christianity is the faith of civilized man. Its precepts become most clear in the enduring observances of the Christmas Season. The disorders that have swept the world and our land are a signal that we should repair to the precepts of Christianity, and there is no better time to start than this Christmas Season.

WORKERS AND COMMUNISM

Communist propaganda boasts that communist countries are a paradise for the working class. Because capitalists no longer own industry, so the propaganda goes, workingmen enjoy ideal conditions.

Nothing is further from the truth. When communism takes over, freedom is lost. When an economy cannot function in freedom, all people suffer.

In communist countries, the state controls industry. The obvious result of centralized control of business and industry is a great loss of efficiency. Since the communist leaders do not dare to admit their failure, they place the responsibility for the decreased production on the workers and put even greater burdens on them in an attempt to regain the lost capacity. Thus the workers are much worse off than they ever were before communism.

A recent example of the fate of workingmen under communism was reported in the Weekly Labor Forecast and Review. This publication stated that at a May Day rally, a Cuban labor official said: "The eight-hour workday has become a ridiculous thing." He called for a ''workday of conscience . . . dictated by revolutionary duty."

What he obviously meant was that production had fallen considerably under communism, and therefore workers would be forced to work longer hours in an attempt to increase production.

This was confirmed by a later Havana Radio announcement that 8,000 workers at a cement plant near the city had changed from eight-hour days to twelve-hour days. They received no increase in pay.

When a slave state such as communist Cuba is set up, the only one who "benefit" are the communist leaders who control the system. The workers inevitably suffer. HLH

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY: Rockefeller leads candidates in government experience; his grandfather was most hated man in America; right wing Republicans now hate Nelson.

(Editor's Note -- The Washington Merry-Go-Round continues its diagnosis of Republican candidates, today focusing on Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York.)

ROCKEFELLER PREDICTION

Exactly 10 years ago -- August 25, 1958--Drew Pearson made this interesting comment: "The Republican state convention meeting in Rochester . . .,. is grooming a man who may challenge Vice President Nixon for the Presidential nomination -- Nelson Rockefeller."

Today in Miami the real showdown for the GOP nomination is between Nixon and Rockefeller.

MIAMI -- In 1942 when Nelson Rockefeller was appointed coordinator of Latin - American affairs by Franklin Roosevelt there was a howl of protest from the countries he was supposed to coordinate.

The Latin - American Press pointed to the fact that for years American Oil Companies had exploited them; that the American fleet had fired at Vera Cruz and Tampico in 1917 because of a dispute over oil; yet Roosevelt had put in charge of Latin - American affairs a scion of the family which had built up the biggest oil fortune in the world.

One year later, however, the Latin - American press was singing a different tune. In one year they had found in Nelson Rockefeller a friend and champion. It discovered the truth of the remark which Bernard Gimbel made to John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Nelson's father, when John D. arrived a little early for the dedication of a new Gimbel Brothers Department Store.

Mr. Gimbel remarked on John D.'s boys -- Laurence, who had gone in for helping the government acquire national parks; John D. III, who was helping the city of New York build Lincoln Center; Winthrop, who was on the way to becoming governor of Arkansas, and Nelson, who had just become governor of New York.

"You deserve a lot of credit for raising a family like that," said Mr. Gimbel.

"Mrs. Rockefeller had something to do with it," replied John D. Jr.

HATED GRANDFATHER

The dedication of the Rockefeller family to public service is now such an old story that it's almost a new story. Few people of this generation have any recollection of how bitterly old John D. was hated at the turn of the century.

Today his grandsons -- especially Nelson -- are loved by those who hated old John D., and hated by those who admired the economic buccaneering of his grandfather. It is the extreme right wing of the Republican party which condones the monpolistic tactics which that built up the Rockefeller fortune. And it is these admirers of old John D. who booed his grandson at San Francisco to the point where he could not speak.

Seldom has a candidate of either party been treated more discourteously. And the big question at Miami is -- can the man who was booed in 1964 stage a comeback in 1968? If so, even the Democrats admit that he could win in November.

NELSON'S RECORD

To get the answer let's first look at the record.

Few men are more experienced in government today than Nelson Rockefeller. Under Roosevelt and Truman he became assistant Secretary of State, in which capacity he helped negotiate the Treaty of Chapultepec, binding the Americas to resist foreign communism.

He went on to serve as undersecretary of HEW under Eisenhower and later on Ike's White House staff, where he was not happy. Nelson is a man who wants to get things done, and Ike was surrounded with men who wanted to sit tight. Frustrated, he got tired and went back to New York, though not before selling Ike the No. 1 achievement of the 1955 summit conference in Geneva.

One of the authors of this column, lunching with Eisenhower in 1948, had tried to sell him on a policy of people - to - people friendhsip with the countries behind the iron curtain. The friendship train had dramatically pioneered this kind of people- to - people friendship becane the No. 1 achievement of the Summit meeting. It has been a part of American policy ever since.

Bored with so little other accomplishment in Washington, however, Nelson went up to New York to run for governor. He ran against a highly popular Democrat who had made a great record -- Averell Harriman.

But Nelson had behind him a long record of Rockefeller Public Service; the gift of the beautiful UN building to the United Nations; the development of Lincoln Center for the new Metropolitan Opera house; a gift of around $40,000,000 over the years to Negro colleges; other gifts to Catholic and Jewish charities.

Several hundred million dollars used for the public good, especially when accompanied by sincerity, dedication, and charm, is hard to beat. Nelson was elected governor of New York in 1958, and has been reelected by increasing majorities ever since.

The secret of these majorities is the vote of Democrats.

A lot of Republicans don't like Rockefeller, consider him much too liberal. Remarked Alexander "Casey" Jones, former editor of the Washington Post, then editor of the Syracuse Herald: "I've been a Republican all my life. I want to keep on being a Republican. But this fellow Rockefeller is making it awfully hard for me."

Essentially this is why Rockefeller was booed at San Francisco and why he is the underdog in Miami.

The inescapable fact is that a lot of Republicans would rather lose with Nixon than win with Rockefeller. But what Rocky says is true: In order to win, the Republicans have to capture a sizeable slice of Democratic votes; and he could do it. That is the choice facing the Republican party at Miami.

Johnson Plans Pre-Convention Chicago Demonstration of His Own

Washington, D. C.: -- It it's a demonstration they want, Lyndon Baines Johnson is about to give it to them. The President, presumably now a cross between a hawk and a lame duck, plans to show the doves just how it's done -- and right in Chicago's International Amphitheatre at that.

A few days before the Democratic National Convention, he'll fly into the windy city for a "non-political" speech to thousands of built-in delegates, cheers, snake dances, drum beats, and fraternal affections all guaranteed.

For, these will be the delegates, friends and wifes all gathered for the United Steelworkers' 14th Constitutional Convention at the Amphitheatre the week of August 19.

Mr. Johnson, one morning in midweek, will walk onto that platform amid brasses howling All Hail the Chief and Solidarity Forever. Around him will be the powerhouse of labor -- the men of steel led by I. W. (Abe) Abel, who coincidentally, is chairman of the National Labor Committee For Humphrey.

None of this will be lost of the delegates to the Democratic National Convention, who will move into the giant auditorium when the steelworkers move out. Mr. Johnson will be showing the flag for the team -- himself, Hubert Humphrey, and the labor establishment. This is a formidable combine.

It will mark the week when labor really begins rolling out the barrel, the red carpet, and the manpower.

And all of it before the greatest concentration of typewriter and electronic newsmen this overwrought civilization has known.

Certainly, Lyndon Johnson will shilelagh the steel corporations. But the order, ardor and armoa, of the gathering will be politics.

It will all start early on the morning of August 19 when Vice President Humphrey, frolicking among men he has known intimately for some 25 years, takes 1,000 breakfasters into his confidence at the O'Hare International Inn.

They'll all be guests of the newly dynamic Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks -- which proved its modernity not too long ago be choosing a one man dynamo, C. L. Dennis as it's chief executive officer, and later, by buying a piece of the Miami Dolphins football team.

After the breakfast a long caravan will drive for two minutes ground-breaking ceremonies at the site of what will be the Brotherhood's new national headquarters, a seven-story building set near the airport so orgainizers can fly in, confer and fan out, all in a few hours. It's a new unionism.

Among the thousand bacon and eggs guests will be the nation's most influential labor chiefs, who see Hubert Humphrey as their one, intense hope of stopping the Republicans.

Later the caravan will head for the Amphitheatre where the steelworkers delegates will waite, placard in hand, bands at the alert, all joyous at having won the fatt st wage and benefit contract in their three decades.

Then Mr. Humphrey will stir things up, knowing full well that this is one demonstration the hecklers won't disrupt. No one but steelworkers ever disrupt a steelworkers' convention.

Following the Vice President by 24 hours will be cigar-chomping George Meany, the leader of 13.5 million workers who looks like a center for the old New York Giants, and moves like an Ivy League offensive quarterback.

No doubt Mr. Meany will stay on to be with his old comrade in arms, Lyndon Johnson, who will be talking with other comrades such as the pro of pros, Richard Daley.

Then the labor strategists will hole up in the Hotel Drake, and as, they did in Los Angeles back in '60, throw around their considerable weight.

At least 250 union officials will be delegates to the Democratic convention. But, truly, their strength is qualitative as much as quantitative.

The men of the academies like to think of labor leaders as so much beef on the hoof. Not so. These are fantastic political strategists.

They know that most of the northern, midwestern, western and even some of the southern delegates must come to them for local financing and campaigning. And because these delegates will heed the arguments of the labor men, the 250 pro-Humphrey delegates hardly are a measure of labor's influence at the Democratic nominating sessions.

The National Labor Committee for Humphrey is not just paper mache and news releases. It's a going business now that the convention is at hand, and Mr. Humphrey's hydra-headed, discombobulated, personal machine has shown it creaks most of the time.

Just for example, there's the labor committee's newly organized New York section, set in motion quietly in Albany on Friday, July 26. Its leaders, the garment workers' Louis Stulberg and his assistant, Gus Tyler, the committee's executive director, have done their homework.

Their studies show that the average age of the American voter today is 48 -- not 28 or 38. About half the eligible voters between 21 and 35 aren't registered. Others are just setting up homes, or are on the move, or at universities and just don't vote.

So while it's grand fun, and exciting, and full of street circuses, to reach for the youth vote -- which must be done -- the most powerful voting bloc averages just under 50. And most of them are in the under -- $10,000-a-year income bracket.

The New York Labor Committee For Humphrey will be reaching out for them. And this committee is made up of 90 unions led by such national labor leaders as Lou Stulberg, the hands' Dick Walsh, and the Service Employes' Dave Sullivan.

Thcy're set for high gear, high politics, high campaigning. Chicago is their first stop.

POOR CHARLIE SUGGESTS:

That you study the qualifications of Warren Hearnes for Governor.

Edward L. Dowd for Lt. Governor.

James C. Kirkpatrick for Secretary of State.

Russell Millin for Attorney General.

William E. Robinson for State Treasurer.

David Rolwing for Congress.

Tom Eagleton for United States Senator.

* * *

EAGLETON: BEST OF THREE

As the Missouri primary campaign draws a close, it seems to us that the one candidate who has come out of it most creditably, and who offers the brightest promise of future political service of a high order, is Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton, candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator.

Mr. Eagleton is a progressive, running for the Senate at a time when a wave of reaction is sweeping the country. Resentment against the Vietnam war, discontent over climbing prices and climbing taxes, the backlash against urban riots and crime, racial fears and tensions, have all combined, in Missouri as elsewhere, to create a mean public mood which gives vent to such excesses as the George Wallace movement.

In these circumstances it might have been a temptation for Mr. Eagleton to abandon his principles and join the pack of politicians who seek to exploit the public sense of frustration. That he has not done so is the highest recommendation for his nomination next Tuesday.

In the face of a widespread unwillingness to listen to rational discourse, Mr. Eagleton has gone on discussing the issues that matter, thoughtfully and constructively - as for example in a recent speech exploring the implications of our ballooning military budget. This kind of campaigning may not get as much attention as public - relations razzle - dazzle, but it has more enduring worth. The current public mood will pass, and when it does Missouri will be grateful for having nominated a Senatorial candidate who did not bend to the wind.

The unfocused bitterness which marks this political season no doubt will have its greatest impact on incumbents, including Senator Edward V. Long. Within the framework of the "old politics" - the balancing of voting blocs and the eager service to group interests - Senator Long has not been a bad Senator. But this is a time for change, a time for new politics, and we therefore favor Mr. Eagleton's nomination. He is one of the ablest young politicians in the state, capable of becoming a truly distinguished Senator, and would be the most fitting Democratic candidate to face Republican Thomas B. Curtis in November.

It would be incomprehensible for the Democrats to nominate the third man in the primary contest, True Davis of St. Joseph. As the campaign has developed, Mr. Davis has revealed himself as more of a conservative than Mr. Curtis. A choice between these two in November would be no choice at all. Missouri has no need to send a Dixiecrat, to the Senate. If it wants conservatism, it should send Mr. Curtis there.

Mr. Davis, unlike Lt. Gov. Eagleton, is doing his best, which includes spending pots of money, to exploit the current public mood of frustration. Since he found out that many Missourians oppose gun controls, he has virtually based his campaign on the absurd proposition that any kind of gun regulation is equivalent to tacking a sign on the door welcoming rapists and criminals. More and more, he is campaigning in favor of the American flag and against Communism, neither of which are at issue in this election. While he has soft - pedaled his views on the Vietnam war in the St. Louis area, elsewhere he proudly parades as a hawk whose policy is to "win the war with no restrictions, except nuclear." He is running against inflation, "giveaway programs," dishonesty and immorality. He inveighs against Black Power outstate, and courts Negro votes with money and handouts in the cities.

This is the typical campaign of a wealthy right - winger who hopes to ride into office on a wave of public discontent, although he has not the faintest understanding of the sources of that discontent or what to do about them. Missouri Democrats who want the kind of political change they can be proud of when the current hysteria has subsided will vote for Thomas F. Eagleton for Senator.

DOWD OVER MORRIS

It is well known that Alex Presta, ex-convict and reputed associate of gangland characters, is backing W. S. (Bill) Morris for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

Mr. Morris, at the Press Club of St. Louis conference Thursday, had an opportunity to disavow this support. That he chose not to do so - only to say that he was not soliciting Presta's backing - was disturbing.

Edward L. Dowd, who charges that Morris is backed by former convict Jimmie Michaels of St. Louis, as well as Presta of Kansas City's wheeling and dealing North Side, says he wants no part of Presta or his associates.

Morris, however, claims he knows Presta only as a real estate man and politician.

Ordinarily we might accept Mr. Morris' apparent naivete without too much concern. But he is running for the second highest office in the state of Missouri. If he has not learned about the Presta reputation by now, it can be properly wondered how rigidly he might work to rid the state of underworld elements which reportedly have grown stronger in recent years.

Mr. Dowd, by contrast, is making the strong impression of a man who would use his power to make life miserable for disreputable elements in the state if he were elected lieutenant governor.

We prefer a man like Dowd who calls a spade a spade and a Presta a Presta. We know from his record, as head of the St. Louis Police Board and as Circuit Attorney, that we need have no misgivings about his judgment, integrity or strong desire to carry out the duties of his office.

On the basis of what we have seen and heard we are confirmed in the belief that Ed Dowd is much to be preferred to Mr. Morris who seems too heavily immersed in Kansas City politics and too unconcerned about where his support comes from. Globe Democrat

"Timely Items," published by the Public Service Company of Colorado, said: "Nationwide gasoline taxes, now averaging 10.6 cents a gallon, provided a total of $8.1 billion to federal and state coffers in 1967. Totally, since the first gasoline tax, a one - cent - a -gallon levy, went into effect in 1919, collections have amounted to $111 billion. During 1967, Americans registered about 97.5 million nonmilitary motor vehicles, which included 81 million passenger cars and nearly 16.5 million trucks and buses. Highway consumption of motor fuel for 1967 is estimated at 77.8 billion gallons."

UPPER RIGHT CORNER

A good many voters are going to come face to face with a constitutional amendment on Tuesday, and wonder what the amendment means. It has not had much publicity and has no immediate applicability, yet it is important.

The amendment would establish a system for gubernatorial succession in Missouri, similar to the plan recently added to the United States Constitution. Missouri's succession would run from the Governor to Lieutenant Governor to president pro tempore of the Senate and speaker of the House, and so on.

What is perhaps more important, as it was on the federal case, is the provision for gubernatorial disability, physical or mental. The amendment would create a disability board of nine high officials to declare that the Governor is incapable of carrying out his duties. If the Governor felt otherwise, the Supreme Court would have to settle the issue.

Voters may hope that Missouri never will need to employ such a process affecting the highest office in the state, but hope is not assurance or insurance. The amendment represents the latter, and merits approval.

GOOD REASONF FOR SURGE TO ED DOWD'S CANDIDACY

Has Edward L. Dowd of St. Louis overtaken his chief rival, W. S. (Bill) Morris, in the critical race for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor of Missouri?

Reports reaching key Democratic workers indicate he may have.

The information is highly significant because Bill Morris was conceded to have had a major start on other candidates, including Dowd, in his campaign for the office.

However, we are not surprised by the reports.

We are convinced that if sufficient Missourians have the occasion or take the time to compare the candidacies of the nine - man field they will nominate Dowd because he is by far the best suited and qualified for the office. He is best suited in background, statesmanship, integrity and common sense for the office, which is only a "heart beat" from the governor's chair.

Moreover, a major issue in the race now is Bill Morris' association with the dubious Kansas City North Side political faction, whose boss is ex-convict Alex Presta. Moreover, the St. Louis Pipefitters, headed by ex-convict Lawrence Callanan, are expected to support Morris.

Candidate Morris denies receiving any funds from the Pipefitters. And he contends he has made no promises to anyone. And that he is his own man.

Yet, it is common knowledge that Presta and Callanan do not accept no for an answer very readily. They will try to demand payment on any political IOUs - past or present, large or small.

As we have indicated, we do not know whether Mr. Morris has made any promises - big or small - to such dubious elements. But we do not believe the associations - whatever the extent - can be ignored.

In Edward L. Dowd, Missourians need not have the slightest misgiving, qualm or question. He is a candidate of stature in every sense of the word. A candidate for all Missourians - rural and urban.

The office of lieutenant governor of Missouri is too important .... too critical .... to settle for anything less than the best.

We hope Mid-Missourians, who have been leaning toward Bill Morris or some other candidate, will switch their support to Edward L. Dowd in Tuesday's primary election. The stakes are too steep to do anything else.

NEW YORK (AP) — Some people collect old shoe buttons, Chinese proverbs, barbed wire or picture post cards.

My friend Toby collects friends.

She needs no formal introduction to add a new specimen to her vast assemblage. She accumulates them everywhere—in the subway, at the adjacent restaurant table, even while waiting for the light to change.

A stranger who stops to ask directions has, within the next five minutes, become a firm friend. Not only have the two exchanged life histories but they have formulated plans for having lunch together within the next week.

This acquisitive habit of hers necessarily slows down our progress on joint outings. At the store counter we can't simply pick and pay—she has to take time to talk to any likely prospect in the vicinity.

Not long ago I accompanied my friendly friend on our weekly grocery-shopping expedition. At the produce department she spotted another woman and the two rushed together with excited exclamations of greeting. As I hovered nearby filling my basket with peaches and potatoes, carrots and cucumbers, I caught snatches of their conversation:

"And your son," inquired Toby, "is he still troubled with allergy["

"Oh, the shots are helping," replied the other. "What college did your daughter finally decide to attend["

Plainly, this was no casual acquaintance. I wasn't sure whether they'd grown up together or had merely lived in the same neighborhood for years, but obviously they were well versed in the details of one another's lives. I ambled slowly along the aisles, allowing them plenty of time to catch up on recent happenings before I finally indicated my impatience to get out of the store.

Reluctantly the two parted, with fervent hopes of getting together again soon.

"Well," I pointed out a bit miffed, "you really might have introduced me to such an old friend."

"I'm so sorry," Toby apologized, "but I don't even know her name. She's a woman I got to talking to a few weeks ago while we were both waiting at the meat counter."

III, who was helping the city of New York build Lincoln Center; Winthrop, who was on the way to becoming governor of Arkansas, and Nelson, who had just become governor of New York.

"You deserve a lot of credit for raising a family like that," said Mr. Gimbel.

"Mrs. Rockefeller had something to do with it," replied John D. Jr.

HATED GRANDFATHER

The dedication of the Rockefeller family to public service is now such an old story that it's almost a new story. Few people of this generation have any recollection of how bitterly old John D. was hated at the turn of the century.

Today his grandsons -- especially Nelson -- are loved by those who hated old John D., and hated by those who admired the economic buccaneering of his grandfather. It is the extreme right wing of the Republican party which condones the monpolistic tactics which that built up the Rockefeller fortune. And it is these admirers of old John D. who booed his grandson at San Francisco to the point where he could not speak.

Seldom has a candidate of either party been treated more discourteously. And the big question at Miami is -- can the man who was booed in 1964 stage a comeback in 1968? If so, even the Democrats admit that he could win in November.

NELSON'S RECORD

To get the answer let's first look at the record.

Few men are more experienced in government today than Nelson Rockefeller. Under Roosevelt and Truman he became assistant Secretary of State, in which capacity he helped negotiate the Treaty of Chapultepec, binding the Americas to resist foreign communism.

He went on to serve as undersecretary of HEW under Eisenhower and later on Ike's White House staff, where he was not happy. Nelson is a man who wants to get things done, and Ike was surrounded with men who wanted to sit tight. Frustrated, he got tired and went back to New York, though not before selling Ike the No. 1 achievement of the 1955 summit conference in Geneva.

One of the authors of this column, lunching with Eisenhower in 1948, had tried to sell him on a policy of people - to - people friendhsip with the countries behind the iron curtain. The friendship train had dramatically pioneered this kind of people- to - people friendship becane the No. 1 achievement of the Summit meeting. It has been a part of American policy ever since.

Bored with so little other accomplishment in Washington, however, Nelson went up to New York to run for governor. He ran against a highly popular Democrat who had made a great record -- Averell Harriman.

But Nelson had behind him a long record of Rockefeller Public Service; the gift of the beautiful UN building to the United Nations; the development of Lincoln Center for the new Metropolitan Opera house; a gift of around $40,000,000 over the years to Negro colleges; other gifts to Catholic and Jewish charities.

Several hundred million dollars used for the public good, especially when accompanied by sincerity, dedication, and charm, is hard to beat. Nelson was elected governor of New York in 1958, and has been reelected by increasing majorities ever since.

The secret of these majorities is the vote of Democrats.

A lot of Republicans don't like Rockefeller, consider him much too liberal. Remarked Alexander "Casey" Jones, former editor of the Washington Post, then editor of the Syracuse Herald: "I've been a Republican all my life. I want to keep on being a Republican. But this fellow Rockefeller is making it awfully hard for me."

Essentially this is why Rockefeller was booed at San Francisco and why he is the underdog in Miami.

The inescapable fact is that a lot of Republicans would rather lose with Nixon than win with Rockefeller. But what Rocky says is true: In order to win, the Republicans have to capture a sizeable slice of Democratic votes; and he could do it. That is the choice facing the Republican party at Miami.

Inside Labor

Johnson Plans Pre-Convention Chicago Demonstration of His Own

Washington, D. C.: -- If it's a demonstration they want, Lyndon Baines Johnson is about to give it to them. The President, presumably now a cross between a hawk and a lame duck, plans to show the doves just how it's done -- and right in Chicago's International Amphitheatre at that.

A few days before the Democratic National Convention, he'll fly into the windy city for a "non-political" speech to thousands of built-in delegates, cheers, snake dances, drum beats, and fraternal affections all guaranteed.

For, these will be the delegates, friends and wifes all gathered for the United Steelworkers' 14th Constitutional Convention at the Amphitheatre the week of August 19.

Mr. Johnson, one morning in midweek, will walk onto that platform amid brasses howling All Hail the Chief and Solidarity Forever. Around him will be the powerhouse of labor -- the men of steel led by I. W. (Abe) Abel, who coincidentally, is chairman of the National Labor Committee For Humphrey.

None of this will be lost of the delegates to the Democratic National Convention, who will move into the giant auditorium when the steelworkers move out. Mr. Johnson will be showing the flag for the team -- himself, Hubert Humphrey, and the labor establishment. This is a formidable combine.

It will mark the week when labor really begins rolling out the barrel, the red carpet, and the manpower.

And all of it before the greatest concentration of typewriter and electronic newsmen this overwrought civilization has known.

Certainly, Lyndon Johnson will shilelagh the steel corporations. But the order, ardor and armoa, of the gathering will be politics.

It will all start early on the morning of August 19 when Vice President Humphrey, frolicking among men he has known intimately for some 25 years, takes 1,000 breakfasters into his confidence at the O'Hare International Inn.

They'll all be guests of the newly dynamic Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks -- which proved its modernity not too long ago be choosing a one man dynamo, C. L. Dennis as it's chief executive officer, and later, by buying a piece of the Miami Dolphins football team.

After the breakfast a long caravan will drive for two minutes ground-breaking ceremonies at the site of what will be the Brotherhood's new national headquarters, a seven-story building set near the airport so organizers can fly in, confer and fan out, all in a few hours. It's a new unionism.

Among the thousand bacon and eggs guests will be the nation's most influential labor chiefs, who see Hubert Humphrey as their one, intense hope of stopping the Republicans.

Later the caravan will head for the Amphitheatre where the steelworkers delegates will waite, placard in hand, bands at the alert, all joyous at having won the fatt st wage and benefit contract in their three decades.

Then Mr. Humphrey will stir things up, knowing full well that this is one demonstration the hecklers won't disrupt. No one but steelworkers ever disrupt a steelworkers' convention.

Following the Vice President by 24 hours will be cigar-chomping George Meany, the leader of 13.5 million workers who looks like a center for the old New York Giants, and moves like an Ivy League offensive quarterback.

No doubt Mr. Meany will stay on to be with his old comrade in arms, Lyndon Johnson, who will be talking with other comrades such as the pro of pros, Richard Daley.

Then the labor strategists will hole up in the Hotel Drake, and as, they did in Los Angeles back in '60, throw around their considerable weight.

At least 250 union officials will be delegates to the Democratic convention. But, truly, their strength is qualitative as much as quantitative.

The men of the academies like to think of labor leaders as so much beef on the hoof. Not so. These are fantastic political strategists.

They know that most of the northern, midwestern, western and even some of the southern delegates must come to them for local financing and campaigning. And because these delegates will heed the arguments of the labor men, the 250 pro-Humphrey delegates hardly are a measure of labor's influence at the Democratic nominating sessions.

The National Labor Committee for Humphrey is not just paper mache and news releases. It's a going business now that the convention is at hand, and Mr. Humphrey's hydra-headed, discombobulated, personal machine has shown it creaks most of the time.

Just for example, there's the labor committee's newly organized New York section, set in motion quietly in Albany on Friday, July 26. Its leaders, the garment workers' Louis Stulberg and his assistant, Gus Tyler, the committee's executive director, have done their homework.

Their studies show that the average age of the American voter today is 48 -- not 28 or 38. About half the eligible voters between 21 and 35 aren't registered. Others are just setting up homes, or are on the move, or at universities and just don't vote.

So while it's grand fun, and exciting, and full of street circuses, to reach for the youth -- which must be done -- the most powerful voting bloc averages just under 50. And most of them are in the under -- $10,000-a-year income bracket.

The New York Labor Committee For Humphrey will be reaching out for them. And this committee is made up of 90 unions led by such national labor leaders as Lou Stulberg, the hands' Dick Walsh, and the Service Employes' Dave Sullivan.

They're set for high gear, high politics, high campaigning. Chicago is their first stop.

Dexter overcame a 3-2 deficit with the three runs in the fifth and held on for a 5-4 win over Illmo-Scott City.

Oran claimed the consolation prize by out-lasting Bell City 13-10.

Illmo-Scott City took the sportsmanship title while Tim Holden of Dexter and Rick Dohogne of Illmo-Scott City were singled out as outstanding players.

Receiving honorable mention were Mike Bevins of Bell City, Steve Hanschen and David Huering of Illmo-Scott City, Ed Nunnelee of the Sikeston All - Stars, Ricky Hamm of Oran and Robbin Davis of Dexter.

Rain halted action for two days during the scheduled week long tournament, forcing the finals to be played Sunday.

Three games dot tonight's opening schedule of the 13th annual Sikeston Little League baseball tournament for 11 and 12 year olds.

Richland meets Morley at 6 p.m. in the tourney opener with the American All-Stars facing Bell City in the 7:30 p.m. second game and the National All-Stars going against Oran in the 9 p.m. windup.

The tourney was originally set for Puckett field, but due to the wetness of the field all games will be played at Farris field on Murray Lane.

Chief of Police Arthur Bruce was associated with four baseball teams this summer, with all finishing near the top.

Chief managed his Babe Ruth team to a first place tie while the American league Police team capped its league title and Legion of the National and KSIM of the Musial league finished second.

In all his teams finished with a 45-15 record.

Once-bare fields and fencerows throughout Missouri are richer and more productive, by more than eight million trees and more than a million multiflora rose plants, following the Conservation Department's annual distribution of planting stock this year.

In addition to the trees and rose plants, the department's forestry division also distributed more than 6,600 wildlife bundles containing more than 900,000 seedlings for quail, other birds and for pond plantings.

Most of the trees distributed went to private landowners in Missouri, who received and planted 3,815,292 seedlings in 1968, and federal and state lands received slightly more than three million trees.

Of the trees that went to private landowners, most - - 1,255,020 -- were short leaf pine. Scotch pine, a favorite Christmas tree, was second most popular with 814,716 if them distributed. Other popular trees were loblolly pine, 367,060; white pine, 381,835; jack pine, 314,010; and black walnut, 309,250.

Missouri taxpayers bought $119,920 worth of coyotes and $2,741.50 worth of bobcats last year, according to a study of the state's predator bounty system by a Conservation Department biologist.

Each year since 1962 the amount paid by counties and the state for bounties has risen steadily. Each year since 1962 the number of coyotes bountied has also risen steadily.

In 1962, bounties on coyotes totalled $50,564. The coyote bounty index -- the number of animals bountied per 100 square miles in bounty - paying counties -- was 7.18 in 1962. Last year it was 17.90.

Conservation officials have argued that the increase in coyotes in the face of increasing bounty payments proves bounties do not work. If the bounty system actually reduced the number of coyotes, they said, the coyote population would long ago have declined severely and predator damage to livestock would now be rare.

Last year in Missouri, 104 counties offered bounties on coyotes and 34 offered bounties on bobcats.

The Conservation Department has studied annual bounty statistics since 1963. The studied are now carried on by Frank W. Sampson under grants from the Federal Pittman-Robertson Fund of receipts from excise taxes on sporting firearms and ammunition. It is one of many kinds of studies supported by this fund.

Bounties have been paid in Missouri every year since 1825, and before statehood were paid by the territory starting in 1817.

The study says:

"The presence of bounties on coyotes and bobcats, the absence of bounties on red and gray foxes, harvests for sport, pelt sales and predator control seem to have had little influence on expected normally varying trends in the populations of these four species during the period of investigation."

The factor that has made a measurable difference in predator damage is the Conservation Department's extension predator control program.

The program is based on the fact that eating habits of coyotes and other predators normally do not include the meat of domestic animals. When livestock is damaged, usually one animal in the neighborhood coyote population is to blame. Somehow, one coyote -- "wolf" to some Missourians - has developed a taste for lamb, veal or turkey. All the bounties in the world will not stop the damage if the hunters miss the one villain that is to blame.

Potlatch Wins 3 of 4 on Road

Potlatch, in preparation for the August 13-18 Connie Mack baseball tournament at VFW stadium, moved back into Sikeston yesterday after completing a successful road trip to Springfield where it won three of four games.

The wins moved the Foresters record to 29-7 for the season.

It opened with an 11-1 win over Republic Friday behind Tim Halter's pitching. It won an extra inning duel behind the relief work of Wayne Limbaugh, 6-4, over Hillcrest and won behind Rick Wilson, 6-1 over Republic before dropping the final game to Hillcrest, 10-2.

Limbaugh went 10 for 12 at the plate for the Foresters, including two doubles and one triple.

Manager N. P. McDaniel has scheduled two games for this week meeting Cape's Connie Mack entry there Tuesday and playing host to the team Thursday.

Teams from five states will meet at VFW stadium in the regional event.

Making of A Champion

The 13-year-old Louisiana boy was supposed to shoot a shotgun into the air to scare blackbirds out of his employer's rice crop.

But temptation stood nearby. The lad couldn't resist trying to ride his boss's cantankerous Charolais bulls. However, the boss caught him and chastisement was quick, though ineffective.

Today that boy -- getting his riding start the hard way -- is bareback bronc riding champion of the world.

He is Clyde Vamvoras...25 years old, and reminiscent of early - day bronc riders who found satisfaction in a challenge.

Vamvoras, formerly of Lake Charles, La., and now living near Burkburnett, Texas, won the 1967 National Finals Rodeo in Oklahoma City, Okla., last December, the well- muscled Vamvoras won the nine-bronc average by riding them all. The Finals is open only to the top 15 cowboys in each rodeo event, determined by the amount of money they won during the season.

How does he feel about the championship?"It's an honor to win one," he said. "You (damned) sure don't get it in a cracker - jack box."

Vamvoras knows of which he speaks. Shortly after his initial and secretive bull riding efforts at Iowa, La., he took his hard - earned paper route money "and paid a man 50 cents a head to ride his bareback broncs."

Five years later, at age 18 and after winning the All Around Cowboy title (winning in two or more events) in Louisiana high school competition, Vamvoras turned professional and joined the Rodeo Cowboys Association.

He finished fourth for the bareback crown in 1965, and - despite a crippling hand injury in 1966, was ranked in fifth place.

How important is a cowboy's riding hand?"You've got to take care of it -- do or die -- because you make a living with it," he replied.

Nicknamed "V.V." by his cowboy cohorts, he was injured in a New Orleans rodeo in 1962. A doctor placed pins in his broken shoulder to hold it together, and Vamvoras was sidelined.

He returned to rodeo in 1963 and started his climb toward the championship, which was still four years away.

At Denver's 1968 National Western Rodeo, five of pro rodeo's new national event champions were presented singly to the capacity crowd. Vamvoras was elated with his hard- earned achievement, and when the announcer introduced Vamvoras, the champion brought the crowd to life by emitting an ear - splitting war - hoop; then he charged his saddle pony at a furious pace around the arena, pulled it to a fast and dusty stop, jumped from the horse and threw his expensive western hat high into the crowd. The spectators loved it, and so, supposedly, did an astonished Gov. John Love of Colorado, who was waiting to shake the champion's hand.

A dark - complexioned and good looking bachelor, with an astute eye for a shapely figure, Vamvoras was asked if he intends to marry. He might have worded his reply like this:

"I'm fond of children and would like to have them around, but I don't feel that at the moment I'm ready for the pressures of marriage."

That isn't what he said.

His actual reply was:

"Nooo, I don't feel it's the thing to do... pretty big step. I wouldn't mind having a few colts running around -- if I could have them without some women throwing water- gravy fits all the time."

There is one woman, however, who figures strongly in the champion's life. He credits her as the main reason he won the title.

"My mother really encouraged me," he said in a rare quiet moment. "She's tickled I won, and she's twice as happy as I am. She kept after me to try to win it; she believed I could, and I probably never would have attempted it if not for her...she's quite a woman."

Chicago In Pursuit, Sweeps Card Series

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The new statue of Stan Musial outside St. Louis' Busch Stadium stands 10 feet tall...or about shoulder high to Leo Durocher and the Chicago Cubs.

Durocher's sky-high Cubs spoiled a Musial Appreciation day at St. Louis Sunday by bringing down the Cardinals 6-5 in a 13-inning struggle.

The Cubs have won six in a row, including three against the runaway National League leaders, and have shot from ninth place, on July 12, to second with a run of 18 victories in their last 23 games.

Musial, the NL's seven-time batting king before he moved into the Cardinals' front office, donned his old uniform and joined former 1941 teammates during the pre-game ceremonies. The bronze statue, created by Carl Mose of Washington, D.C., was unveiled after the game at one of the main entrances to the stadium.

In between, a capacity crowd of 47,44 saw the Cubs battle St. Louis ace Bob Gibson to a standoff for 12 innings before beating r liever Joe Hoerner on a run-scoring pinch single by Lee Elia in the 13th.

Elsewhere, Los Angeles rookie Mike Kekich beat New York 2-0 with a one-hitter after the Mets won the doubleheader opener 8-4; Cincinnati downed Atlanta 6-4 in 12 innings; San Francisco topped Pittsburgh 2-0 and Philadelphia nipped Houston 3-2.

In the American League, Detroit took Minnesota 2-1; Baltimore trimmed New York 5-3; Cleveland drubbed Oakland 7-4 after bowing to the Athletics 5-0; Boston defeated California 5-1 in the completion of an earlier susp $p't game, then lost to the Angels 12-6 and Chicago whipped Washington 7-2.

Gibson, gunning for his 13th straight triumph, settled for a no-decision after being tagged for five runs—two more than 'jilallowed in any previous start since April 20.

The Cards' 15-game winner pitched out of a couple of early bases-loaded jams, was tagged for a seventh inning homer by Billy Williams that tied the game 3-3 and lost a 4-3 lead in the ninth when Al Spangler hit his first pitch for a homer—the first of the year for the Chicago outfielder.

Don Kessinger sent the Cubs ahead 5-4 with a run-scoring single in the top of the 13th but the Cards quickly retied it when Johnny Edwards, batting for Gibson, doubled and Lou Brock stroked an RBI single.

The Cubs finally pushed over the winning run in the 13th on Randy Hundley's single, a sacrifice and a two-out single.

Potlatch Wins 3 of 4 on Road

Potlatch, in prepariation for the August 13-18 Connie Mack baseball tournament at VFW stadium, moved back into Sikeston yesterday after completing a successful road trip to Springfield where it won three of four games.

The wins moved the Foresters record to 29-7 for the season.

It opened with an 11-1 win over Republic Friday behind Tim Halter's pitching. It won an extra inning duel behind the relief work of Wayne Limbaugh, 6-4, over Hillcrest and won behind Rick Wilson, 6-1 over Republic before dropping the final game to Hillcrest, 10-2.

Limbaugh went 10 for 12 at the plate for the Foresters, including two doubles and one triple.

Manager N. P. McDaniel has scheduled two games for this week meeting Cape's Connie Mack entry there Tuesday and playing host to the team Thursday.

Teams from five states will meet at VFW stadium in the regional event.

Making of A Champion

The 13-year-old Louisiana boy was supposed to shoot a shotgun into the air to scare blackbirds out of his employer's rice crop.

But temptation stood nearby. The lad couldn't resist trying to ride his boss's cantankerous Charolais bulls. However, the boss caught him and chastisement was quick, though ineffective.

Today that boy -- getting his riding start the hard way -- is bareback bronc riding champion of the world.

He is Clyde Vamvoras...25 years old, and reminiscent of early - day bronc riders who found satisfaction in a challenge.

Vamvoras, formerly of Lake Charles, La., and now living near Burkburnett, Texas, won the 1967 National Finals Rodeo in Oklahoma City, Okla., last December, the well- muscled Vamvoras won the nine-bronc average by riding them all. The Finals is open only to the top 15 cowboys in each rodeo event, determined by the amount of money they won during the season.

How does he feel about the championship? "It's an honor to win one," he said. "You (damned) sure don't get it in a cracker - jack box."

Vamvoras knows of which he speaks. Shortly after his initial and secretive bull riding efforts at Iowa, La., he took his hard - earned paper route money "and paid a man 50 cents a head to ride his bareback broncs."

Five years later, at age 18 and after winning the All Around Cowboy title (winning in two or more events) in Louisiana high school competition, Vamvoras turned professional and joined the Rodeo Cowboys Association.

He finished fourth for the bareback crown in 1965, and - despite a crippling hand injury in 1966, was ranked in fifth place.

How important is a cowboy's riding hand? "You've got to take care of it -- do or die -- because you make a living with it," he replied.

Nicknamed "V.V." by his cowboy cohorts, he was injured in a New Orleans rodeo in 1962. A doctor placed pins in his broken shoulder to hold it together, and Vamvoras was sidelined.

He returned to rodeo in 1963 and started his climb toward the championship, which was still four years away.

At Denver's 1968 National Western Rodeo, five of pro rodeo's new national event champions were presented singly to the capacity crowd. Vamvoras was elated with his hard- earned achievement, and when the announcer introduced Vamvoras, the champion brought the crowd to life by emitting an ear - splitting war - hoop; then he charged his saddle pony at a furious pace around the arena, pulled it to a fast and dusty stop, jumped from the horse and threw his expensive western hat high into the crowd. The spectators loved it, and so, supposedly, did an astonished Gov. John Love of Colorado, who was waiting to shake the champion's hand.

A dark - complexioned and good looking bachelor, with an astute eye for a shapely figure, Vamvoras was asked if he intends to marry. He might have worded his reply like this:

"I'm fond of children and would like to have them around, but I don't feel that at the moment I'm ready for the pressures of marriage."

That isn't what he said.

His actual reply was:

"Nooo, I don't feel it's the thing to do... pretty big step. I wouldn't mind having a few colts running around -- if I could have them without some women throwing water- gravy fits all the time."

There is one woman, however, who figures strongly in the champion's life. He credits her as the main reason he won the title.

"My mother really encouraged me," he said in a rare quiet moment. "She's tickled I won, and she's twice as happy as I am. She kept after me to try to win it; she believed I could, and I probably never would have attempted it if not for her...she's quite a woman."

Chicago In Pursuit, Sweeps Card Series

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The new statue of Stan Musial outside St. Louis' Busch Stadium stands 10 feet tall...or about shoulder high to Leo Durocher and the Chicago Cubs.

Durocher's sky-high Cubs spoiled a Musial Appreciation day at St. Louis Sunday by bringing down the Cardinals 6-5 in a 13-inning struggle.

The Cubs have won six in a row, including three against the runaway National League leaders, and have shot from ninth place, on July 12, to second with a run of 18 victories in their last 23 games.

Musial, the NL's seven-time batting king before he moved into the Cardinals' front office, donned his old uniform and joined former 1941 teammates during the pre-game ceremonies. The bronze statue, created by Carl Mose of Washington, D.C., was unveiled after the game at one of the main entrances to the stadium.

In between, a capacity crowd of 47,44 saw the Cubs battle St. Louis ace Bob Gibson to a standoff for 12 innings before beating r liever Joe Hoerner on a run-scoring pinch single by Lee Elia in the 13th.

Elsewhere, Los Angeles rookie Mike Kekich beat New York 2-0 with a one-hitter after the Mets won the doubleheader opener 8-4; Cincinnati downed Atlanta 6-4 in 12 innings; San Francisco topped Pittsburgh 2-0 and Philadelphia nipped Houston 3-2.

In the American League, Detroit took Minnesota 2-1; Baltimore trimmed New York 5-3; Cleveland drubbed Oakland 7-4 after bowing to the Athletics 5-0; Boston defeated California 5-1 in the completion of an earlier susp $p't game, then lost to the Angels 12-6 and Chicago whipped Washington 7-2.

Gibson, gunning for his 13th straight triumph, settled for a no-decision after being tagged for five runs—two more than 'jilallowed in any previous start since April 20.

The Cards' 15-game winner pitched out of a couple of early bases-loaded jams, was tagged for a seventh inning homer by Billy Williams that tied the game 3-3 and lost a 4-3 lead in the ninth when Al Spangler hit his first pitch for a homer—the first of the year for the Chicago outfielder.

Don Kessinger sent the Cubs ahead 5-4 with a run-scoring single in the top of the 12th but the Cards quickly retied it when Johnny Edwards, batting for Gibson, doubled and Lou Brock stroked an RBI single.

The Cubs finally pushed over the winning run in the 13th on Randy Hundley's single, a sacrifice and a two-out single.

Costs to Alter Plans for Bridge

POPLAR BLUFF -- Plans for the new Vine Street bridge will be altered and submitted for approval at Monday night's meeting of the city council following two special council sessions.

Mayor Earl Porter, Councilmen and engineers studied bids opened at a special meeting and found the three bids were higher than the estimated cost and the $151,000 bridge expenditure authorized by the voters in a nearly unanimous vote in February.

William G. Riddle and Associates, the City's consulting engineering firm, had estimated that the structure could be built for a cost of about $120,000.

Thinking the bridge could be built for that amount and allowing an additional $31,000 for an engineering and any other costs, the council set the bridge bond issue at $151,000.

Bids ranged from $154,449.38 for construction alone, by Paul Montgomery, to $176,248.20 submitted by the A. G. Construction Co., of Perryville. The Githens Construction Company submitted a bid of $166,421.95.

After discussing the bids the council recessed until 7 p.m. to resume discussions on the bridge project.

Because he was low bidder, Paul Montgomery was selected to work with the engineers to revise the plans as soon as possibie.

"Increased steel prices and higher labor costs in the past several months attributed to the bid prices which exceeded the earlier cost estimates, "Riddle said.

Riddle will meet the Council Monday night with a revised plan intended to lower the cost and place the project within the bond issue authority.

The original plans called for a 26 feet trafficway with two pedestrian lanes, four feet wide, on each side. The trafficway or pedestrian lanes, or both, may be reduced, the engineer said.

Melon Producers Have Good Year

PORTAGEVILLE - Bootheel melon producers are apparently having a good year with ample yields and a relatively good price, reported Henry Dicarlo, horticulturalist for the University of Missouri Delta Center.

He said producers report good crops of melons and buyers are paying about 1.5 cents per pound, a relatively good price from the field.

Dicarlo said stacks of watermelons along roadsides in some areas have apparently led some travelers to think that there is a mounting surplus of unsold melons but this is not the case.

Instead, he said, in nearly every instance such stacks of melons have been placed along the roadside to be picked up by trucks or buyers.

Low October Draft Call

WASHINGTON, AP - The Pentagon has ordered 13,800 men drafted in October, one of the year's lowest monthly quotas.

The October call is up slightly from September's previously announced 12,200 but well below the high of 48,000 last April.

SNAKE PIT 'SIT-IN' OUT

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — The latest craze in South Africa is to have a solo "sit-in" in a snake pit. World records have been claimed in different parts of the country but authorities here thought it a bit much when plans were announced for an 11-year-old boy, Sydney Crawford, to spend 10 days with snakes as his only companions. The family's first two calls on a newly installed telephone were orders from the local magistrate and police sergeant to drop the whole idea.

IMMIGRATION DOWN

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — More people left New Zealand in the year ended March 31 than arrived to settle.

It was the first time this has happened for many years, and resulted in a migration loss of 10,147 compared with a gain of 13,499 in the previous year.

The natural increase reported by the government statistician was 37,091, making New Zealand's population 2,755,092 at March 31.

Regional Jails Urged for Missouri by Committee

ST. LOUIS AP - A report, based on a study of Missouri county jails, has recommended broad changes in jail administration.

The report by the Governor's Citizens Committee on Delinquency and Crime, said most Missouri jails are old, inadequate, ineffective and dangerous.

The report was submitted to Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton, the committee chairman.

The report recommended that the State Department of Corrections by given the power to develop a system of regional jails throughout Missouri.

Eagleton said the report will be used by the Governor's Citizens Committee in preparing recommendations to the governor and the General Assembly next year.

"Records are poorly kept and not reported nor analyzed for use in planning; leadership on the local, county, and state level to develop a good jail system been virtually absent."

"Jail inmates sit in idleness, despair and isolation from the community. The history of jails is a gruesome chronicle of a social - legal misadventure in handling society's villians, failures, friendless, poor, rebels, and other arrested citizens."

Jails in St. Louis, St. Louis County, and Jackson County were not included in the study.

Final Arguments Due In Power Dispute

NEW MADRID -- Final arguments in a power - line dispute between the Sho-Me Power Corp., and the Missouri Inter - agency Council will be held Monday by the Missouri Public Service Commission.

At stake in the commission's eventual decision is the construction date of a multimillion dollar aluminum reduction plant near here and conservation efforts in the Missouri Bootheel.

The Missouri Inter - agency Council, backed by several private groups, is opposing the route of an already approved power line through the Ozark National Scenic Riverways Refuge. They claim the route, plus an alternate route also approved, would harm the scenic beauty along the Current River in the Bootheel.

The power line is necessary for electrical power to the New Madrid plant until a city- owned power plant can be built.

Public Service Commissioner Marvin Jones said Friday the power company obtained authorization to cross the river on Aug. 29, 1967.

Attorneys for the two groups will present oral arguments at 11 a.m. Monday before the full commission. Jones said that would be the least hearing before the commission reaches a decision in the dispute.

Noranda aluminum Inc., officials are planning to use power from the line to provide power to operate their aluminum plant until a 580,000 kilowatt city-owned generating station is completed.

New Madrid voters will go the polls Aug. 23 to vote on a 200-million - dollar revenue bond issue to finance the power plant and improve the St. Judge industrial park, where the Noranda facility will be located.

Poplar Bluff to Modernize Airport

POPLAR BLUFF - Plans for a $98,000 modernization program for Poplar Bluff's Earl Fields Memorial Municipal Airport advanced rapidly today with announcement of a $49,000 federal grant approved by the Economic Development Administration in Washington.

Chamber of Commerce President Larry Lumpe and Dr. William C. Jackson, Jr., chairman of the Community Airport Development Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, heralded the grant in announcing the kickoff of a $34,000 sales campaign to sell $100 bonds of the Poplar Bluff Municipal Airport Development Corporation to finance the city's share of the improvement cost.

Missouri's Aviation Authority has granted a $15,000 allotment of funds for the project.

Lumpe and Dr. Jackson said no bond issue will be necessary in financing the city's cost of the project and that the $100 bonds, bearing six per cent interest, will be offered first to those civic minded Poplar Bluffians who used the same financial system in raising $25,000 for the last airport improvement. The bonds will be retired through airport income.

Conditions at the airport have blocked negotiations with several Poplar Bluff industrial prospects and announcement of the federal grant and improvement program was welcomed by manufacturers now negotiating with the City and Chamber of Commerce for future Poplar Bluff industrial installations.

The airport improvements planned under the $98,000 project include strengthening of the present 4000 foot runway and 500 foot taxiway, installation of medium intensity lighting and strengthening and expanding the apron.

Scott City Seeks Grant For Planning

SCOTT CITY -- An application for $10,200 to finance a comprehensive plan for Scott City was among four programs to help cities solve their problems announced Monday by the Missouri Department of Community Affairs.

Mayor Nevan A. Fisher of Scott City said the program includes general planning for the city and zoning. He said street improvement will come under the general plan.

Mayor Fisher said General Planning and Zoning Consulting firm of St. Louis will be in charge of the 20-year program.

The reuqest for the plan was made March 22, 1968. Lloyd Young is chairman of the planning commission.

The mayor, in reference to the proposed consolidation of Scott City and Illmo, stated that a representative of the planning firm has said that if the merger is approved, the total amount of government grants will probably be increased from one-half to three-fifths to include planning for Illmo.

Many Americans of foreign birth or descent have legally changed their names, usually to English-sounding ones, often citing business reasons. The Word Almanac notes that one for whom this practice backfired was George Kerstiopolis, who changed his name to Harris but returned to court to request his old name back: his Greek customers found Harris hard to pronounce.

DOWD OVER MORRIS

It is well known that Alex Presta, ex-convict and reputed associate of gangland characters, is backing W. S. (Bill) Morris for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

Mr. Morris, at the Press Club of St. Louis conference Thursday, had an opportunity to disavow this support. That he chose not to do so - only to say that he was not soliciting Presta's backing - was disturbing.

Edward L. Dowd, who charges that Morris is backed by former convict Jimmie Michaels of St. Louis, as well as Presta of Kansas City's wheeling and dealing North Side, says he wants no part of Presta or his associates.

Morris, however, claims he knows Presta only as a real estate man and politician.

Ordinarily we might accept Mr. Morris' apparent naivete without too much concern. But he is running for the second highest office in the state of Missouri. If he has not learned about the Presta reputation by now, it can be properlyy wondered how rigidly he might work to rid the state of underworld elements which reportedly have grown stronger in recent years.

Mr. Dowd, by contrast, is making the strong impression of a man who would use his power to make life miserable for disreputable elements in the state if he were elected lieutenant governor.

We prefer a man like Dowd who calls a spade a spade and a Presta a Presta. We know from his record, as head of the St. Louis Police Board and as Circuit Attorney, that we need have no misgivings about his judgment, integrity or strong desire to carry out the duties of his office.

On the basis of what we have seen and heard we are confirmed in the belief that Ed Dowd is much to be preferred to Mr. Morris who seems too heavily immersed in Kansas City politics and too unconcerned about where his support comes from.

FRIENDS OF ED DOWD
JOE CRAVENS OF FABICK TRACTOR CO. ST. LOUIS, MO.

Jefferson City Post-Tribune endorsed Edward L. Dowd July 31st, 1968

"A major issue in the race is William Morris' association with the dubious Kansas City Northside Political faction, whose boss is ex-convict Alex Presta. Moreover, the St. Louis Pipefitters, headed by ex-convict, Lawrence Callanan, are expected to support Morris. In Edward L. Dowd, Missourians need not have the slightest misgiving, qualm, or question. He is a candidate of stature in every sense of the word. A candidate for all Missourians rural and urban."

Kansas City Star July 23rd, 1968

"Kansas City has been one of the main centers of the nationwide syndicate identified as a Mafia. The relationship between the underworld and the leadership of the Northside Political faction is quite simple. Alex Presta has served the underworld for many years."

The Missouri Inter - agency Council, backed by several private groups, is opposing the route of an already approved power line through the Ozark National Scenic Riverways Refuge. They claim the route, plus an alternate route also approved, would harm the scenic beauty along the Current River in the Bootheel.

The power line is necessary for electrical power to the New Madrid plant until a city- owned power plant can be built.

Public Service Commissioner Marvin Jones said Friday the power company obtained authorization to cross the river on Aug. 29, 1967.

Attorneys for the two groups will present oral arguments at 11 a.m. Monday before the full commission. Jones said that would be the least hearing before the commission reaches a decision in the dispute.

Noranda aluminum Inc., officials are planning to use power from the line to provide power to operate their aluminum plant until a 580,000 kilowatt city-owned generating station is completed.

New Madrid voters will go the polls Aug. 23 to vote on a 200-million - dollar revenue bond issue to finance the power plant and improve the St. Judge industrial park, where the Noranda facility will be located.

Poplar Bluff to Modernize Airport

POPLAR BLUFF - Plans for a $98,000 modernization program for Poplar Bluff's Earl Fields Memorial Municipal Airport advanced rapidly today with announcement of a $49,000 federal grant approved by the Economic Development Administration in Washington.

Chamber of Commerce President Larry Lumpe and Dr. William C. Jackson, Jr., chairman of the Community Airport Development Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, heralded the grant in announcing the kickoff of a $34,000 sales campaign to sell $100 bonds of the Poplar Bluff Municipal Airport Development Corporation to finance the city's share of the improvement cost.

Missouri's Aviation Authority has granted a $15,000 allotment of funds for the project.

Lumpe and Dr. Jackson said no bond issue will be necessary in financing the city's cost of the project and that the $100 bonds, bearing six per cent interest, will be offered first to those civic minded Poplar Bluffians who used the same financial system in raising $25,000 for the last airport improvement. The bonds will be retired through airport income.

Conditions at the airport have blocked negotiations with several Poplar Bluff industrial prospects and announcement of the federal grant and improvement program was welcomed by manufacturers now negotiating with the City and Chamber of Commerce for future Poplar Bluff industrial installations.

The airport improvements planned under the $98,000 project include strengthening of the present 4000 foot runway and 500 foot taxiway, installation of medium intensity lighting and strengthening and expanding the apron.

Scott City Seeks Grant For Planning

SCOTT CITY -- An application for $10,200 to finance a comprehensive plan for Scott City was among four programs to help cities solve their problems announced Monday by the Missouri Department of Community Affairs.

Mayor Nevan A. Fisher of Scott City said the program includes general planning for the city and zoning. He said street improvement will come under the general plan.

Mayor Fisher said General Planning and Zoning Consulting firm of St. Louis will be in charge of the 20-year program.

The reuqest for the plan was made March 22, 1968. Lloyd Young is chairman of the planning commission.

The mayor, in reference to the proposed consolidation of Scott City and Illmo, stated that a representative of the planning firm has said that if the merger is approved, the total amount of government grants will probably be increased from one-half to three-fifths to include planning for Illmo.

Many Americans of foreign birth or descent have legally changed their names, usually to English-sounding ones, often citing business reasons. The Word Almanac notes that one for whom this practice backfired was George Kerstiopolis, who changed his name to Harris but returned to court to request his old name back: his Greek customers found Harris hard to pronounce.

DOWD OVER MORRIS

It is well known that Alex Presta, ex-convict and reputed associate of gangland characters, is backing W. S. (Bill) Morris for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

Mr. Morris, at the Press Club of St. Louis conference Thursday, had an opportunity to disavow this support. That he chose not to do so - only to say that he was not soliciting Presta's backing - was disturbing.

Edward L. Dowd, who charges that Morris is backed by former convict Jimmie Michaels of St. Louis, as well as Presta of Kansas City's wheeling and dealing North Side, says he wants no part of Presta or his associates.

Morris, however, claims he knows Presta only as a real estate man and politician.

Ordinarily we might accept Mr. Morris' apparent naivete without too much concern. But he is running for the second highest office in the state of Missouri. If he has not learned about the Presta reputation by now, it can be properlyy wondered how rigidly he might work to rid the state of underworld elements which reportedly have grown stronger in recent years.

Mr. Dowd, by contrast, is making the strong impression of a man who would use his power to make life miserable for disreputable elements in the state if he were elected lieutenant governor.

We prefer a man like Dowd who calls a spade a spade and a Presta a Presta. We know from his record, as head of the St. Louis Police Board and as Circuit Attorney, that we need have no misgivings about his judgment, integrity or strong desire to carry out the duties of his office.

On the basis of what we have seen and heard we are confirmed in the belief that Ed Dowd is much to be preferred to Mr. Morris who seems too heavily immersed in Kansas City politics and too unconcerned about where his support comes from.

Jefferson City Post-Tribune endorsed Edward L. Dowd July 31st, 1968

"A major issue in the race is William Morris' association with the dubious Kansas City Northside Political faction, whose boss is ex-convict Alex Presta. Moreover, the St. Louis Pipefitters, headed by ex-convict, Lawrence Callanan, are expected to support Morris. In Edward L. Dowd, Missourians need not have the slightest misgiving, qualm, or question. He is a candidate of stature in every sense of the word. A candidate for all Missourians rural and urban."

Kansas City Star July 23rd, 1968

"Kansas City has been one of the main centers of the nationwide syndicate identified as a Mafia. The relationship between the underworld and the leadership of the Northside Political faction is quite simple. Alex Presta has served the underworld for many years."

Navy Refuses Comment on Scorpion Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy declines to confirm or deny a report that top-secret listening devices recorded the sound of the ocean crushing the nuclear submarine Scorpion about May 21.

The Pentagon issued a "no comment" Sunday to the report published in Newsweek magazine.

Pentagon sources confirmed, however, that the Navy ordered a check of tapes after the Scorpion failed to return on schedule from a cruise, but declined to discuss any phase of its analysis.

The Navy has several devices for monitoring underwater traffic, using them mainly to keep track of Soviet submarines.

The Navy has extended official condolences to families Scorpion's 99 crewmen.

The search for the vessel is now centered in a "highly suspect" area about 450 miles southwest of the Azores where ocean depths run to 12,000 feet.

A Navy board of inquiry has completed an investigation of the incident, but it has not been made public.

POLLY'S POINTERS
Own Private Drawer Cuts Their Squabbling

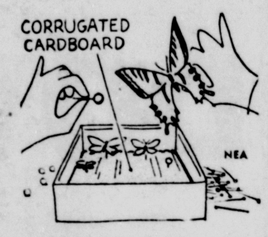
By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Our three boys are just 13 months apart in age and they could never keep a special gift. It would be broken, borrowed, or lost by one of the others. I finally fixed a private drawer for each. No one, not even mother, is allowed to open anyone else's drawer. This system was started three years ago and, believe me, it works. I wish my own mother had done the same thing as each of us needs a place for our private and personal possessions, unquestioned and unseen except by its owner.—H. L. R.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—We use quite a few soft drinks in cans. I wonder if some of the readers could give me some suggestions as to what could be made with these cans.—DONNA

DEAR POLLY—and Mrs. N. L. F.—The best way to display and protect a collection of moths and butterflies is to place them in a riker mount. This is a small display case consisting of a shallow, open cardboard box with a glass cover fitted over its open side. Cotton can be placed on the bottom to provide a suitable background and protect the specimens from damage. Be sure the collection is free from insect parasites before placing in the mount, which can be purchased from a hobby center or natural history museum. If the box is sealed there should be no fear of insect damage but moth balls could be placed in the corners.—KEN



DEAR POLLY—Insect collections are best mounted on slender insect pins which are pushed through the thorax from back to front (top to bottom). A regular insect box with a cork bottom is helpful as the pins can be stuck into the cork. Any cardboard box, such as a large square shoe box, could be used with a layer of corrugated board in the bottom. Be sure it has a tight-fitting lid. Moth balls stuck on pins or flakes wrapped in paper should prevent moth damage. Yours for a continuing Polly's column.—J. R. S.

DEAR POLLY—On shelves where sticky items like syrup, salad oil and so on are to be placed, I put several layers of waxed paper over the shelf paper. When cleaning day comes, I just peel off the top soiled layer and do not have to replace good shelf paper.—MARION

Kennedy won at the expense of widespread animosity from business.

Several steel executives were convicted in a price-rigging case in 1965 that was related to the Kennedy-steel confrontation.

Congress looked into steel pricing in 1963, also as a result of the blowup, but its investigation proved inconclusive after steel executives refused to divulge cost and production figures.

In calling for the FTC probe, Hart, chairman of the Senate subcommittee on antitrust and monopoly, said a recent study showed steel accounted for about $250 of the cost of a $3,000 automobile.

"A 5 per cent hike on top of this is not a minor item," he said.

Smear in the Primary Campaign

In a political campaign, the technique of last-minute character assassination usually raises more questions about the candidate who adopts it than about the intended victim. This is the case, we think, in two of the Democratic primary contests for state office. The races for lieutenant governor and attorney general have come to be dominated, in the closing days of the campaign, by irresponsible and so far undocumented charges of "underworld" influence or control.

Former Police Board President Edward L. Dowd, candidate for lieutenant governor, has come close to disqualifying himself for the office, in our opinion, by concentrating his campaign on insinuations that William S. Morris of Kansas City is a corrupt tool of disruputable political or criminal interests.

If there were any truth to these charges, Mr. Dowd has had months in which to document them. Instead of bringing them forward in time for sober evaluation by the voters, he chose to campaign most of the time on a "tough" law-and-order platform, picturing himself as a ferocious crime fighter, and then in the closing days to attack the character of his opponent in a way to suggest association with organized crime. This has all the earmarks of a calculated campaign of deception which can only be deplored.

LBJ Tries For Steel Rollback

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, in an apparent replay of his successful 1966 rollback of steel prices, is looking to competitive pressure from giant U.S. Steel Corp. to bring the industry into line.

Aides said Sunday night Pres. Johnson feels a general steel-price increase can be avoided if U.S. Steel, the nation's largest producer, keeps aloof from acrossthe-board hikes posted by Bethlehem and Republic, the No. 2 and No. 3 producers.

U.S. Steel and five other members of the top 10 have raised prices only on certain items with increases ranging from 4 to 7 per cent. Only McLouth and Kaiser of the top 10 have made no increases at all.

Although U.S. Steel is regarded as the make-or-break factor, Johnson is tightening other screws one by one.

Latest turn came Sunday night when Chairman Paul Rand Dixon announced an emergency session of his Federal Trade Commission to consider a request by Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., for a probe of steel-pricing practices.

Rand called today's session while on a trip in the South.

How much direct pressure—if any—is being brought on U.S. Steel to hold the line could not be learned.

But the situation closely parallels 1966 when Bethlehem led the way with a $5-a-ton increase on certain major items.

The company rolled back to remain competitive when U.S. Steel, reportedly under tremendous White House pressure, posted increases of $2.50 on the same items.

Johnson also ordered government agencies to avoid purchases from price-boosters in that confrontation, as he has done this time.

The orders were applied to defense purchases last week and extended to all government Steel buying over the weekend.

The White House campaign so far has been aimed mainly at Bethlehem and Republic which posted across-the-board increases of slightly under 5 per cent only hours after the industry last Wednesday reached agreement with the United Steelworkers on a new three-year contract. The pact is expected to cost 6 per cent a year.

They were the first general increases in the industry since 1962 when President John F. Kennedy won a bitter duel with steel titans.

Since then selective increases have become common and White House aides indicate they could live with them now, although not as high as the 4-percent-plus most companies have posted.

Perhaps significantly, it was U.S. Steel that precipitated the Kennedy-Steel clash which from Mr. J. V. Conran;

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE EDITOR

No one could be having more fun out of the approaching Primary Election than I. For some reason people continue to say what I intend to do.

But the other day "took the cake." I was called by one of the news media and told that one of the wire services to newspapers was prepared to release "A PLANTED STORY BY SOMEBODY THAT A REPORTER HAD TALKED TO ME AT THE EAGLETON RALLY IN SIKESTON AND I TOLD HIM "I WAS WITHDRAWING MY SUPPORT FROM "HOT" ROGERS AND THROWING IT TO" another candidate - this was reported as having been printed in a Kansas City paper and stated over a Jefferson City radio.

Of course, I feel flattered that anyone would think it made any difference how I vote. But it seems that some followers of others are getting desperate to resort to such tactics. "Hot" must be picking up as his opponents are saying he has or will withdraw (WHICH IS NOT TRUE); that he is 64 years old and only a fourth grade education.

Well, I would say he is the youngest 59 years old I ever saw and he can out work, run a fight, if necessary, any of his younger contenders for the Congressional seat. At least he is old enough to have some COMMON OLD HORSE SENSE and is not interested in a self placed "HALO" around his head and in promoting only his self interest. He doesn't need the salary, he has sufficient holdings and money to meet his needs (all acquired from the efforts of his own WORK).

At the age of 14 he lost his father and had to support his mother and family — he started with a hot buttered pop-corn machine on a corner in Caruthersville — take a sack of "Hot" Popcorn home to the kids." Hence the nick name "Hot." From that he has worked himself up to a "LANDOWNER and FARMER," collector of the Revenue for Pemiscot County, for three terms, and Mayor of Caruthersville for 14 years — with no tax increase.

He knows how to work with the Washington, D.C. bureaucrats; having brought Public Housing to his City, secured industry, helped in the activity for the new bridge across the Mississippi, and knows his way around the corridors of the State Capitol when the Legislature is in session.

It is common knowledge that there is NO LOVE LOST between one of the candidates and GOVERNOR HEARNES. Such candidate is reported to have called the Governor that "LITTLE SKINNY ——————————across the hall," while the Legislature was in session, but I have never heard Warren speak disparingly of any candidate.

During the Regular Session of the 1967 Legislature there was a Democratic sponsored Congressional Re-organization bill offered from the Committee headed by Gene Copeland of New Madrid County, which would have given the Democrats a chance in all Districts of the State except the 7th - but this bill didn't coinside with the personal ambitions of some of the representatives from S. E. Mo. (several of whom were interested in running for Congress), so they organized and proudly headed a co-alition of 56 REPUBLICANS, 12 Negroes, and a few others, in beating this DEMOCRATIC PARTY PROPOSAL. Of course this action was highly approved by the Republican Globe-Democrat. Do any of you remember Dewey Short? Well, the last time the Republicans controlled the Legislature, they gerrymandered our District over into the present 7th District and we had the Republican, Dewey Short, to contend with. So give me all the H—— you wish, I believe in Party Loyalty.

At least one candidate doesn't like Senator Symington; has said he "hates him" and wrote the Senator a very sarcastic letter during the 1964 election when there was an abortive movement by a few in S.E.Mo. in an attempt to get Democrats to bolt their Ticket and support the Republican, Jean Paul Bradshaw. Perhaps Senator Symington is big enough to over-look an insult, but Human Nature being such as it is, we doubt there could be much enthusiasm in co-operation between the Senator and a Congressman from our District who had written the Senator such a discourteous letter — and remember, Senator Symington is up there for at least two more years. We can't be sure of electing a Democratic Senator this year (altho' we shall all do our best) regardless of who gets nominated.

Since a supporting newspaper, over at Dexter, says its candidate does not wish the support of a "political boss," has not sought it and would not accept it if offered, being entirely independent, I do not feel badly in voting for one of his opponents.

By-the-way, do you know who really brought Norando to New Madrid County? It was Governor Warren E. Hearnes. Mr. Baxter Sauthern (barge line) of Caruthersville was the person who first put the idea before local people (his daughter is married to a fine young automobile dealer at New Madrid) and furnished his private air-plane for a large number of the contact trips. Senator Symington helped with all Washington details and Senator J. F. "Pat" Patterson. It was his bill (alone) THAT FINALLY BECAME LAW. Contributed his part in the State Senate - But the Governor placed action in a necessary change in the use - tax law in his call for a Special Session and gave his influence in piloting the bill through the Legislature.

Don't get me wrong.

There is a candidate who has some very fine relatives in New Madrid and they are working for him. He will get votes in New Madrid County.

It seems that another candidate for Congress, Mr. Burlison, doesn't like us either. His friends have been running ads in a Portageville paper saying he has "NO STRINGS ATTACHED FROM THE BOOTHEEL." I thought the Bootheel was a part of the 10th District, but, if we are not and can't talk to him if he were elected, we see no advantage in voting for him. He seemed to be a little upset two years ago when we wouldn't support him against Paul Jones. This year he called us and we told him he needn't waste time coming to see us as we knew all about him and would discuss him along with the others, as we caucused with the voters over New Madrid County. It was a pleasure to recently be visited by his father, a fine gentlemen, in our office at New Madrid.

We can't help wondering if he has a Master's Degree? Or what about Mr. C. D. Matthews, of Sikeston? Mr. W. P. Pinnell, of New Madrid? Mr. W. P. Anderson, of Gideon? The original Mr. Himmelberger, of Morehouse, the first Mr. Sikes, and the many, many more who made Southeast Missouri. Not to down grade education, which is an absolute necessity for the coming generations. But there is no substitute for "Common Sense" and, unfortunately that does not always accompany education.

I would rather take a chance with a self - made man, who's only desire is to work for the welfare of all the people in the 10th District and having no personal ambition to promote only himself.

As written to me by, R. D. Clayton of Sikeston and I quote "(cut down for sake of space) Hot Rogers was by to see me and I think he is okay— one of us boys who were born up around Morley and made the grade by virtue of work and energy, etc., etc."

Now some folks might say that R. D. is pretty windy, but few people have done as much for a Community as he has for Sikeston) and I doubt that he has a College Degree. But wouldn't he be a whiz, as a Congressman? The "Bootheel" would really be on the map.

At my age, there is not a thing I want of a Congressman or any other governmental official.

Some folks say "THE ORGANIZATION" (meaning all working Democrats in New Madrid County) is dead — watch the results and see!

But, if anyone is interested — I intend to vote for (and I would be joined by my friend Alt Sihoin, if he were still alive) B.F. "Hot" Rogers, (he always did and wasn't ashamed of it.)

Respectfully,
J. V. Conran

(And I paid for this, too).

Stapleton Defends Eagleton

JEFFERSON CITY - State Senator Richard Southern, campaign manager for Thomas F. Eagleton, Democratic candidate for United States Senator, has released a statement from Jack Stapleton, Jr., publisher of the Daily Dunklin Democrat at Kennett commenting on a speech delivered by True Davis in Sikeston Wednesday.

Southern pointed out that in his speech Davis implied that Eagleton's opposition to the proposed power project across the Current River made Eagleton opposed to industrialization in Southeast Missouri.

Davis cited as his authority for his charge an editorial from the Daily Dunklin Democrat.

Stapleton stated:

"True Davis in his speech Wednesday, July 31, in Sikeston, completely distorted the purpose, content and conclusion of an editorial in my paper. In no way did the editorial have any reference to the pending hearings before the Missouri Public Service Commission as Davis inferred."

"Tom Eagleton as lieutenant governor has been a big help in bringing industry to Southeast Missouri, and was particularly active in helping pass the tax incentive bill proposed by Governor Hearnes in the last general assembly. The legislation was the key factor in bringing the new multi-million dollar aluminum plant to Southeast Missouri."

"Tom Eagleton is our friend in Southeast Missouri and will make an outstanding United States senator. He will continue to serve us in the United States senate as he has served so admirably as lieutenant governor and president of the Missouri Senate."

Southern said that "Lieutenant Governor Eagleton has worked closely with Gov. Warren E. Hearnes and his administration in securing new and expanded industry for Missouri. Davis' allegations are without fact and are unfounded and are unfair to the effort of the Hearnes administration and are only True's smoke screen to hide his faltering campaign."

Ancient Indian Site Unearthed Near Lilbourn

LILBOURN -- Landleveling is becoming a commonplace farming practice in Southeast Missouri. Often it leaves in its wake devestated remains of Indian settlements because landowners may not be aware that there are people who will come to unearth these remains in order to preserve the findings for posterity.

Recent landleveling operations on a farm of Harry Campbell, about five miles northwest of Lilbourn, revealed a vestage of a settlement estimated to be about 3,000 years old, according to a four-man team from the University of Missouri.

Heading the group is Ray Williams. Others on the team are Fred Schneider, Philip Sawyer and Steven Baister. They are students of anthropology from the Division of Archaeological Research. Their work is jointly sponsored by the University of Missouri and the National Park Service.

Teams similar to this one spend their summer months excavating old villages and settlements that are discovered on farms and other land. Williams' group had been working on a site near East Prairie before coming to this one.

On the Campbell farm they discovered three skeletons, arrowheads and several pieces of utensils fashioned by the natives at the time the settlement was inhabited.

IN DRAWING PORTIONS of an ancient Indian settlement where artifacts and skeletons are located, workers lay out an area with strings in one-foot squares and record the arrangments of bones and objects to scale on lined paper. This is being done by two barebacked members of a study term. From left, are Fred Schneider, Miss Harryette Campbell and Phillip Sawyer, on the Harry Campbell farm northwest of Lilbourn. - Lilbourn Semo News Photograph.

Sales Up 15.5%

Sale of Interstate Bakeries Corporation for the 28 weeks ended July 13, 1968, rose 15.5% to a record $121,983,785 - up $16,426,956 from the same period of 1967, it was announced today by Ernest B. Hueter, president.

Net income totalled $1,782,384 or 84cents per share (as adjusted for the 2-for-1 stock dividend effected August 1, 1967) down $682,491 or 34 cents per share from the $2,464,875 in 1967.

Hueter attributed the second quarter earnings decline to four principal factors: costly work stoppages, depressed market prices, increased labor costs, and the 10% tax surcharge.

Strikes affecting 67 plant-days or operations and 96 sales days represented approximately 16 cents per share of the drop-off, Heuter said. Three major bakeries located in Chicago, IBC's largest metropolitan market, were down a total of 36 plant-days. The 10% surcharge retroactive from January 1, 1968, represented another 8 cents per share of the decline. Increased operating costs and depressed wholesale prices in some markets accounted for more than the remainder of the decrease.

During the second quarter, IBC directors approved in principle the purchase of the Baker Canning Company and its subsidiaries, Shawano Canning Company and Shawano Farms, Inc., all of Wisconsin. Sales and earnings of the Baker Company are not included in this report.

The integration of the Millbrook Division, acquired from Nibisco in March, continues in an orderly and satisfactory manner and IBC is actively reviewing other potential acquisitions in diversified food areas, Hueter said.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE 10TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

Next year this District will have a new Congressman and in these troubled times it is extremely important that we elect a Congressman of maturity, experience and sound judgment who can work effectively with our Governor, our United States Senators and all of the people of the Tenth District.

I ask you to consider and weigh these factors: I have actually experienced many of the problems facing our nation and the people of the Tenth District; I have known the stark reality of hunger and cold; the misfortunes of the great depression in the 1930's when a nickel would buy a meal if you could find a nickel; the tragedy of war - twenty (20) months in the South Pacific during World War II, in Guadalcanal, New Guinea, Admiraty Islands, the invasion of the Phillipine Islands and the Battle of Leyte Gulf; and I have known the joy of seeing our great nation through hard work and determination overcome the challenges of the past.

Now, we must look to the future and work together for all of the Tenth District and this nation. I have a sufficiently broad background to know, understand and effectively represent all the people in the Tenth District, poor man, laborer, farmer, businessman, or just the good old plain average American, because I am and have been all of these.

Agriculture must be effectively represented. I will volunteer to serve on the House of Agriculture Committee and work for Agriculture. My knowledge of agriculture comes from actually owning and farming land for a living. I know the hardships and despair of farm prices and higher costs to the farmers.

Industry must be encouraged and developed to insure our future, growth and prosperity. Our Governor Hearnes did a wonderful job in obtaining the new Noranda Industry in New Madrid County, along with Representative Copeland of New Madrid County who actually wrote, introduced and sponsored the legislation in the Missouri House of Representatives and who invited a number of County Representatives from adjoining counties to co-sign the Bill with him. I am the only candidate in the race who has actually led the movement to get new industry. My town was the first in the state in getting an industry using City Industry Bonds and we have secured a number of new industries since the first one. I have worked with all our Representatives in Washington for industry and I can do it for all of the Tenth District.

My opposition claims I'm not qualified for two reasons: (1) At 59 years I'm too old, and (2) I don't have a college education. My answers are: (1) I'm only running for a two year term. If I don't do the job you won't have to vote me back two years later because of, "seniority". I don't believe anyone should run for this office or any other and expect to stay there forever. I'm in excellent health and enjoy work. I presently hold the office of Mayor of Caruthersville and County Collector of Pemiscot County. I have continued to discharge the responsibilities of both of these offices without criticism of neglect of duty while campaigning for Congress. If elected I will discharge the duties of that office criwithout criticism of neglect. I'm the Superintendent of the Methodist Sunday School, the leader of the weekly men's breakfast for Christians of all churches, the finance officer of the American Legion. I have local business interests and oversee farming of land in Pemiscot County and New Madrid County. A man's age should be measured by his actions -- not his years. Some people are lazy at 37 or younger. I challenge any candidate in the race to match my energies or capacity for work. I'm used to it; they're not.

(2) I was not as fortunate as some of my opponents. At age 14 I had to go to work to support my family and didn't have an opportunity to go to college -- but I have a degree from the best college of them all -- practical experience. I learned finance from working in a bank -- I learned business from operating a Kroger Store, a laundry, an implement company and a car agency -- I learned public representation by being a City Alderman, Collector and Mayor -- I learned economy in Government as Mayor of Caruthersville. My City has a balanced budget, reduced indebtedness, no tax increase and yet has progressed. I have insisted that the City get a full dollar's value for every dollar spent and I believe the same should be true in the Federal Government. Fortunately, a college degree is not a requirement for public office. If it were, we would not have had some of our greatest public servants. A man's capacity and ability should be measured by his record, not his diplomas.

I want to go to Congress to work for all of us and I am asking the voters to please stand with me, a friend and a neighbor who knows your problems better than the other candidates.

RESPECTFULLY,
B. F. Rogers,

On August 6, the people of Missouri can choose a U.S. Senator destined for greatness.

WIN WITH Tom Eagleton

We need Tom Eagleton's vigor, his intelligence, his keen sense of justice. Most of all, we need his fresh solutions to today's problems

A seat in the United States Senate can't be bought. It has to be earned.

As our Lieutenant Governor and Attorney General and as Circuit Attorney of St. Louis, Tom Eagleton has earned the respect and confidence of the people of Missouri—and national recognition as one of America's outstanding young leaders.

With your help, Tom Eagleton offers a brilliant future of service—not just to the special-interest few, but to all Missourians.

As our United States Senator, Tom Eagleton will continue to make Missouri proud.

"...we favor his nomination..."

"Mr. Eagleton at 38 is in his prime. He was an exceptionally able Circuit Attorney, an exceptionally able Attorney General, an exceptionally able Lieutenant Governor. Having thus gone through a rigorous period of political training, he is ripe for higher office, and Missouri would be the loser if his talents were not made use of."

SMEAR IN THE PRIMARY CAMPAIGN

"In a political campaign, the technique of last minute character assassination usually raises more questions about the candidate who adopts it than about the intended victim."

"Former Police Board President Edward L. Dowd, candidate for Lieutenant Governor, has come close to disqualifying himself for the office, in our opinion, by concentrating his campaign on insinuations that William S. Morris of Kansas City is a corrupt tool of disreputable political or criminal interest."

"If there were any truth to these charges, Mr. Dowd has had months in which to document them.

This has all the earmarks of a calculated campaign of deception which can only be deplored.

Sirhan's Lawyer May Claim Partial Insanity

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan's attorney may rely on a little used and controversial defense tactic to try to reduce the penalty his client would face if convicted of killing Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The 24-year-old Sirhan pleaded innocent to the murder charge Friday but attorney Russell E. Parsons reserved the right to make new motions within 35 days under California law. One option available is the defense of "diminished capacity," or partial insanity.

If employing this tactic, the defense would try to show through psychiatric evidence that because of a mental disease or defect the defendant could not form the specific intent, malice and premeditation required for conviction of first-degree murder.

Until 1949 California courts had ruled against the defense in the use of such a device, holding that insanity is either a full defense requiring a plea of innocent by reason of insanity, or no defense at all. Decisions since 1949 have made the defense feasible. It would not result in acquittal if successful, but would reduce the charge to second-degree murder or manslaughter.

At Sirhan's 22½-minute court appearance Friday, the Jordanian immigrant's trial was set for Nov. 1. After Sirhan entered his plea Parsons said he did not know if his client is sane. He said he still is studying reports by two defense psychiatrists and is waiting for his client to have his brain X-rayed.

The court was convened in a special facility on the 13th floor of the hall of justice, about 50 feet from Sirhan's isolated cell. Sirhan's mother and three of his four brothers were in the makeshift courtroom.

When asked how he wished to plead, he replied in a loud, clear voice: "Not guilty."

He also pleaded innocent to five counts of assault with a deadly weapon and with intent to commit murder. Five other persons were wounded in the fusilade of shots that killed Sen. Kennedy last June 5 at the Ambassador Hotel.

Emerson to Build Addition At Kennett

KENNETT -- Emerson Electric has announced it is proceeding with plans to add a 40,000-square foot addition to its Kennett plant.

This new facility, scheduled for completion this fall, will be used in order to meet increased production schedules on general purpose motors, according to the report from John Mead, plant manager.

Emerson, largest employer in the Missouri Bootheel, employes approximately 750 in the Kennett operation. It is expected that plant employment will continue to increase during the coming year.

The building expansion in Kennett is being financed through arrangements with the Kennett Development Corporation the cost of which will be paid by Emerson through a long- term lease agreement.

STATE FAIRGROUNDS SPRUCED UP FOR ANNUAL FLOCK OF VISITORS

JEFFERSON CITY

Show-watchers to Missouri State Fair this year will have a roof over their heads. Frank Erickson, public information officer for the Department of Agriculture, said the new, covered grandstands will be ready for the fair, August 17-25.

As the work continues on the new grandstand, the grounds crew has been had at work for several months -- painting, cleaning, arranging and doing a multitude of jobs to prepare the Sedalia grounds for the thousands of visitors to come.

The title for the Fair this year is "Showcase '68". Dexter Davis, commission of the Department of Agriculture is pleased with the name: " 'Showcase '68". Dexter Davis, commission of the Department of AGriculture is pleased with the name: " 'Showcase '68', the theme for the 1968 Missouri State Fair, I think is very appropriate. For certainly Missouri will be on display . . . its agricultural accomplishments . . . many of its industrial achievements."

Entertainment will abound in the persons of Al Hirt, Tony Martin, Ed Ames, Randy Brown, Rich, Gibson & Rich, Diane Shelton, the New Christy Minstrels, Woody Herman and Orchestra and Willy Necker's Trained Dalmations. In addition, "Showcase '68" will feature country and western shows starring Marty Robbins, LeRoy Van Dyke & The Auctioneers, Hank Thompson, Faron Young and LaVonne Lear.

All of the standard attractions of the Fair will be there again, and many events have been expanded. The midway will be operating as usual, and so will the horse shows. A total of $35,458, is offered in prizes for shows of horses ranging from championship walking horses to six-mule hitches.

A similar amount is offered for a number of horse races. Horse racing events will include Appalbosa, thoroughbred, quarterhorse, pacer and trotter divisions.

For those who prefer racing at a faster pace, eight auto and motorcycle racing events are scheduled. The events are: big car, jalopy, late model stock car, State championship jalopy, 100-mile late model stock car, stock car sprints, 100-mile big car, and motorcycle races. In addition, the Eldon Daniel Auto Thrill Show will perform August 16.

For those who want to see the entire fair at one time ballon rides will offer a panorama of the entire fair grounds.

Traditional fair events which will be featured include livestock judging; food, horticultural, hobby and art exhibits; archery, horseshoe pitching, bait casting and barbeque contests; marching bands; farm machinery exhibits and contests. Trained dolphins, trained elephants, racing camels and ostriches will perform. A petting zoo is expected to be a big feature with children.

Kicksville, a separate pavilion, will offer teenagers nightly battles of the bands, featuring professional and amateur Missouri bands.

For many Missourians, the Fair will mean extra income. The Fair is offering a total of $193,279 for 25 different contests. For others, it will mean spending a little money. Admission to the Fair is free for children under six, 50 cents for children 7-12, and $1 for adults. A season ticket to the fair is $6. Admission for auto and motorcycle racing ranges from $1 to $4. An auto racing season ticket is $5. Visitors to the Fair, however, do not need to spend a lot of money as there are 37 free attractions.

MISSOURIANS ATTEND NATIONAL CONVENTIONS

As the Republican and Democratic national conventions in Miami and Chicago convene, Missouri delegates prepare for the hoopla and the serious business of helping to choose the presidential candidates.

The first order of business is the formation of the party's platform, with important planks on the war and an violence in the cities.

In Miami, 24 Missouri delegates will vote on the Republican to run for the presidency. The delegation is composed of 20 delegates from 10 districts, plus four delegates at large. Before the convention, the two leading contenders, Nixon and Rockefeller, vied for the number one spot in Missouri polls. At that time, the preference of the Missouri delegation was in doubt. Mrs. Rosemary Ginn, Columbia, national committeewoman, told the Kansas City Times that she has noticed a reluctance on the part of many delegates to jump on a candidate's bandwagon.

On the Democratic side, the Missouri delgation has 60 votes with three votes from each of the 10 districts and 30 from delegates at large Before the convention, most delegates were reported to favor Vice President Humphrey, but some were for Sen. Eugene McCarthy and they circulated a petition demanding an open convention.

Late last month Humphrey announced that he preferred an open convention with no unit rules. Reacting to this, Missouri Democratic Chairman Delton Houtchens released the state delegation from the unit rule, despite the fact that the delegation had never been formally committeed to Humphrey. Houtchens predicted that the removal of the rule would have little effect and that 55 of the 60 Democratic delegates would vote for Humphrey anyway.

Hot Weather in Store for August

By Leonard F. Hand
Farm Meterologist

PORTAGEVILLE -- Below normal temperatures and near normal rainfall are expected weather trends over the Bootheel in August.

High pressure systems entering the northwest Pacific Coast and crossing the northern states will be reinforced by centers moving southward out of Canada into the upper Mississippi Valley. Penetration of cool air as far south as the Bootheel will be more regular than in July.

Major low pressure systems developing in the Central Great Plains are expected to follow a track northeastward to the Great Lakes Region.

This combination raises the possibility of cool fronts occasionally pushing into the mid-south and lingering for a day to two at a time. Precipitation in the form of showers and thundershowrs will contribute the bulk of moisture. As in the past two months, amounts of rain will be quite variable, but increased frequency of shower periods offers possibility of better distribution of rains.

Cooler temperatures with adequate sunshine won't affect crop development as much as if periods of clouds and showery persist for days at a time. Even when air temperatures are below normal, plant parts exposed tothe sun during the day can be warmed well above readings in the air. Sunlight intensity has been found to be directly linked with cotton fiber development, one reason why cloud cover may be more significant than air temperature during this critical month.

Farmers should be alert to increases in population of bollworms, plant bugs and even boll weavils under conditions expected this month. Mr. Flernoy Jones, Southeast Area Entomological Agent at the University of Missouri Delta Center reports that Scouts have observed these insects in growing numbers. If any doubt exists regarding need for control. contact Mr. Jones or your County Extension Director.

Weather forecasts and five day trends will help farmers schedule control operations during periods when at least 6 hours of dry weather can be anticipated following sprays. Remember, too, that locally heavy showers may leave fields too muddy to support spray equipment at a time when applications of insecticides are called for.

With prospects for cool nights at times when soil moisture may be plentiful we should expect dews to become more heavy in intensity as the month advances. Some control materials achieve best results when applied to dry foliage since they can be diluted by water present on leaves. Humid conditions are also conducive to development of disease organisms and fields should be watched for bollrot. Should bottom defoliation become advisable, keep in mind that these materials are more effective in warm and sunny weather. The five - day trends may help decide on timing of this operation.

Moisture conditions across the Bootheel are extremely variable as can be seen from July rainfall totals:

Caruthersville 1.23 inches, Malden 1.16 inches, Poplar Bluff 7.85 inches, Portageville 2.82 inches, Kennett 3.30 inches, Charlestn 5.78 inches, Sikeston 2.10 inches, and Portageville Delta Center Experiment Farm 2.99 inches.

Normal precipitation for the Bootheel as a whole in August is 3.19 inches.

Normals for individuals cities - Cape Girardeau 3.73 inches, Caruthersville 3.04 inches. Dexter 3.44 inches, Doniphan 3.61 inches, Morehouse 3.13 inches, New Madrid 3.09 inches, Parma 3.30 inches, Poplar Bluff 3.12 inches and Sikeston 2.92 inches.

Short term averages for other points - Advance 3.07 inches, Bernie 2.62 inches, Bloomfield 2.84 inches, Charleston 2.91 inches, Clearwater Dam 3.05 inches, Wappapello Dam 2.47 inches, Kennett 3.29 inches, Malden 2.26 inches, Portageville 3.32 inches, Puxico 2.55 inches, Qulin 2.12 inches and Deering 2.60 inches.

Long term records show that for years with near normal (moderate) rainfall, average monthly accumulations have totalled 3.61 inches at Poplar Bluff, 3.70 at Sikeston and 3.64 inches at Caruthersville. Ranges between the lowest and heaviest monthly totals are consistent with 3.19 to 4.33 inches at Poplar Bluff, 3.17 to 4.54 at Sikeston and 3.17 to 4.55 inches at Caruthersville.

Search Continues For Missing Cattle

BLOOMFIELD - A search has been underway since July 23, by the owners of the Denton-Cantrell Livestock Company for more than 60 head of cattle that walked away from a penned area about 2:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. Raymond Denton, whose husband is co-owner of the livestock company, said that more than 100 head of cattle escaped the penned area shortly before daylight Tuesday and that when they arrived at the scene a large gate was open.

Mrs. Denton said that some cattle had been loaded at midnight and that when workmen left, the gate had been fastened.

The approximate 100 head of steers and heifers have scattered in a wide area, she said, almost to Dexter, in some instances.

Four head of cattle have been killed, she said, one was struck by a Greyhound bus, another by a car, plus two others as well as two head that suffered broken legs when struck by vehicles.

Some 20 head were located July 23, and three had been found early Wednesday, and men were still combing the woods of the surrounding area" in search of the missing cattle. At the last report on Wednesday, July 31, only 21 head were still missing and the men were still combing the area.

The Livestock Company has been located at Bloomfield for several years and "has never experienced anything like this, Mrs. Denton said.

The cattle were ready to be shipped to Iowa markets, Mrs. Denton said.

In partnership with Denton is Clarence Cantrell.

Wallace Backers Divide Into Two Camps

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Not one but two state conventions of the American Independent party convene today to nominate George C. Wallace for president.

The two conventions grew out of a dispute among Wallace supporters in California. "That's a sign of a healthy party, to have a little dissension," Wallace said when he arrived Friday night.

A result of the dispute could be selection of competing 40-member slates of presidential electors, with a court decision needed to choose the legal one.

Wallace addresses the convention his aides consider to be the "real one," the one attended by a number of the 60 American Independent party nominees for Congress and the legislature chosen in the June 4 primary.

The other convention was organized by William K. Shearer, who claims to be the state party chairman. He said there are 194 eligible delegates and all are invited to his convention. Shearer said these potential delegates include those chosen by county and state party committees.

Shearer, an early organizer of the party in California, said he'd had no communication with Wallace. "I have no ideas what his plans are. Certainly, he would be welcome if he cares to come to our convention."

Bootheel Peach Harvest Now in Full Swing

CAMPBELL, MO. - Georgia peaches may have gained more renown than those harvested near this Southeast Missouri community, but there are none better anywhere.

So claim the citizens of Campbell. "And the proof," they say, "is in the eating."

Harold Lewis, an orchardist, said that the crops this year is up to par in quality and that the market is strong.

"We have a good clean crop," he emphasized, noting, however, that peaces are "not as large as a year ago, as they were thinned by nature in the spring of 1967." When cool weather nips portions of the buds, those remaining mature into larger peaches.

The first car lot was shipped from here in late May this year, and through June and early July shipments have included Red Haven, Jersey Land, Dixie Red, Cardinal, Ranger and Red Haven.

As July advances the harvest includes early Elbertas, Southland and Burbank varieties. Later in the month the Redskins, Sullivan, Jefferson and Snider varieties of the Elberta group mature.

Most delectable of all are the regular Elbertas, late Reds and Rioso Gem. These are picked and shipped during early August.

Lloyd Miller, an orchardist and hardware merchant, said the crop has been consistently good over the years. "There has been just one crop failure in 29 years," he recalls "and that was in 1954."

Mr. Miller noted about 1200 acres of peach orchards are in the 10 mile "circle" north of Campbell.

Orchards range from about 10 acres up to 200, he said, with a number of them running 60 to 100 acres. Yields range from five to 10 bushels an acre, depending on the maturity of the trees.

Currently there are about 800 acres in peach production in the Campbell area.

In a report made available through Carlton Stewart, president of the Southeast Missouri District Peach Council, the peach orchard acreage in the Campbell region has nearly doubled in the last three or four years.

St. Louis, Kansas City and Chicago markets are important to the orchardists, though peaches also are shipped as far west as Denver, and Southwest into Oklahoma City and Tulsa.

Some of the late varieties are sold in the southern states.

To celebrate the harvest a Peach Festival has been scheduled Tuesday & Wednesday. The harvest usually is concluded by about Aug. 10.

DOWD OVER MORRIS

EDITORIAL REPRINT FROM THE ST. LOUIS GLOBE-DEMOCRAT
FRIDAY AUGUST 2, 1968

It is well known that Alex Presta, ex-convict and reputed associate of gangland characters, is backing W. S. (Bill) Morris for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

Mr. Morris, at the Press Club of St. Louis conference Thursday, had an opportunity to disavow this support. That he chose not to do so - only to say that he was not soliciting Presta's backing - was disturbing.

Edward L. Dowd, who charges that Morris is backed by former convict Jimmie Michaels of St. Louis, as well as Presta of Kansas City's wheeling and dealing North Side, says he wants no part of Presta or his associates.

Morris, however, claims he knows Presta only as a real estate man and politician.

Ordinarily we might accept Mr. Morris' apparent naivete without too much concern. But he is running for the second highest office in the state of Missouri. If he has not learned about the Presta reputation by now, it can be properly wondered how rigidly he might work to rid the state of underworld elements which reportedly have grown stronger in recent years.

Mr. Dowd, by contrast, is making the strong impression of a man who would use his power to make life miserable for disreputable elements in the state if he were elected lieutenant governor.

We prefer a man like Dowd who calls a spade a spade and a Presta a Presta. We know from his record, as head of the St. Louis Police Board and as Circuit Attorney, that we need have no misgivings about his judgment, integrity or strong desire to carry out the duties of his office.

On the basis of what we have seen and heard we are confirmed in the belief that Ed Dowd is much to be preferred to Mr. Morris who seems too heavily immersed in Kansas City politics and too unconcerned about where his support comes from.

Site Sought for Nursing Home

DEXTER - A site is being sought in Dexter for a $360,000 nursing home facility after a temporary corporation was formed last week.

An officer of the board said no definite site has been selected but the members of the board are considering several possibilities. The name tentatively agreed on for the home is Sunny Hill Nursing Home.

D. L. Bess was elected president of the temporary corporation and other officers are vice president, Bud Taylor; treasurer, Bob David, and secretary, Sherman Boone.

The initial plans call for a 6-bed nursing home facility to care for the aged and the handicapped. It will meet all state and federal requirements and will be modern in every respect, officers of the board said.

A portion of the cost will be paid with a federal grant, officers reported, much the same as the federal grant for the hospital in Dexter.

$958.900 Loss In Cairo Bank Conflagration

CAIRO - Official estimate of losses sustained in the First Bank and Trust Co., fire is $958,900.

Fire Chief Lewis Edwards said the estimate includes loss of the building, tenant losses and damage to roofs of several buildings on the north side of 8th Street.

Damage to the bank building was placed at $800,000 and Edwards said the loss would have been much higher and not the bank saved most of its equipment.

The fire chief said that insurance men, state fire inspectors and others believe the fire started between an old ceiling in the portion of the building containing Henckell's Drug Store. He said material in the false ceiling contained the fire in the space until it broke through flooring on the second floor and quickly spread to windows.

Most of the dozen business and professional firms who were tenants in the building when it burned have obtained temporary quarters in the downtown area of Cairo and continue in business.

Airliner Crash Blamed on Downdraft

MILAN, Italy (AP) — A violent downdraft is believed to have caused the crash of an Alitalia Airlines DC-8 jetliner that went down in driving rain and thick fog Friday night with 95 persons aboard.

Twelve persons were killed and one was missing among those on the plane bound from Rome to Montreal with a stopover in Milan.

The big jet crashed into a pine-covered hillside six miles short of the runway at Milan's Malpensa Airport and burst into flames. Many survivors escaped through cracks in the fusilage.

Fabio Stafiere, 59, the pilot, said the craft apparently got caught in a downdraft about 600 feet off the ground.

"It wasn't really a violent impact," said one survivor, Franco Colombo, 44, of Milan. "The airplane didn't break up into pieces, but the motors caught fire and the flames enveloped amost the whole plane."

"All I could see was trees coming through the airplane and I thought, 'This is the end,'" said Diane Gottheil, 29, of Urbana, Ill., wife of a University of Illinois professor.

Mrs. Gottheil jumped shoeless through an emergency door with her 2-year-old daughter, Lisa, in her arms, and raced through the woods. Her, husband Fred, 36, followed. He suffered a back injury.

The Gottheil's and John Smith, a representative of the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. office in Beirut, Lebanon, his wife, Caroline, and their son, Duncan, were the only Americans aboard the flight. Most of the other survivors were Italians.

Alitalia's president Bruno Velani flew from Rome to Milan join in an investigation by airline officials and a seven-member government commission.

Both teams presumably will rely on the electronic flight recorder tape, which was in a box recovered from the wreckage.

The crash was the first of a commercial plane in Italy since a Trans World Airlines jet crashed taking off from Rome on Nov. 23, 1964, with a loss of 48 lives.

Johnson has nominated Associate Justice Abe Fortas to succeed Chief Justice Earl Warren and U. S. Circuit Court Judge Homer Thornberry to take Fortas' place as an associate justice.

The nominations are still pending before the Senate Judiciary Committee, however, and cannot go before the Senate until after it returns in September.

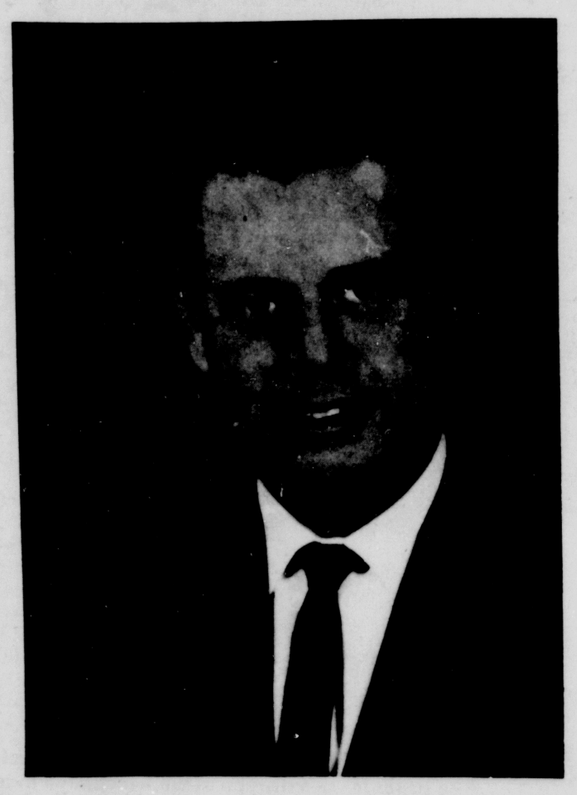
DEMOCRAT, AUGUST 6TH



Dennis says, "The Sheriff's job is too big a job for an inexperienced man."

I have had 5 years experience as an officer of the Circuit Court. 16 years ago Dennis had nothing to offer in the way of experience.

Dennis says, "RE-elect the man YOU KNOW can do the work." Does he refer to his job in Scott County, Missouri, or Shelby County, Tennessee?

One out of every four criminal cases filed in the Circuit Court in the last 3 years has been dismissed or nolle prossed for lack of sufficient evidence. HAS DENNIS DONE THE JOB?

I WILL BE YOUR FULL TIME SHERIFF IN SCOTT COUNTY, MISSOURI.

I will also devote all my efforts to LAW ENFORCEMENT FOR ALL -- NOT LAND SPECULATION.

Dennis said 4 years ago he didn't want the sheriff's job -- Now, he asks for your vote -- IS HE SAYING HE NEVER HAD IT SO GOOD?

Dennis says, "Scott County is a good, Safe place to live." Do you believe those who have recently been MURDERED would agree, if they were Alive TODAY?

Dennis has been wished a happy birthday by his friends, but they refused to reveal his age. IS HE GETTING TOO OLD FOR THE JOB? I am 41 years old, have two girls and one boy and want Scott County to be the best place for them and you and yours to live.

A vote for Dennis is a vote for an organized clique --- A VOTE FOR INGRAM is a Vote for Vigorous LAW ENFORCEMENT. I will work for ALL SCOTT COUNTIANS -- NOT JUST A CHOSEN FEW.

Changes in Jail Administration Recommended

ST. Louis AP - A report on a study of Missouri county jails issued by the Governor's Citizens Committee on Delinquency and Crime, recommends broad changes in jail administration.

Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton, the committee chairman, said the proposed changes are intended to improve jail functions and effectiveness in the criminal justice system of Missouri.

Eagleton said the report will be used by the committee in preparing recommendations to the governor and the general assembly next year.

Edward L. Dowd has abandoned the issue and resorted to mud-slinging smear tactics in an attempt to tie W. S. "Bill" Morris, his chief opponent, to the underworld. The same smear tactics were used against Governor Hearnes in the bitterly contested gubernatorial race of 1964.

Flatt & Scruggs Play in 'Bonnie & Clyde'

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

More TV and movie themes are ignored and forgotten than are listened to and remembered. Lester Flatt and Earl Scruggs are fortunate—and the material had a lot to do with it—in playing a couple of the latter kinds of themes—for TV's "The Beverly Hillbillies" and the movie, "The Story of Bonnie and Clyde."

"Foggy Mountain Breakdown," used throughout "Bonnie and Clyde," has recently been very popular and has been recorded by a lot of people. Scruggs wrote that breakdown (a fast dance tune) in 1948. It's on both of Flatt and Scruggs' last two albums, on Columbia, "Changin' Times" and "The Story of Bonnie and Clyde."

(The latter LP also has Randy Scruggs, 14, playing guitar and Gary Scruggs as one of three backup voices for Flatt's vocals.)

LESTER Flatt, foreground, and Earl Scruggs

Flatt and Scruggs have been a team so long, go together so well and appeal so widely, that it seems they must always have been together. But of course they haven't. In 1945, Flatt was playing guitar in Nashville. "I was working with some guy on the Grand Ole Opry who played banjo drop thumb style. My Dad used to pick it that way all the time, which is why I quit fooling with the banjo. I couldn't get my thumb right. Well,he'd hold our band back on anything we tried to do, and he finally left.

"One day, somebody said, 'We've got a fellow here who wants to audition with the banjo.' I said, 'As far as I'm concerned, he can just leave it in the case.' We were doing so much better without a banjo."

But Scruggs took his banjo out of the case.

Flatt says, "First thing you know, everybody in the Opry was standing around looking, and me with them. I'd been all over and I'd never heard that style of banjo picking before. I just didn't have any idea. Now you hear it everywhere you go."

Scruggs was playing three-finger style, now much imitated and called "Scruggs style." He says, "There was a small area in North Carolina where there were quite a few three-finger players—with the thumb and two fingers instead of the usual thumb and one finger. At first I was a little dissatisfied with it, but later it turned out to be more versatile than I had anticipated."

Three-finger picking isn't the only Scruggs innovation on the banjo. Bob Johnston, who produces Flatt and Scruggs records for Columbia, says, "I came out of the booth one day and he was playing and all of a sudden he reached up and turned this thing and went right on playing, in a different key.

"You know a guitar or banjo picker spends half his time tuning."

Mrs. Scruggs, booking manager for Flatt and Scruggs, says, "Oh, that's the tuning device he invented in 1951. I thought he'd lost his mind. He asked for a brace and bit and he took apart my floor waxer for a piece of metal."

Scruggs says, "I went right through the pearl inlay and put on a tuner.

"We were doing a tune where I was pressing down on the head and bending the neck of the banjo and I was afraid I was going to warp it. That was one of the things that gave me the idea of lowering the strings while picking.

"The tuner's been redone since, but it was pretty accurate the first time."

His wife says, "They don't use floor waxers in the new models."

Scruggs lives in Madison, a suburb of Nashville. His wife says, 'One day a friend, a Nashville psychiatrist who picks a little banjo, brought six psychiatrist friends in and asked Earl to play 'Earl's Breakdown.' They didn't know if it was a joke or if he was an incurable patient."

Flatt lives in "the city of Sparta, Tenn." He plays a Martin model 28 guitar.

"There were only a few 45 model Martin guitars made. If you find one now they want $1,500, $2,000 for it, if you can buy it at all. I think Johnny Cash paid $1,800 for that one he's got. But I've played some I wouldn't give my old 28 for."

Both Flatt and Scruggs can tell plenty of stories. Flatt recalls one time spinning tales to Cowan Williams, president of Martha White Foods Inc., which has sponsored Flatt and Scruggs on the air since 1953 (the longest running artist-sponsor relation in Nashville). "He came over one afternoon in '52 and said, 'Don't let me forget to go hear Eisenhower speak tonight.' The next time he looked at his watch it was 11:30. He said, 'Oh, well, I was going to vote for him anyway.'

"I was just telling stories. We've got a lot of characters around the city of Sparta."

Bhutan Lives in Past

Bhutan's early history is lost in antiquity as are the reasons for the many ceremonies still practiced. A band, above, plays hand-made instruments during one of the many festivals conducted in the Himalayan kingdom. Bhutan's monarch, Sir Jigme Dorji Wangchuk, left, is a keen archer and hunters under his rule follow his lead, preferring bows and arrows to guns. The Royal Palace, below, nestles in the mountains which are infested with tigers and wild elephants.

Flatt & Scruggs Play in 'Bonnie & Clyde'

AP Newsfeatures Writer

More TV and movie themes are ignored and forgotten than are listened to and remembered. Lester Flatt and Earl Scruggs are fortunate—and the material had a lot to do with it—in playing a couple of the latter kinds of themes—for TV's "The Beverly Hillbillies" and the movie, "The Story of Bonnie and Clyde."

"Foggy Mountain Breakdown," used throughout "Bonnie and Clyde," has recently been very popular and has been recorded by a lot of people. Scruggs wrote that breakdown (a fast dance tune) in 1948. It's on both of Flatt and Scruggs' last two albums, on Columbia, "Changin' Times" and "The Story of Bonnie and Clyde."

(The latter LP also has Randy Scruggs, 14, playing guitar and Gary Scruggs as one of three backup voices for Flatt's vocals.)

LESTER Flatt, foreground, and Earl Scruggs

Flatt and Scruggs have been a team so long, go together so well and appeal so widely, that it seems they must always have been together. But of course they haven't. In 1945, Flatt was playing guitar in Nashville. "I was working with some guy on the Grand Ole Opry who played banjo drop thumb style. My Dad used to pick it that way all the time, which is why I quit fooling with the banjo. I couldn't get my thumb right. Well,he'd hold our band back on anything we tried to do, and he finally left.

"One day, somebody said, 'We've got a fellow here who wants to audition with the banjo.' I said, 'As far as I'm concerned, he can just leave it in the case.' We were doing so much better without a banjo."

But Scruggs took his banjo out of the case.

Flatt says, "First thing you know, everybody in the Opry was standing around looking, and me with them. I'd been all over and I'd never heard that style of banjo picking before. I just didn't have any idea. Now you hear it everywhere you go."

Scruggs was playing three-finger style, now much imitated and called "Scruggs style." He says, "There was a small area in North Carolina where there were quite a few three-finger players—with the thumb and two fingers instead of the usual thumb and one finger. At first I was a little dissatisfied with it, but later it turned out to be more versatile than I had anticipated."

Three-finger picking isn't the only Scruggs innovation on the banjo. Bob Johnston, who produces Flatt and Scruggs records for Columbia, says, "I came out of the booth one day and he was playing and all of a sudden he reached up and turned this thing and went right on playing, in a different key.

"You know a guitar or banjo picker spends half his time tuning."

Mrs. Scruggs, booking manager for Flatt and Scruggs, says, "Oh, that's the tuning device he invented in 1951. I thought he'd lost his mind. He asked for a brace and bit and he took apart my floor waxer for a piece of metal."

Scruggs says, "I went right through the pearl inlay and put on a tuner.

"We were doing a tune where I was pressing down on the head and bending the neck of the banjo and I was afraid I was going to warp it. That was one of the things that gave me the idea of lowering the strings while picking.

"The tuner's been redone since, but it was pretty accurate the first time."

His wife says, "They don't use floor waxers in the new models."

Scruggs lives in Madison, a suburb of Nashville. His wife says, 'One day a friend, a Nashville psychiatrist who picks a little banjo, brought six psychiatrist friends in and asked Earl to play 'Earl's Breakdown.' They didn't know if it was a joke or if he was an incurable patient."

Flatt lives in "the city of Sparta, Tenn." He plays a Martin model 28 guitar.

"There were only a few 45 model Martin guitars made. If you find one now they want $1,500, $2,000 for it, if you can buy it at all. I think Johnny Cash paid $1,800 for that one he's got. But I've played some I wouldn't give my old 28 for."

Both Flatt and Scruggs can tell plenty of stories. Flatt recalls one time spinning tales to Cowan Williams, president of Martha White Foods Inc., which has sponsored Flatt and Scruggs on the air since 1953 (the longest running artist-sponsor relation in Nashville). "He came over one afternoon in '52 and said, 'Don't let me forget to go hear Eisenhower speak tonight.' The next time he looked at his watch it was 11:30. He said, 'Oh, well, I was going to vote for him anyway.'

"I was just telling stories. We've got a lot of characters around the city of Sparta."

Bhutan Lives in Past

Bhutan's early history is lost in antiquity as are the reasons for the many ceremonies still practiced. A band, above, plays hand-made instruments during one of the many festivals conducted in the Himalayan kingdom. Bhutan's monarch, Sir Jigme Dorji Wangchuk, left, is a keen archer and hunters under his rule follow his lead, preferring bows and arrows to guns. The Royal Palace, below, nestles in the mountains which are infested with tigers and wild elephants.

Ann Landers

Cab Drivers All Know Gram

Dear Ann Landers: My grandmother is 69 years of age. She has a good income but insists on working part-time to "keep up with things." Gram is peppy and fun and could wear out a person half her age. She has lived with us for two years (we need the $150 a month) and our children love her.

The problem is that Gram drinks. (She's been doing it for 40 years that I know of.) It wouldn't be so bad if she drank quietly at home but she goes to the neighborhood taverns four evenings a week. Occasionally some "nice young man" brings Gram home but usually she hires a taxi.

The drivers are getting to know her by her first name. I don't mean to give the impression they have to help her walk or anything. She never gets really loaded. She can put the key in the lock and get herself to bed.

My husband says Gram can either stop drinking or move elsewhere because she is giving our address a bad name. I think he is being too hard on the old darling. What do you say? -- LOYAL TO GRAM

Dear Loyal: The "old darling" is pretty well pickled by this time so your husband can forget about a reform program.

Since Gram doesn't get into trouble and your husband's only complaint is that the cab drivers are getting to know your address, tell him the drivers don't care about addresses so long as their fares behave themselvs and pay. I'd hate to see you toss out the old girl.

Dear Ann Landers: My parents had a terrible marriage. Dad was a quiet man who didn't have much ambition. Mom always held an executive position and made three times as much as Dad. Although she never threw it up to him he mentioned it often as "the cause of all our trouble."

I guess history repeats itself because I was married at 24-- to a man who was making less money than I. The marriage lasted exactly two years. I swore I'd never make that mistake again. Now I am 31 and in love with a man whose salary is exactly 50 per cent of mine. He wants me to marry him and quit work and have a family.

Am I wrong to want to maintain the high standard of living to which I have grown accustomed? I can do without him. Please advise. --SARA

Dear Sara: Since your principal interest in life seems to be to enjoy a high standard of living, tell the fellow no. It would be a dirty trick to marry him. And I hope you and your standard of living will be very happy.

Dear Ann Landers: I started to write to this boy in the service. He saw my picture in a high school paper. Jerry was a real brain and I knew it from his first letter. I had to sit with a dictionary in my lap. I was determined to look smart, too, so I got the smartest girl in school to compose "my" letters to him.

Jerry is coming home next month. The minute I open my mouth he'll know I didn't write those letters. Shall I confess right off or try to fake it? -- GHOSTED

Dear Ghosted: Confess right off and pray that Jerry has a sense of humor. If he doesn't laugh, introduce him to the girl who wrote the letters.

Drinking may be "in" to the kids you run with -- but it can put you "out" for keeps. You can cool it and stay popular. Read "Booze and You -- For Teen-Agers Only." Send 36 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self addressed, stamped envelope.

If You Were the Judge

Able Bodied Need No Assistance on Bus

Selma, with more curves than a road map, was used to having men wait on her hand and foot. Consequently, she was her old self when she wiggled up to a bus and coyly asked the bus driver to help her aboard. As it developed, however, the bus driver must have had an innoculation against beautiful women since he refused to move a muscle to help her. Indignant, Selma began to enter the bus unassisted and, as fate would have it, she fell flat on her face.

Badly hurt, Selma sued the bus company for her injuries.

"When a person asks to be helped aboard a bus," she complained to the judge, "the driver is obligated to comply."

"Hogwash," retorted the bus driver. "Selma was no invalid. Figuratively speaking she was in pretty good shape. The only reason she fell was because she was looking at me instead of where she was stepping."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit Selma to collect because the bus driver refused to lend her a hand?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! He held that in the event a passenger is blind, sick, aged, very young, crippled or infirm, and the condition is apparent or made known, the operator of a bus is required to render necessary aid in assisting the passenger to board or alight from the vehicle. And, if he fails to do so, or does so carelessly, the bus company can be held responsible for resulting injuries. But, in this case, concluded the judge, Selma was apprently in good shape and the step up was normal.

Nixon's First Vote Hopes Ride On 3 Factors

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) -- Richard M. Nixon's hopes for a first ballot victory at next week's Republican National Convention appear to depend on some 200 uncommitted delegates, three large "favorite son" states and his ability to hold Southern delegates.

These three factors appeared in an updated Associated Press tally of likely first ballot strength, based on primary results, pledges and firm statements in response to AP polls, which showed Nixon with 547 votes--120 below the 667 needed for the GOP presidential nomination.

Nixon remained well ahead of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, New York, who has 208 and Gov. Ronald Reagan, California, who has 157. Other favorite sons total 264 votes, while 207 are uncommitted. In the past five days, Nixon has gained five, Rockefeller six and Reagan three.

Caucuses are planned by many delegations Monday, including Michigan, Ohio and Maryland, where 125 votes are currently ticketed for Govs. George Romney, James A. Rhodes and Spiro T. Agnew.

On the Democratic side, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey lost 17½ in a week but remained far ahead with 775 of the 1,312 needed. Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy who gained 7 from Humphrey when Maryland's unit rule was rescinded and also gained in West Virginia, has 432½, while favorite sons control 656, the uncommitted delegates total 746½ and 12 are scattered elsewhere.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

There we saw the giants . . . : and we were in our own sight as grasshoppers. (Numbers 13:33)

PRAYER: Whatever may be our adversary this day, our Father, help us to face it with courage, for it can be conquered when Thou art with us. In faith we pray, in the name of Jesus. Amen.

Senator Long Answers Life Smear

During the last few days, I have been viciously and unfairly attacked. These smear attacks have had nothing to do with the vital issues of this campaign.

Instead, they have been personal attacks aimed solely at my integrity.

I am making this special report to you because I believe the citizens of Missouri deserve the truth. In every campaign in which I have taken part I have said that if the citizens have the facts they will make the correct decision at the polls.

As many of you know, I have been elected to other public offices, including Prosecuting Attorney of Pike County, State Senator three times, Lieutenant Governor, and twice to the United States Senate. In all the campaigns for election to those offices and in all the times I served in those offices, my integrity and honesty were never questioned.

In my first six years as your United States Senator, no question was ever raised about my honesty and integrity.

But in 1965, I launched a major Senate investigation into wiretapping, eavesdropping and snooping on American citizens.

Just as soon as my investigation began, reports started reaching me that if I kept on investigating, I would be attacked. The word was out that certain Federal agents and big money interests on the East Coast were out to get Ed Long. Word was sent to me, "Senator, you had better quit your investigations if you want to win the next election."

But I had promised you that I would fight Big Brother government before it undermines our democratic system. I felt no price was too high to pay to defend the citizens' rights.

So I kept on investigating. The more I uncovered, the more enemies I made. The more wrongdoing I uncovered in Washington, the stronger the threats against me.

Finally, some Federal agencies and other enemies I had made joined hands with a national magazine. It is a highly interesting historical fact that many of these who have concerned themselves with human rights—particularly if they were Democrats—have always been subjected to attack by this magazine. You will recall Life's bitter personal attacks on Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry S. Truman, Adlai Stevenson, and John F. Kennedy.

Charges against me in that magazine were investigated by the Senate Ethics Committee. Serving on this committee are such national leaders as Republican Senator John Sherman Cooper and Democratic Senator Eugene McCarthy. But, after a thorough study, after hearing all the witnesses over many months, after looking into all the false accusations against me, that bi-partisan committee issued a report which completely cleared me.

But my enemies were not satisfied. They kept right on with the same smear campaign and dirty tactics.

The latest smear involves a St. Louis housing project. The true facts are that when plans for construction of the project were being considered, my office in Washington received a number of complaints from interested citizens, none of whom represented labor union organizations, claiming that the proposed plans would result in higher construction costs and higher rental charges.

These complaints were sent to the Federal agency handling the program.

This agency, after investigation, found the complaint justified and ordered the plans rewritten, finding that as a result, the taxpayers would be saved approximately $250,000 in construction costs, plus an additional $26,671 per year in operating costs. I offer no apology to anyone for saving the taxpayers money and for keeping rents paid by citizens as low as possible.

These facts were reported accurately more than three years ago—April 11, 1965—by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Life's distorted and erroneous version of this matter, just two weeks before the Missouri primary, conclusively proves this is an effort to smear me and to influence the election in Missouri. This is the dirtiest kind of politics and the people of Missouri will not be misled.

My enemies have dragged the name of your United States Senator through the mud with false statements and innuendoes.

So I want to report to you in the best way I know how, that as your Senator, I had and still have only one goal: to serve the citizens of this State with honesty and dedication.

I have worked as hard as I know how at keeping Missouri moving forward.

*I am author of the Freedom of Information Law which guarantees the citizens right to know what our government agencies are doing.

*I am author of the Right of Privacy bill.

*I am author of the first reform bill in 20 years to cut red tape and delay in Federal agencies.

*I have supported every effort to solve the key problems of Missouri.

I can assure you I will continue to fight against government agents and others who trample on the rights of individual American citizens, regardless of what kind of filth and phony attacks my enemies throw at me. As your Senator I will continue to fight for your rights.

But I need your help. My enemies are doing everything they can against me. I need your support in the primary on Tuesday, August 6th.

Edward V. Long
United States Senator

An Open Letter From August A. Busch, Jr.

Dear Fellow Missourians:

Edward V. Long has been one of the outstanding Senators in the long history of distinguished men who have represented the State of Missouri in the Senate of the United States. That is why I am proud to be the Honorary Chairman of his campaign this year.

For the past eight years Ed Long has been the Senator of all the people. He has given the major part of his time and attention to safeguarding the rights of the individual citizen from the government or from any other source. In these days of almost unlimited "snooping" into our lives, this is one of the most important rights which any of us have as American citizens.

He has consistently supported every Constitutional measure to step up the attack on organized crime and to aid police efforts to make our homes and families safer. He has co-authored and sponsored many laws to end bureaucratic bungling, to end red tape in government practices, and to make our tax dollar go farther through more efficient government.

Senator Long has never been too busy to help his fellow Missourians with any of their problems. He has truly been a "friend in the Senate" to all who have called upon him. He understands the needs of the people of this state and of the nation. That is why he has sponsored so many pieces of legislation which are so important for our future lives and security.

It is more essential than ever that the people of Missouri send Ed Long back to the Senate. All of us have in Ed Long . . . "a friend in the Senate." It is in the best interests of each of us to keep him there.

I hope you will join with thousands of your fellow citizens in voting for him on August 6.

Sincerely,

August A. Busch, Jr.

You have a friend in the Senate . . . Keep him there!

On Tuesday, August 6, Re-Elect U.S. Senator Edward V. Long, Democrat

Paid for by the Citizens Committee for the Re-Election of U.S. Senator Edward V. Long, August A. Busch, Jr., Honorary Chairman

Ann Landers

Cab Drivers All Know Gram

Dear Ann Landers: My grandmother is 69 years of age. She has a good income but insists on working part-time to "keep up with things." Gram is peppy and fun and could wear out a person half her age. She has lived with us for two years (we need the $150 a month) and our children love her.

The problem is that Gram drinks. (She's been doing it for 40 years that I know of.) It wouldn't be so bad if she drank quietly at home but she goes to the neighborhood taverns four evenings a week. Occasionally some "nice young man" brings Gram home but usually she hires a taxi.

The drivers are getting to know her by her first name. I don't mean to give the impression they have to help her walk or anything. She never gets really loaded. She can put the key in the lock and get herself to bed.

My husband says Gram can either stop drinking or move elsewhere because she is giving our address a bad name. I think he is being too hard on the old darling. What do you say? — LOYAL TO GRAM

Dear Loyal: The "old darling" is pretty well pickled by this time so your husband can forget about a reform program.

Since Gram doesn't get into trouble and your husband's only complaint is that the cab drivers are getting to know your address, tell him the drivers don't care about addresses so long as their fares behave themselvs and pay. I'd hate to see you toss out the old girl.

Dear Ann Landers: My parents had a terrible marriage. Dad was a quiet man who didn't have much ambition. Mom always held an executive position and made three times as much as Dad. Although she never threw it up to him he mentioned it often as "the cause of all our trouble."

I guess history repeats itself because I was married at 24-- to a man who was making less money than I. The marriage lasted exactly two years. I swore I'd never make that mistake again. Now I am 31 and in love with a man whose salary is exactly 50 per cent of mine. He wants me to marry him and quit work and have a family.

Am I wrong to want to maintain the high standard of living to which I have grown accustomed? I can do without him. Please advise. --SARA

Dear Sara: Since your principal interest in life seems to be to enjoy a high standard of living, tell the fellow no. It would be a dirty trick to marry him. And I hope you and your standard of living will be very happy.

Dear Ann Landers: I started to write to this boy in the service. He saw my picture in a high school paper. Jerry was a real brain and I knew it from his first letter. I had to sit with a dictionary in my lap. I was determined to look smart, too, so I got the smartest girl in school to compose "my" letters to him.

Jerry is coming home next month. The minute I open my mouth he'll know I didn't write those letters. Shall I confess right off or try to fake it? — GHOSTED

Dear Ghosted: Confess right off and pray that Jerry has a sense of humor. If he doesn't laugh, introduce him to the girl who wrote the letters.

Drinking may be "in" to the kids you run with -- but it can put you "out" for keeps. You can cool it and stay popular. Read "Booze and You -- For Teen-Agers Only." Send 36 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self addressed, stamped envelope.

If You Were the Judge

Able Bodied Need No Assistance on Bus

Selma, with more curves than a road map, was used to having men wait on her hand and foot. Consequently, she was her old self when she wiggled up to a bus and coyly asked the bus driver to help her aboard. As it developed, however, the bus driver must have had an innoculation against beautiful women since he refused to move a muscle to help her. Indignant, Selma began to enter the bus unassisted and, as fate would have it, she fell flat on her face.

Badly hurt, Selma sued the bus company for her injuries.

"When a person asks to be helped aboard a bus," she complained to the judge, "the driver is obligated to comply."

"Hogwash," retorted the bus driver. "Selma was no invalid. Figuratively speaking she was in pretty good shape. The only reason she fell was because she was looking at me instead of where she was stepping."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit Selma to collect because the bus driver refused to lend her a hand?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! He held that in the event a passenger is blind, sick, aged, very young, crippled or infirm, and the condition is apparent or made known, the operator of a bus is required to render necessary aid in assisting the passenger to board or alight from the vehicle. And, if he fails to do so, or does so carelessly, the bus company can be held responsible for resulting injuries. But, in this case, concluded the judge, Selma was apprently in good shape and the step up was normal.

Nixon's First Vote Hopes Ride On 3 Factors

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon's hopes for a first ballot victory at next week's Republican National Convention appear to depend on some 200 uncommitted delegates, three large "favorite son" states and his ability to hold Southern delegates.

These three factors appeared in an updated Associated Press tally of likely first ballot strength, based on primary results, pledges and firm statements in response to AP polls, which showed Nixon with 547 votes—120 below the 667 needed for the GOP presidential nomination.

Nixon remained well ahead of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, New York, who has 208 and Gov. Ronald Reagan, California, who has 157. Other favorite sons total 264 votes, while 207 are uncommitted. In the past five days, Nixon has gained five, Rockefeller six and Reagan three.

Caucuses are planned by many delegations Monday, including Michigan, Ohio and Maryland, where 125 votes are currently ticketed for Govs. George Romney, James A. Rhodes and Spiro T. Agnew.

On the Democratic side, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey lost 17½ in a week but remained far ahead with 775 of the 1,312 needed. Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy who gained 7 from Humphrey when Maryland's unit rule was rescinded and also gained in West Virginia, has 472½, while favorite sons control 656, the uncommitted delegates total 746½ and 12 are scattered elsewhere.

Senator Long Answers Life Smear

During the last few days, I have been viciously and unfairly attacked. These smear attacks have had nothing to do with the vital issues of this campaign.

Instead, they have been personal attacks aimed solely at my integrity.

So I am making this special report to you because I believe the citizens of Missouri deserve the truth. In every campaign in which I have taken part I have said that if the citizens have the facts they will make the correct decision at the polls.

As many of you know, I have been elected to other public offices, including Prosecuting Attorney of Pike County, State Senator three times, Lieutenant Governor, and twice to the United States Senate. In all the campaigns for election to those offices and in all the times I served in those offices, my integrity and honesty were never questioned.

In my first six years as your United States Senator, no question was ever raised about my honesty and integrity.

But in 1965, I launched a major Senate investigation into wiretapping, eavesdropping and snooping on American citizens.

Just as soon as my investigation began, reports started reaching me that if I kept on investigating, I would be attacked. The word was out that certain Federal agents and big money interests on the East Coast were out to get Ed Long. Word was sent to me, "Senator, you had better quit your investigations if you want to win the next election."

But I had promised you that I would fight Big Brother government before it undermines our democratic system. I felt no price was too high to pay to defend the citizens' rights.

So I kept on investigating. The more I uncovered, the more enemies I made. The more wrongdoing I uncovered in Washington, the stronger the threats against me.

Finally, some Federal agencies and other enemies I had made joined hands with a national magazine. It is a highly interesting historical fact that many of those who have concerned themselves with human rights—particularly if they were Democrats—have always been subjected to attack by this magazine. You will recall Life's bitter personal attacks on Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry S. Truman, Adlai Stevenson, and John F. Kennedy.

Charges against me in that magazine were investigated by the Senate Ethics Committee. Serving on this committee are such national leaders as Republican Senator John Sherman Cooper and Democratic Senator Eugene McCarthy. But, after a thorough study, after hearing all the witnesses over many months, after looking into all the false accusations against me, that bi-partisan committee issued a report which completely cleared me.

But my enemies were not satisfied. They kept right on with the same smear campaign and dirty tactics.

The latest smear involves a St. Louis housing project. The true facts are that when plans for construction of the project were being considered, my office in Washington received a number of complaints from interested citizens, none of whom represented labor union organizations, claiming that the proposed plans would result in higher construction costs and higher rental charges.

This agency, after investigation, found the complaint justified and ordered the plans rewritten, finding that as a result, the taxpayers would be saved approximately $250,000 in construction costs, plus an additional $26,671 per year in operating costs. I offer no apology to anyone for saving the taxpayers money and for keeping rents paid by citizens as low as possible.

These facts were reported accurately more than three years ago—April 11, 1965—by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Life's distorted and erroneous version of this matter, just two weeks before the Missouri primary, conclusively proves this is an effort to smear me and to influence the election in Missouri. On this date—

In 1858, the first trans-Atlantic cable was completed.

In 1861, the U.S. government levied its first income tax.

In 1884, the cornerstone of the Statue of Liberty was laid at the entrance to New York Harbor.

In 1943, in World War II, the British 8th Army occupied Catania, Sicily.

In 1949, an earthquake in Ecuador leveled 50 towns and killed some 6,000 persons.

In 1953, the U.N. command in Korea began an exchange of prisoners with North Korea and Communist China.

Ten years ago—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev wound up a meeting to Peking and rejected a proposal for an EastWest summit meeting within the framework of the U.N. Security Council.

Five years ago — A force of Haitian exiles was reported to have landed in Haiti to try to overthrow President Francois Duvalier.

TIZZY by Kate Osann

"We could go a lot steadier, Richard, if you'd ask me for dates more often!"
